MANY INJURED IN COMMUNIST RIOTS

Some Estimates Say 1000 Hurt In Paris Outbreak

Police Battle Communist Mob In Demonstration On Paris Streets.

LONDON POLICE ALSO CHECK RIOT

U. S. Embassies Are Strongly Guarded To Prevent Any Communist Disorder.

(International News Service)

PARIS, Aug. 24.—Unofficial estimates today placed the number of injured in last night's Communist rioting as high as 1,000, including 100 policemen. Most of the demonstrators were only slightly injured, suffering mainly from bruised heads. The property damage is placed at $500,000.

No Americans were injured, although a number of night clubs in the Montemarte district frequented by Americans were raided by Communists.

Battle Fiercely

Rioters battled fiercely with the police in the Boulevard Sebastopol where they tried to erect a barricade to hold back the Gendarmerie.

Soldiers and police guarded the United States embassy and the demonstrators were not allowed to approach within half a mile of the building.

It was the worst rioting Paris has known since the war. Between 200 and 250 persons were arrested.

Shouting: "Down with the Americans," anarchists and communists broke into theaters and raided cafes, smashing furniture and crockery and driving out the patrons.

Shops Pillaged

Most of the property damage was in Champs Elysees and along the Boulevards Sebastopol and Strasbourg, and in the Montemarte district. This consisted of broken windows, pillaged shops and damaged automobiles.

The number of manifestants totaled 250.

In addition to the Paris rioting, demonstrations also occurred at Rouen, which many of the demonstrators were injured and six were arrested.

A second missile, believed to be a bomb, was found in a subway station today, this time in the Cadet station. It was taken to the police laboratories for examination.

COL. N. J. MAXWELL HERE TO PRESIDE

At the Central Presbyterian church, known in civil war days as White Hall, a most wonderful gathering is being held today when surviving members of the 100th Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry (Roundheads) are greeting their comrades in voices husky with age and tender with memories of former scenes.

Mayor William H. Dunlap, chairman of the civic reunion committee of the famous regiment has arranged a fine program which was initiated this noon with a dinner served by the ladies of the Central Presbyterian church.

Several survivors of the Roundheads gathered around the tables decorated with flowers and the national colors and were banqueted with their friends, relatives, comrades of other regiments and widows of former members of the 100th regiment.

Meet This Afternoon.

After the dinner a business meeting was held with Colonel N. J. Maxwell, of Grove City, president of the organization in the chair. Following the business meeting a program has been arranged which will include addresses by Dr. C. C. Green, superintendent of New Castle schools and Attorney Walter J. Braham. The

HUGE STEAM SHOVEL IS PLACED IN SERVICE AT QUARRY IN CARBON

Largest Steam Shovel In World Used In Stripping In Limestone Quarries Is Now Operating—Will Lift Ten Tons of Earth In One Scoop—Takes Crew Of Ten To Operate Big Mechanism.

With distinguished guests from Harrisburg, Pittsburgh and many western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio towns present, "The Spirit of Carbon", the largest steam shovel in the world used for stripping overburden from limestone deposits, "took off" today on its industrial flight in the Carbon limestone quarries near Hillsville.

For many weeks workmen have been busy assembling this monster shovel and today the officials of the Carbon Limestone Company held a demonstration of what the giant would do. Biting into the hillside with its capacious maw, it lifted out eight cubic yards or ten tons of earth at a time, and then as gracefully as a bird carried its burden high into the air and deposited it yards away from where the limestone will be dug out.

Power House on Wheels

The new steam shovel has been described as a "power house on wheels", and it is just that. Back in what appears to be a power house large enough for a small city is located two 150-horsepower steam boilers which carry 125 pounds of steam when in operation. Three sets of double cylinder engines furnish the power, while the fuel for the shovel is coal, to be taken from a deposit on the company's property. The coal vein is about 1,800 feet long and 30 inches thick. It carries its own electric plant.

Standing inside the power house, one is impressed with its size, its potential strength and the ease with which the machinery is operated. A touch of a lever and the giant swings on its 90-foot radius. Another touch and the bucket starts down toward the earth, and with apparently no effort at all lifts out a load of dirt that would take a crew of workmen an hour or so to get out. Sticking up 40 feet from the roof of the housing are two stacks. The working capacity of the shovel is 5,000 cubic yards of earth per 10-hour day.

The boom which supports the bucket is 90 feet long and looks like the side of a steel bridge, while the buck-

CHECK FIRE IN LUMBER YARD

ESTIMATE LOSS AS NEAR $1,000

A fire of unknown origin shortly before five o'clock Tuesday afternoon caused a loss of approximately $1,000 at the lumber yard of the J. Henry Kline Lumber Company, South Beaver and Bridge streets, destroying a small storage building and some adjoining piles of lumber. The fire may have been started by a spark from a passing locomotive. The loss is covered by insurance.

The fire was discovered in a small frame building used for storage purposes and near Bridge street. Lumber sheds joined it and the flames spread to them.

The first alarm was turned in from box 17 at 4:35 p. m. On the arrival of the assistant chief, H. Clare Stockman, the building was a mass of flames and it looked as though the lumber yard might become involved, and a second alarm was turned in to bring pumps and additional equipment to prevent the spread of the flames.

The two alarms called the Central, Park avenue and Nos. 5 and 6 to the place. With this array of equipment the spread of the flames was prevented.

County Schools Open Next Week In Some Districts

Some Changes Will Be Noted As Pupils Resume School Duties

COUNTY INSTITUTE IS ALSO PLANNED

Sessions To Be Held In Auditorium Of Shenango Township School.

School boys and girls of some of the county districts outside of the city of New Castle will have an edge on their city cousins insofar as getting away to an early start in school is concerned.

County Superintendent John C. Syling announced today the opening dates of the county schools. The following schools will open Monday, Aug. 29: Shenango township, Hickory township, South New Castle Borough, Union township, Little Beaver township, Enon Valley borough, Plainsgrove township.

Others on September 6

These are the only county schools to open on August 29. All others except the Chewton independent school district will open on Tuesday, Sept. 6, the day after Labor Day. Chewton independent will open on September 12th, the delay being occasioned by the new one school which is being built there.

In the Mount Jackson district the fourth grade of the Mt. Jackson school will be placed in the old building, some 10 rods from the Mt. Jackson new school, until the addition to the building is completed.

All teachers in the county force have been signed to contracts, according to Mr. Syling, except one vacancy in Enon Valley and one vacancy in Princeton. These will be filled within a short time, it is expected.

Institute Plans

The county institute, which for years past has been held in the Lawrence county courthouse the week prior to the opening of school, will

Fire Damages Several Stores; Loss Near $12,000

French Shoppe On Washington Street Scene Of Disastrous Blaze Tuesday.

FIREMEN KEEP FIRE IN STORE

Several Adjoining Places Are Damaged By Smoke—Fire Cause Mystery.

Fire, originating in the French Shoppe, in the Graham building, 125 East Washington street, shortly after six o'clock, completely gutted that place, while adjoining places were damaged by smoke to a considerable extent. The estimated loss is near $12,000, and is partially covered by insurance.

The places more seriously damaged are the French Shoppe, of which A. Merow of East Liverpool, O., is the proprietor, and who estimates his loss at $10,000, and only partially covered by insurance; the Graham building, estimated damage $2,000, fully covered by insurance; Hy-Grade Company, 127 East Washington street, probably several hundred dollars damage from dense smoke; Clark Rutter, photographer, smoke damage, and some smoke damage to numerous other tenants of the upper floors of the Graham and Harlan buildings.

The fact that there was a fire was discovered by John Serena, collector for the Hy-Grade store, when smoke began coming into their store from the wall of the French Shoppe. He turned in the alarm from box 28 five minutes past six o'clock.

Second Fire Call of Evening

Owing to the fact that four companies of the fire department had been called to fight a blaze at the J. Henry Kline Lumber Company stock yard on Bridge street by a double alarm a short time before, the Croton department, which had shifted to Central station; the Park avenue company, which had returned to service from the previous fire, and No. 4 company responded to this alarm, with H. Clare Stockman, assistant chief of the fire department. The Central and No. 5 companies arrived on the scene later from the other fire.

When the first firemen arrived the basement of the French Shoppe was in flames, which were eating their way up through the floor to the store proper.

A line of hose was taken through the basement of the adjoining part of the Graham building and the Harlan building, under the guidance of C. A. Rodgers, watchman in these buildings for Smith & Bauman, who are

Rogers Afraid To Tackle Job Of Billy Sunday

(Special To The News)

CRESTLINE, Ohio, Aug. 23.—Passed through Chicago today.

It was raining bad and practically all the shootings were confined to indoors.

A few who had raincoats were outside plugging away at each other, but take it all in all, it was what would be known as a dull day for Dupont.

Had a pleasant hour on the train chatting with Billy Sunday the male McPherson. Billy is a nice fellow and ma is wonderful.

Billy wants to retire and wants me to take over his practice.

I am afraid I would get to defying the devil to come up through the platform some time, and it would just be about my luck that he would come up before the collection.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE IS VIEWING WONDERS OF YELLOWSTONE PARK

By GEORGE E. DURNO

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo., Aug. 24.—Crossing and recrossing the Continental divide, President Coolidge went his way eastward across Yellowstone Park today in quest of new thrills of the sport of angling.

His destination was Yellowstone lake where lurk cutthroat trout, a species new to the president and which promises to tax his skill as a fisherman.

More scenic thrills, of which the park holds an overabundance engaged Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge and son John enroute.

One-Hundred State Police, Deputy Sheriffs And Citizens Hunt For Slayer.

SEVERAL ARRESTED HELD AS SUSPECTS

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 24.—The slayer of Private John Downey of troop A, Pennsylvania state police, who was shot to death Monday by an Italian who resented an order to move following the dispersing of a Sacco-Vanzetti protest meeting at Acmetonia, near Cheswick, was still at large today, although over 100 state police, deputy sheriffs and private citizens searched for him.

Deputies and squads of troopers scoured the hills and swamps and coal mining settlements of Cheswick, Harwick, Culmerville and Springdale.

Major Lynn Adams, head of the state police, directed the helmeted troopers in their search today and yesterday following his arrival from Harrisburg to take charge of the situation. At the conclusion of a 24-hour dragnet the troopers had totaled 27 arrests, all the men being held as suspects in connection with the shooting. State police, however, admit that it is very unlikely that any one of the 27 men is the one wanted, as none answers the description of the slayer of Private Downey.

The suspects were those known to have participated in the demonstration held in the apple orchard near Cheswick Monday for Sacco and Vanzetti, convicted radicals and murderers, who were electrocuted yesterday in Boston.

Officials Probe Attempt To Bomb Railroad Bridge

Second Attempt By Radicals To Bomb Railroad Bridge Causes Rigid Action

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 24.—Following discovery of a second attempt to bomb the Pennsylvania railroad Panhandle division bridge at Mayview, a suburb, railroad detectives were assigned today to make a thorough investigation.

Last week an attempt was made to blow up the bridge with nitroglycerine. Railroad officials disclosed today that later they found dynamite, with fuse attached, under the structure. A trackwalker made the discovery.

The motive of the dynamiters and bombers is unknown, but railroad detectives suspect they may be seeking to interfere with the transportation of coal from the southwestern counties, much of which passes over the bridge daily.

FATHER RETAINS COUNSEL TO DEFEND SON SOUGHT IN DEATH OF HIS MOTHER

Streator, Ill., Lad Is Still At Liberty Although Hunted By Police.

Coroner Reconvenes Jury To Continue Probe In Sensational Case.

By ALBERT F. BAENZIGER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

STREATOR, Ills., Aug. 24.—Elaborate preparations for the defense of Tarry Hill, the former Streator High School cheer-leader now wanted for the murder of his mother, Mrs. Eliza Hill, was begun even before the decomposed body of his mother was unearthed from its shallow grave in the basement of the Hill mansion by Chief of Police William Robb.

New Angle Shown

This fact was disclosed today when it was announced that Attorneys W. J. Jones and former Judge Russell C. Osborn had been retained by Dr. Harry C. Hill, the boy's father, to look out for his interest. It was Attorney Jones who accompanied the father and Dr. G. A. Dicus on the initial search of the house when the newly-made grave was discovered after which the police were called in and the body disinterred by the chief.

Supposedly acting solely in the interest of the father, Attorney Jones has followed in person every step of the investigation conducted by State's Attorney Russell Hansen and the State officials have begun to place a new meaning on the silence of the elder Hill which up to the present time has been attributed to the shock following the tragedy.

Coroner Probes Case

While the State's attorney was preparing to have young Hill formally charged with the murder, Coroner L. D. Howe announced he would reconvene the jury today and call as principal witnesses Peter Busch, the Gardner, who will testify that he was ordered by young Hill to smooth over the spot where the body was found—Alice Sawyer, the young man's sweetheart at whose home he visited Sunday night, William Brydges, the former Streator boy now living in Chicago where Hill left yesterday noon one hour ahead of the police, and Dr. George M. Elsbree, pastor of the Park Presbyterian church where Mrs. Hill and her son attended church.

In the meantime Chicago police have been supplied with the names and addresses of five Chicago girls found in a note book of young Hill by the Streator police and are watching these places in the hope that the boy might try to communicate with his father through them.

Opposition To Sacco-Vanzetti Funeral Plans

Sacco-Vanzetti Defense Committee To Have Bodies Cremated In Boston.

SEEK PERMIT TO STAGE PARADE

State Orders That Bodies Of Late Radical Slayers Be Buried Before Friday.

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Aug. 24.—Because of disorders in other parts of the world, efforts of the Sacco-Vanzetti Defense Committee to stage a monster funeral cortege was meeting with stern opposition here today.

The bodies of the two men, under the law, must be disposed of before sunset Friday, unless the health department issues a special permit.

In view of legal complications and in view of disorders elsewhere, the plans of the committee were tentative. While one group of sympathizers was seeking a funeral permit, another group was arranging to take the bodies from a West End undertaking shop to a hall in the North End in order that they lie in state for three days. Owners of the building housing the Sacco-Vanzetti committee headquarters objected to the use of the building and a hall was sought.

If more than 200 persons are to take part in a funeral procession a permit from the street commissioners must be secured. If the mourners ride police said every courtesy would

Believe Pacific Ocean Will Retain Secret Of Fate Of Seven Fliers

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—That the Pacific ocean will never yield its secret concerning the fate of the seven missing Dole fliers appeared more certain today as the eighth day of their disappearance dawned without a trace of the planes or aviators having been found.

The only note of encouragement was the announcement of the United States Navy that sixteen more vessels were being sent to aid in the search.

False hopes were aroused anew last night when a dispatch from Honolulu stated, a green flare had been observed on the slope of Mauna Kea Mountain, on the island of Hawaii.

Hope that this could have been a signal from one of the missing ships was dashed here when it was learned that none of the fliers carried green flares.

Planes sent out from Honolulu to investigate the mysterious green light, reported that the district abounded in camping parties and that the flare was attributed to one of the campers.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 24.—Aerial enthusiasts today were marveling over the fact that a heretofore bugaboo of night fliers—the unlighted landing field—bowed under the unconquerable force of electrical energy when the hum of a Cleveland-Pittsburgh air mail plane 1,000 feet up in the air closed a switch in the hangar and lighted arc lamps on Bettis field, McKeesport, near here.

From his position in the cockpit of "Miss Youngstown", the Curtiss air mail plane, Merle Moltrup, chief of the mail pilots stationed at Bettis field, was able to switch on four 250,000 candlepower lamps on the airport

Its no disgrace to be poor they say, and maybe it isn't at that, but its darned unhandy to say the least, when a fellow's wallet is flat. For a fellow who's busted is out of luck, as far as the girls are concerned, for it takes a roll when a dance is on, or there's gasoline to be burned. And chicken dinners don't grow on trees, and dancing requires dough, and a girl these days doesn't know how to walk, when she wants to go to a show. No its no disgrace to be poor, I guess, but it isn't much fun, what say, for its money that gets you a lot of fun, its seventy-seven today.

AIR MAIL PILOT FLOODS FIELD WITH LIGHT AND EFFECTS SAFE LANDING

and glide to safety along a path of illumination that was called into existence by the hum of the motor of his own plane.

Thousands of persons had gathered at Bettis field long before the demonstration of the new invention was scheduled. Essentially the function of the new airport lighting device is to use the drone of an airplane's motor to control electrical energy.

At first the energy, which is the drone of an airplane's motor is almost inaudible to the huge "ear" or sound detector which was installed on the roof of the air mail hangar. After the sound passes through the amplification system and through a Knowles grid relay vacuum tube the sound of the motor emerges to a compartment containing switching arrangements. This switch is pulled over by the force of the amplified sound. The switch locks automatically and the flood lights cover the field with beams of light until they are turned off by a field attendant.

Will Save Many Lives.

At the demonstration last night, T. Spooner, Westinghouse research engineer, explained that a mammoth radio loudspeaker constituted the ear of the apparatus. A super-sensitive microphone completed the apparatus. By the time the sound of the airplane motor reached the switch it had been magnified 100,000,000 times, Spooner explained. To guard against any possibility of transient or unrelated sounds other than airplane motor hums, to cause the apparatus to swing into action, Westinghouse engineers invented a time-limit relay and the Spooner sound-selective switch. With the time-limit feature nothing less than a continuous airplane hum will operate the apparatus and light the field.

Prior to the invention of the Spooner device, pilots at Bettis field and at nearly all mail air ports in general were compelled to drop flares to secure proper bearings in their landing operations. According to Westinghouse engineers, the invention will affect a large saving in lives and damaged planes which previously resulted by lack of visibility in piloting machines to earth after dark.

FLAMES FORCE FAMILY TO FLEE

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 24.—Guy Seville, his wife and eight children were forced to flee in their night clothing when fire of undetermined origin destroyed their one-story frame dwelling at Russellton today. The loss is estimated at $4,500.

Firemen from Swissvale prevented the flames from spreading to the Moose lodge and a general store adjoining the burning structure.

Just a few more days and the old controversy of girls wearing knickers to school will be on again.

remodeling it for the use of the Murphy Company, and water was poured in on the original source of the blaze from that point. Another line was carried up over the roof to a skylight in the storeroom and water poured in from that point. In this manner the firemen were enabled to confine the blaze to the French Shoppe, where it started.

Dense Smoke

The fire is believed to have started at a point near the furnace in the French Shoppe basement. A dense smoke was created by the burning of the hat and suit boxes in the basement, which went through the upper apartments of the Graham and Harlan buildings and also into the Hy-Grade store next door.

Some of the occupants of the upper floors did not leave in good time and when the smoke became denser they were forced to the second floor roof at the back part of the building. They were compelled to get to the ground over a ladder placed in Apple Way by the firemen. Those escaping from the building in this manner were Thomas Smith, janitor; his wife and Mrs. Lou Marshall and Miss Catherine McDonald.

Bert Peet, well-known P. & O. street car operator, who resides on the fourth floor of the Graham building, conducts a canary breeding establishment at that place.

Rescue Canaries

He had some 30 or 35 songsters in his apartment and when the smoke became real thick they began to flutter about their cage and show signs of distress.

Mr. Peet and firemen removed them to the fire escape in the rear, where they were able to breathe and none are any the worse for their experience.

Fortunately the fire, by being kept in the French Shoppe, was prevented from doing much damage to any of the remodeling work being done on the first floor of these buildings. The fire did get through the wall between the French Shoppe and the part being remodeled, scorching slightly some of the floor supports and taking off a small amount of plaster on the adjoining wall.

The cause of the fire is unknown. The French Shoppe closed promptly at 5:30 and there was no fire in the place at that time. It was only half an hour later that the blaze was discovered.

HUGE STEAM SHOVEL IS PLACED IN SERVICE AT QUARRY IN CARBON

et handle is 56 feet long. The entire weight of the steam shovel is 350 tons and the cost approximately $120,000.

Ponderous and Expensive

Due to the ponderous size of such a shovel and the enormous cost, limestone companies have hesitated from purchasing such an immense shovel, although ones of similar size are being used in stripping overburden from coal deposits.

For some time the officials of the Carbon Limestone Company have wanted to get a shovel that would strip the overburden away with speed and efficiency, and a Marion No. 300, built by the Marion Shovel Company of Marion, O., was ordered. Twelve freight cars were required to haul the shovel to Hillsville, and a crew of four men will be necessary to work it, with an additional crew of six ground men.

Where it has been necessary to haul away the dirt removed in cars, this shovel carries it far away from the vein of limestone and can pile it 87 feet in the air.

According to Fred O. Earnshaw, the general manager of the Carbon limestone quarries, it is planned to run the shovel two shifts of nine hours each daily. This, it is expected, will strip enough overburden clear so that the supply of stone on hand will be between 200,000 and 300,000 tons in advance of the supply. The output of the Carbon quarries is about 1,000,000 tons of stone for blast furnaces, roads and agricultural uses each year.

1 3-4-Mile Circle

Located as it is, the shovel will have a circle of 1 3-4 miles in which to work without having to be moved from the tracks. The limestone in this district is abundant, being the Vanport seam, ranging from 18 to 21 feet in thickness. The overburden of earth runs from 12 feet to 60 feet in thickness.

When the shovel was being built the officials decided on the name "The Spirit of Carbon", and this name is emblazoned on the boom in letters several feet high. The shovel will be operated by Charles Myers, who was the engineer in charge of erection, and will be the engineer in charge of operation, and Harry Myers. Both of them are experienced steam shovel men, both of them realize that they have a fortune in machinery in their hands, and their selection to run the shovel is a recognition of their ability. The superintendent of the quarries is J. H. Jackson and the general manager, Fred O. Earnshaw, who is playing the part of host to the many visitors at the quarries today. The sales office for Pennsylvania for the Carbon Limestone Company is located in the Oliver building in Pittsburgh, Reinhold & Company being the agents.

Many guests are present today to see the new steam shovel in its demonstration. Representatives of the State Highway Department, county officials from Allegheny county, Lawrence county, Mercer county, Westmoreland county, Washington, Fayette county and other counties of the western tier, as well as officials from border counties along the Ohio state line. Officials of other limestone companies are also present.

The Carbon Limestone Company is an important factor in the industrial life of Lawrence county. Here is quarried and prepared limestone for blast furnace work, stone for road work, and a large amount of agricultural limestone.

The "Spirit of Carbon", giant that it is, is a credit to the Carbon Limestone Company, and a credit to Lawrence county. It is well worth seeing and can only be appreciated by a view of it.

Deaths Of The Day

Mrs. Katila Buried

Funeral services for Mrs. Hilma Katila took place Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock from her home, 614 Forest street. Rev. R. G. Roscamp was in charge of the services. The pallbearers were John, Matt, Andy, Eli, Carl and Mr. Lepisto. Interment was made in Oak Park cemetery.

Phil Jackson.

Word has been received in this city of the sudden death of Phil Jackson of Hubbard, O., which occurred Sunday while on a motor trip through Kentucky.

Mr. Jackson is survived by his widow, Margaret McClain, Jackson, a former resident of New Castle.

Funeral services will take place on Thursday, August 25, at 4 p. m. eastern standard time from the Hubbard Presbyterian church.

Alfred Alson

Alfred Alson, aged 78 years, died this morning at one o'clock at the home of Mrs. Rosetta Southerland, rear 522 1-2 Pollock avenue, following an illness.

Deceased is survived by one brother in England. Announcement of funeral will be made later.

Samuel Kildoo

Samuel Kildoo, aged 64 years, died at his home in Slippery Rock township Tuesday night at 11:40 following an illness of complications.

Mr. Kildoo was a lifelong resident of Slippery Rock township, having been born here April 7, 1863, a son of Samuel and Martha Hogue Kildoo. He was one of the best known farmers of the community. He was a member of the Herman Presbyterian church and Liberty Grange.

Besides his wife he leaves three daughters, Mrs. Edith Gardner of Plaingrove, Mrs. Milton McCracken of Scott township and Mrs. Francis McCracken of Scott township, and two sons, Lloyd and Jesse Kildoo, at home. He also leaves two brothers, William Kildoo of Pittsburgh and L. E. Kildoo of Masury, O., and one sister, Mrs. Martha McCullough of Worth township, Butler county.

Funeral services will take place Friday, Aug. 26, at two p. m., Eastern Standard time, from the Herman church, with Rev. J. I. McGregory officiating. Burial will be made in Herman cemetery.

Mrs. Love Buried.

Funeral services for Mrs. Nancy Love were conducted Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harry Kelley of the old Pittsburgh road. Rev. A. J. Randles, pastor of the Second U. P. church, officiated. Mrs. W. M. Hanna and Edward O'Neil sang during the services. The pallbearers were O. D. Palmer, Harry Kelley, Thomas Wigton, John Birch, John Pringle and Walter Day. Interment was made in Oak Park cemetery.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE IS VIEWING WONDERS OF YELLOWSTONE PARK

Bear Holds Up Party.

Coming also as a diversion was an encounter with Jesse James, famous Yellowstone trail bear who parks himself in the middle of the road and "holds up" passing autos for candy and other sweets. Forest rangers with the party paid the ransom.

At West Thumb, first point reached on the huge lake, which has an area of about 140 miles, Mr. Coolidge came upon another of nature's freaks, "the fishing cone". The lake laps against one side of the road and on the other is a big natural cauldron filled with boiling water. Until federal restrictions intervened, visitors used to be entertained by the spectacle of seeing a fish caught in the lake and, while still on the hook, whipped across the road into the cone and boiled.

Upon arrival at the Lake hotel, where the Coolidges will remain for the night, it was planned to take the executive immediately to Peale island, where he may fish in seclusion.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to thank all friends and neighbors for their kindnesses during the illness and at the death of our wife and mother; also for the beautiful flowers.

OPPOSITION TO SACCO-VANZETTI FUNERAL PLANS

be extended to facilitate the progress of the cortege.

National Figure As Speaker

Some national figure will deliver the funeral oration, under present plans. At that hour demonstrations are planned for other cities. No clergyman will be asked to be present at the funeral here.

Cremation at Forest Hill Crematory was virtually decided upon—the ashes of Sacco to go to his widow and the ashes of Vanzetti to his sister for removal to Italy.

Cites Protest

A plan to take either the bodies or the ashes on a tour of the country was meeting with opposition from cities outside Boston, according to word received by the committee.

To establish the "innocence" of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, to bring about a senatorial investigation of the department of justice and to set up a commission to inquire into the decision of Governor Alvan T. Fuller and his advisory committee will be the object of a national Sacco-Vanzetti committee to be organized at a national conference in New York on Saturday and Sunday.

Boston's great police guard was reduced to a minimum today although a few armed men were still on watch in the pouring rain in front of public buildings.

Powers Hapgood, the Indianapolis Liberal and former Harvard varsity track athlete, who was committed to the Psychopathic hospital at the height of the Sacco-Vanzetti affairs was released and today was planning court action against the state police. Other out-of-town sympathizers of Sacco and Vanzetti remained in Boston for the funeral, although the large legal army had departed.

BOSTON, Aug. 24.—While communist riots were occurring in Paris, and other European cities were reporting pitched battles, sympathizers of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti were meeting opposition here today in securing a hall in which to lay the two bodies in state.

Carpenters, on orders from the owners, put up a barrier at the defense committee building. The Societa Salernitani hall above the mason tenders' union headquarters in the International Hod Carriers' building in Salem street was hired out. When the owner of the building, Mrs. Alice Twig heard of it she had her daughter Alice order a carpenter to board up the entrance to the building.

Pour Concrete At Hospital

With the actual pouring of concrete today on the foundation of the Jameson Memorial hospital, the actual construction of one of the city's greatest public enterprises has been started.

The concrete footers and foundation walls will be constructed as soon as possible, in order that the construction of the major part of the building will not be delayed, as soon as the contract for its construction has been awarded.

Indications are that the contract will be awarded in the course of a few days and that the big building will be well under way in the course of a very few weeks.

Anthracite Coal Prices Advanced

WORTMAN-SHIELDS MARRIAGE NEWS

Rev. T. E. Thompson officiated at a very prettily appointed wedding in the Hopewell Presbyterian church of New Bedford at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon, when Evelyn Wortman became the bride of Paul Shields. The ring ceremony was used and the bridal party included Misses Katheryn, Florence and Ruth Wortman, sisters of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McKibben, sister and brother-in-law of the groom; S. S. Shields, uncle of the groom, and Mrs. F. E. Thompson.

The bride was attired in a tan crepe with corresponding accessories and carried brides roses and delphinium.

Mrs. Shields, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Wortman of Bedford, is a graduate of the local high school of the class of '24 and for the past three years has been a teacher in the Lawrence county schools.

Mr. Shields, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Shields of New Bedford, attended the local high school and is at present connected with the Stambaugh-Thompson Co. of Youngstown, Ohio.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Shields left for an extended motor trip through the east.

Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Fowler of Jackson Center celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Tuesday, August 23, with a dinner in their home. A color scheme of gold and white was attractively carried out in decoration. The centerpiece was a lovely wedding cake in white and gold. Mr. and Mrs. Fowler received many pretty and useful gifts, among them being a purse of gold. One hundred and thirty-two guests were present. The celebration was attended by many relatives and friends from Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Grove City and other surrounding towns. Among the New Castle guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Ansley Fowler and family, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Hough and Mr. and Mrs. Ira D. Campbell.

Bridge and 500 formed the entertainment of the hours. Prizes were won by Josephine Sowersby, Margaret Elliott, Dorothy Klee and Harriet Martin.

Lunch was served at attractively appointed tables later in the afternoon by Mrs. Lindsay, assisted by Mrs. Sidney Smith.

Personal Mention

The Misses Elma and Constance Rickel left today for a visit to Toronto, Canada.

Mrs. Charles Simpson of Pulaski, is a guest in the home of Mrs. Wood of Reis street.

Howard Brown of Croton avenue will start on a tour through Canada this afternoon.

Mrs. A. B. Churchill of Springfield, O., is visiting her sister Mrs. Jane Wood of Reis street.

Mrs. Hattie McGinley of Youngstown is visiting in the home of Mrs. Fred Kimmell on Etna street.

Gilbert Falls, steward at the Elks' club, is now on his vacation and will return at the end of this week.

William Braatz and wife, of Croton avenue, returned last evening from an auto trip through Canada.

Mrs. Russell Micheltree of New York City, is the guest of her mother Mrs. Jane Wood of 412 Reis street.

Mrs. D. R. Byers of King avenue has returned from a two weeks visit with Rev. and Mrs. Charles P. Greer of Chautauqua.

Mr. and Mrs Roy Newton of Adams street have motored to Baltimore where they will visit the latter's brother William Winger.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beyers, and family, of Detroit, Michigan, are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Beyers of the Harlansburg road.

Mrs. Charles O'Brien of Park Way is vacationing at Conneaut Lake. She will be joined Saturday by Mr. O'Brien, clerk at the city tool house.

Mrs. Andrew Kuhn and daughter Dorothy of Port Hope, Canada, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Byron McCandless of Ellwood City last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Houck of Ray street, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. John R. Ellison of North Mercer street, will leave Friday evening for a motor tour through the eastern states. While on the tour they will visit Washington, D. C., Atlantic City and New York City.

Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Herron of Cincinnati, O., will arrive in the city this evening to visit the former's sister Mrs. S. D. Wait of North Mercer street.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Neigh and children of Wheeling, W. Va., are the guests of the former's parents, Dr. and Mrs. F. S. Neigh, of Milton street.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pringle of Tulsa, Okla., who have been guests of Mrs. Harriet Pringle and Mrs. Carl Wilson of this city, returned Tuesday to their home.

Howard Phillips returned last evening from his vacation, which was spent in fishing in Canada. Mr. Phillips reports catching one fish weighing seven pounds.

Mrs. George E. Gilmore and children of Independence, Kan., who have been visiting friends in this city during the summer left Tuesday evening for their home. They were accompanied by Miss Bird Sherrard.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fielding, of Donora, Pa., Dr. Ralph Fielding, of Boston, Mass., and Mrs. Paul Berlin, of Baltimore, Md., who have been the guests of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Womer, of Highland avenue, for several days, have returned to their homes.

Theodore Brookhouser a draughtsman in the employ of the local branch of the state highway department is reported to be recovering nicely after an operation for appendicitis which was performed yesterday at the New Castle hospital.

CONSTITUTION DAY

AS A MEANS of offsetting the anti-American and radical propaganda being put forth throughout the country the National Security League urges a celebration on September 17 of the 140th anniversary of the signing of the constitution. It is calling on the governors of the states to co-operate in making the occasion memorable by promoting public exercises, with particular reference to the schools.

"There is only one way to combat the radical propaganda," says General Bullard, president of the league, "and that is through education. We must give as much attention to the teaching of the fundamentals of our government as we do to arithmetic, writing, etc. Too long have we allowed our children to grow up merely accepting their government as it is, with little or no knowledge of how it came to be and what obligations it demands and privileges it guarantees."

SETBACK FOR FLYING SERVICE

LONG-DISTANCE flights by air are becoming almost an everyday occurrence. But the difficulties and dangers are emphasized by recent experiences.

The Germans who attempted to cross the Atlantic last week were driven back by bad weather, and others who have the feat in mind have not yet ventured to start. The flight race to Hawaii has been accompanied by serious disasters of one kind or another.

So far as the Atlantic goes, a flight west is necessarily more difficult than a flight east because of the prevailing adverse winds.

In view of all these circumstances it is premature, to say the least, to talk of regular trans-Atlantic voyages by air. Passengers could hardly be expected to wait for days for a reasonable prospect of safe arrival.

TOURISTS' ECONOMIC IMPORTANCE

THE importance of the tourist, and particularly the American tourist, to the world economic balance is demonstrated most impressively by the Department of Commerce review of the shifting of international finances during 1926.

The department estimated that about 365,000 Americans traveled overseas and spent an average of $1250, or a total of $456,000,000 for the year. Americans permanently residing abroad were estimated to have spent an additional $30,000,000. Aliens who derived incomes here on temporary visits and took their gains abroad are charged with $60,000,000, though it would appear that most of the money was carried away by foreign laborers and not by lecturers. American tourists in Canada spend $200,000,000 and in Mexico $15,000,000.

In exchange for that we get visitors from abroad who spent $60,000,000, Canadians who left $40,000,000, and Mexicans $15,000,000 here. A total of $115,000,000 from the purchases of foreign visitors might be considered very great if it were not for the immense comparative total of $681,000,000 of American expenditures abroad in the same year.

The difference, however, helps close the gap created by the world's deficiency in products purchased by the United States in exchange for its exports. To a great extent we have been "taking out the difference" in foreign tours.

BEAUTY CONTEST FOR CHILDREN!

A FEW days ago newspapers carried an account of a four-year-old child being selected by her 200 young friends as their beauty queen. The accompanying picture depicted the child crowned with the laurels which accrued to her beauty.

There has been some unsuccessful agitation to have the beauty contest at Atlantic City discontinued, but we still cling to the insane expression of extravagance, to say nothing of the waste of time for all participants.

However, the chief evil seems to be in setting a precedent for the amusement of young children.

If the custom is so widely advertised that even four-year-old children must follow it among themselves to the detriment of their incipient sense values, then it is time promoters of American cities looked elsewhere for advertising.

A scientist discovers that the slowest thinkers live longest. That's the kind of a proposition that can't be proved at a busy intersection.

Another fairly hopeless task is undertaking to convince a foreign visitor that the American dollar buys only half as much as it once did.

Sentence Sermons

By Rev. Roy D. Smith, D. D.

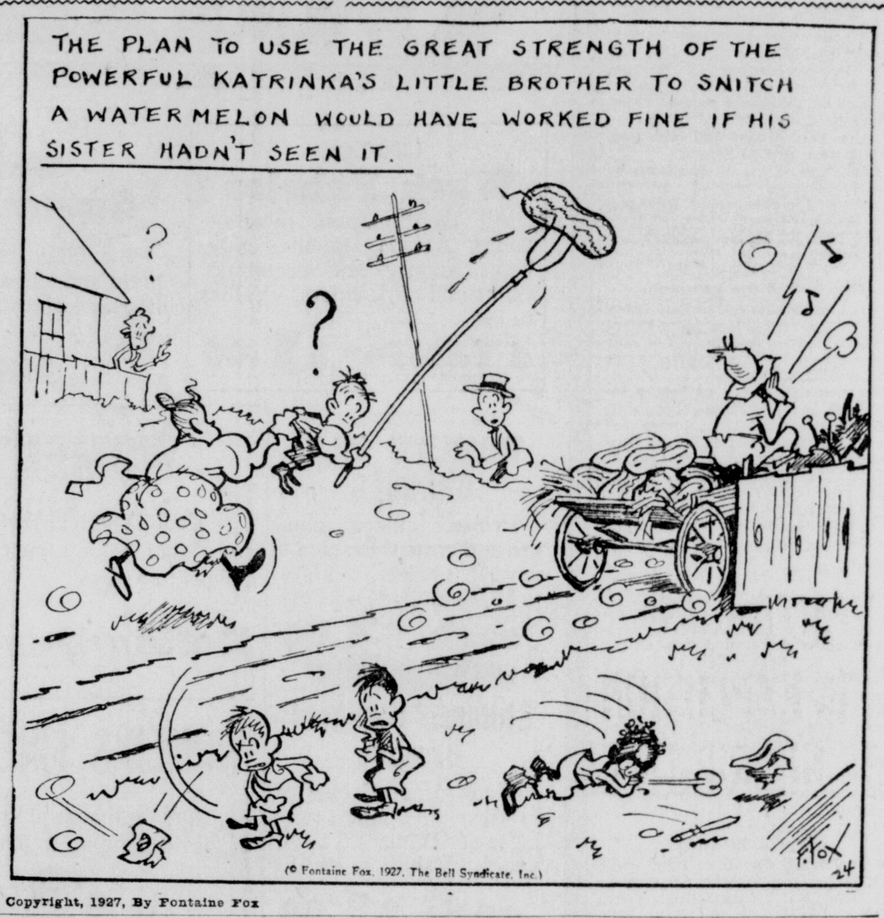

THE ONLY RELIGION—
That is divine is the kind that works in this world.
That can last is the kind that does not get scared at facts.
That really counts is the kind that helps some one become better.
That interests most people is that which promises some hope and help.
That accomplishes anything is the kind that encourages humanity.
That can help people is the kind that makes them respect themselves.
That pleases God almighty is the kind that makes humanity important.

Lord Reay, who has just come of age, has the distinction of being the tallest peer in the world, standing six feet seven and a half inches high. Lord Reay succeeded to his title when he was 15 years old. Dutch by birth, and the holder of a Dutch barony as well as a baronetcy of Nova Scotia, he is arranging to take out naturalization papers in England, since he hopes to sit in the House of Lords as an elected Scottish peer. Before settling down in the British Isles, however, he is to return to Holland, where his mother resides, in order to complete his law studies preparatory to entering the British diplomatic service.

The idea that there is argument in a bomb was exploded long ago.

It took seven years to carry out the sentence of the law in Massachusetts in the case of those two men convicted of murdering a paymaster and that was about six years and 11 months too long. Now if those two murderers who escaped from jail at Pittsburgh can be captured and given the juice justice will feel pretty complacent that it is being fulfilled.

Instead of having gone to the dogs, New Castle is just getting ready to take a big step forward and those who wait and watch and stick will benefit by it. We're not pessimistic, we expect to reap a lot of benefit in the future from a hustling and bustling city. Keep up your courage brother, and stick.

The Reverend Dr. Fosdick, of New York, in whose church nobody ever goes to sleep, says science causes religion to deal "with new ideas in the theoretical realm and with new powers in the practical realm."

The old Bible story, Dr. Fosdick says, "telling stories of men living on flat, stationary earth, with skies and light about and a place for the dead underneath," no longer answers the purpose.

No state, says Dr. Fosdick, will be able to pass laws strong enough to hold back science. He is right about that. The theory that the round earth travels around the sun is more generally accepted, although the man that gave the truth to the world was compelled to deny the truth on his knees and spent years of his old age in prison for contradicting the old Bible story.

Two kinds of good news for automobile owners:

First, you are told that if and when the natural supply of gasoline gives out, synthetic gasoline will be made to take its place.

Second, scientists have discovered a system of bud grafting on rubber trees which should increase the yield of a tree 400 per cent.

It is predicted that the cost of rubber delivered in this country will drop from twenty-five cents to less than ten cents a pound.

Scientists say they can make synthetic rubber as well as synthetic gasoline, but that probably will be postponed, like artificial gasoline, until natural supplies diminish.

A French scientist proves by careful observation that cancer is NOT contagious. To do away with the false, persistent suspicion is a great blessing. Married couples, living together, one the victim of cancer, do not contract the disease from each other, and cannot contract it. That is proved by reliable statistics.

The German ambassador to Washington says the Grand Canyon was the model for America's new style of skyscraper, with its setbacks. A more interesting suggestion is that the Grand Canyon will supply a good model for cellars to be dug under skyscrapers in the future, when flying machines land on roofs and are lowered, for parking, in cellars a mile deep.

Paris dressers, realizing that long hair is "coming in," are buying stocks of "transformations," long hair arrangement for women to wear while waiting for bobbed hair to grow.

Short hair is common sense, of course, and, in time, long hair will be as obsolete as a veil over the face.

Long after men had cut their hair primitive women let their hair grow long, because, matted with grease, it was a good thing and the long hair comes back in cold weather.

Long hair seems "feminine" to men. Women do what men want, and the long hair comes back. It will go away again.

Uncle Sam owes $18,000,000,000 in bonds outstanding. The bonded indebtedness of all the states totals $1,846,000,000. Borrowing by the states, stimulated perhaps by those willing to pay a high price for bonds free of national income tax, has been criticized. But state debts are small, considering the wealth of the nation. Florida, Nebraska and Wisconsin have no state debt. South Dakota has the highest per capita, $85.15. New York state owes the most and can afford to. Central Park in New York City is worth more than the whole state debt.

Half the money borrowed by the states has been spent on good roads, a fact that justifies the borrowing. If it could be said that the other half had been spent on public schools the situation would be perfect, and it wouldn't matter if the states owed a billion apiece.

The Carnegie Foundation has spent years and money most usefully to promote care of the teeth and proper education of dentists. In many cases the poor pay more than the rich for inferior dental work. The number of really good dentists is totally inadequate. Ninety per cent of children at least have their teeth neglected. Neglected teeth prevent perfect digestion and a good blood supply. Infected teeth kill millions through heart disease and other troubles.

Owen Young, an American financial genius, told a meeting in Sweden that business men are fit to lead the world, since "the major problems are economic." He might add that they DO lead the world, in this country, and in a majority of countries. The world's government is BUSINESS government. What was once a humble commissariat now rules armies, generals and kings.

Dr. Crane's Editorial

THE STABLE DOLLAR

It was announced the other day that the representatives of the United States, Great Britain, France and Germany sat around a table at Washington for the first time in history to consider international finance.

There was the president of the Bank of England and of the Reichs Bank of Germany, the deputy governor of the Bank of France, the acting secretary of the treasury of the United States, the governor of the Federal Reserve Board and the governor of the New York Reserve Bank.

Their efforts were supposed to be in the interests of stabilization. They considered proposals for dealing with the inter-allied war debts and other world financial problems.

To a man up a tree the wonder is that they did not address themselves to the most interesting and vital problem today in the world, which is the stabilization of the currency by placing it upon some other basis than that of gold.

There may be technical difficulties in the way of this and doubtless there are. Everybody who attacks the problem seems to be defeated.

Earnest efforts have been made by Irving Fisher, a professor of Yale, in this direction. Others have called attention to the necessity of it.

Gold is at present the only practical basis for the currency. Gold is accepted as such because it is a universally prized article and reasonably stable.

But the gold supply of the world is precarious, to say the least, and it is not a human necessity, particularly.

The human race needs clothing and food. These are the principal necessities of life, and in every country in the world they come from about the same sources.

Why could not there be a balanced dollar resting on a basis of cotton and wool in the way of clothing, and rice, corn and wheat or potatoes in the way of food?

When one of these necessities goes up in price the others come down, so that the teeter board is reasonably stable.

When gold goes up everything comes down and when everything comes up gold goes down.

It looks as if the combined expert intelligence of the leaders of the world, such as were represented at the conference at Washington, should be able to devise some solid basis for money.

A currency could be issued based upon this and be universally acceptable. As it is at present, stability of currency is the great desideratum. Every kind of business needs it. The whole world cries for it. It does not look like an unrealizable dream and the world lays this problem before its gathered representatives.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

TOO COLD TO SWIM

There is nothing that a Californian enjoys talking about more than the wonderful climate of that state. Perhaps the inhabitants of Southern California are the worst offenders. The Los Angeles newspapers are the greatest liars—while calling attention to the dreadful heat experienced by the cities of the East they will gravely tell you that the minimum temperature of Los Angeles that day was 62 and the maximum was 78. The silent thermometer that does not know how to lie, at the same time will show a temperature in the shade of that city of more than 100 degrees maximum—they do not dare expose the bulb of the thermometer to the sun.

The San Joaquin Valley is probably the most productive valley in the state. It extends for several hundred miles in California north from Grapevine, at the foot of the pass separating Southern California from Northern California. It is a very hot valley. Seldom in the Summer time do the thermometers of Bakersfield, Fresno, Merced and Stockton show less than 100 degrees Fahrenheit temperatures, while the sun shines. At times there is registered a temperature as high as 120 degrees Fahrenheit in the shade. There is a cooling wind always blowing, however, from the High Sierras which fringe the Valley on the East, and the valley lying well above sea level, and the temperature possessing little humidity, it is possible for men and women to work intensively in the fields, vineyards and orchards. It is estimated that the products of the Valley will feed fifteen million people annually.

I took dinner recently in a new hotel at Bakersfield. The temperature of the dining room was 68, though the sun was still shining outside. There were no openings from the dining room to the outside air; the whole hotel is cooled by an air refrigerating process which makes life within the walls of the Inn very pleasant. The temperature on the outside of this hotel at that time was 102 degrees. There was an outdoor swimming pool in connection with the hotel, and there were not many persons using it that afternoon. I asked why, and my informant said, "Oh, they say it is a little too cold today in Bakersfield for them to use the pool, the temperature has to be about 115 before they think about swimming."

As a matter of fact, the observer has always found that the great majority of the people overcome by heat are people who are physically sick or who are compelled to live in very unclean, crowded and unhealthy places of abode. The heat death toll is greatest in the crowded tenement districts of great cities.

Energy of Children.

Day in and out the children race
On tireless feet about the place.
On tireless feet they come and go,
And never does the pace grow slow,
And save the chance to trip or fall
They never stop for breath at all.

They never seem to stop for care.
They have not learned the world's despair.
Unnoticed walks the passer-by.
Unseen's the teardrop in the eye;
The children race about the earth
Unchecked by sorrow or by mirth.

The present sport is all they see
From breakfast till after tea.
Fatiguad the grown-up's constant foe.
The little children do not know.
The still sweet hour which are enjoyed
Is misery to girls and boys.

And I, worn out by wind and sun
Who watch the youngsters race and run
Rejoice that God has willed it so,
That care and grief they shall not know.
That having strength to race and run
Life leaves them wholly to their fun

AROUND THE WORLD

We have had great fun, in recent years, telling one another how small the world has grown, and how the fall of a sparrow in the remotest hamlet is noted in the most distant city. Now we have a chance to be modest again. A hundred thousand persons, we are told, are killed by an earthquake in a place called Kansu. Two months later unconfirmed rumors about the catastrophe begin to leak out, in the cities of America. There is still room for improvement in the world's systems of communication. Let no young man be discouraged because of a fear that all the great works have been done.

We hear that there is much dissatisfaction with Dictator Mussolini in Italy. It may be so. But Italians are making more money under the dictatorship than they were making under the chaotic conditions existing before the iron hand took charge. It is my guess that Italy will stand for Mussolini as long as the dictator is able to keep the money rolling in. Democratic yearning is noble, but the bread is fundamental.

PLAN ZINNIA CONTEST HERE

School Children To Have Chance To Display City Flower.

All school children of New Castle know that the Zinnia is the city flower, and they have been engaged busily all summer preparing for the Fall flower show.

No doubt these boys and girls are anxiously waiting for instructions as to entering these flowers and for the announcement of prizes.

The requirements for entering this class are as follows:

1. All entrants must be school children.
2. All Zinnias must have been grown by exhibitor.
3. All Zinnias must be arranged by exhibitor.
4. Any container, vase, bowl or basket may be used.
5. Any number of Zinnias may be exhibited.

Watch for the notice later as to time for entering exhibits.

For this class, the Garden Club is pleased to offer the following prizes: (4 awards to boys) Mrs. Feuchtwanger, book; Mrs. Pearson, 2 dozen Darwin Tulips; Mrs. Martin, book; Miss Reis, book, (4 awards to girls) Mrs. Feuchtwanger, book; Mrs. Greiner, book; Mrs. Ritchie, magazine subscription; Mrs. Kennedy, magazine subscription.

In addition to these prizes, every boy and girl winning an award or honorable mention, will receive an iris root of choice variety, given by Mrs. A. L. Thayer.

It is hoped that these perennials will be the nucleus of many beautiful gardens in the years to come.

Since 13,000 packages of Zinnia seed were sold to the school children in the Spring, one of the finest displays of this flower ever staged in a flower show, is expected.

Report 248 Bears In Yellowstone Park

Count Is Recently Made At Feeding Places In National Park

A total of 248 bears in Yellowstone Park were counted in a recent census at a number of feeding places, and the count did not include all the points along the highways where bears are usually seen. The back country, which tourists do not often visit, also was not counted.

Park rangers, in their survey, counted 174 black and brown braes and 74 grizzlies. The number of black and brown bears includes 41 cubs.

In the report of the rangers, it was said that the feeding grounds for bears at Old Faithful, Yellowstone Lake, and the Canyon are the principal attractions. Seating accommodations have been provided at Old Faithful, and ranger lectures on bears and other wild animals of the park are delivered there each evening by members of the Park Service.

Service Station Robbed Last Night

duty about the United States embassy today following a riotous Sacco-Vanzetti demonstration last night when 50 men and women were injured, two of them being treated at hospitals.

Two thousand police broke up a communist procession in Oxford street, near Marble Arch, arresting several ringleaders.

The clash followed a meeting of between 5,000 and 6,000 Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers in Hyde Park. The demonstrators had threatened to parade through Oxford street and the police were under orders to prevent the parade.

Mounted police made repeated charges into the crowd before they succeeded in scattering the marchers.

TWO CHARGED WITH LIQUOR VIOLATION

Eli Kolcovich and Steve Miller were arrested Monday night at the former's place on the West Pittsburg-Chewton road and taken before Alderman Walter T. Hamilton, where they were charged with violation of the Snyder act. The former has given bail in the sum of $1,500 for his appearance at a hearing to be held Friday, while the latter is in the county jail awaiting a hearing.

Millicent Rogers And New Lover Are Hiding From World

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Millicent Rogers, the former Countess Salm and $40,000,000 Standard Oil heiress, and her new fiance, Arturo Perlata Ramos, after arriving early today aboard the Olympic, were endeavoring in their suites at the Plaza to maintain a barricade against reporters and cameramen.

Though their engagement was formally announced by Colonel H. H. Rogers several days ago, they maintained a strict silence against the advance guard of reporters who went down the bay to meet them.

It is a touching scene to see these few remaining veterans of that war that preserved for us our country as they greet each other. With eyes whose vision is dimed with age they peer into each others face as they grasp each others hands and sometimes it is several seconds before they recognize each other. It is a happy gathering as they chat with their comrades. The women also enjoy their visit as they recall scenes in the homes many years ago when the men were away at war.

Patent Office Flooded With Flying Ideas

Over-Ocean Flights Stir American Inventors To Offer Schemes.

100 Applications Being Made Every Month For Aviation Devices.

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Trans-Atlantic airplane flights have stirred American inventive genius to a state of feverish activity equalled only by the remarkable outpouring of ideas for combating the submarine menace during the World War.

Hundreds of aeronautics patent applications, ranging from schemes to build airplanes to carry a 100 passengers to methods of destroying airplanes when miles in the air, have been submitted to the United States Patent Office and the newly formed military design board.

While most of the would-be inventors are seeking to develop the airplane as an agency of peaceful commerce, many are devoting their time to proposals to make the airplane the supreme arbiter of armed conflicts. Among these proposals are radio "death rays" which would destroy ships in the air and huge armored planes which would be veritable battleships of the air.

Many Applications

Applications for aeronautics patents are being made to the patent office at least at the rate of 100 a month, according to J. H. Colwell, examiner for the patent office. The office is equipped to handle one-fourth of this number. The tide began to roll in soon after Lindbergh made his epochal flight and has reached its zenith since Chamberlin and Byrd winged their way to Europe.

The few words used by Lindbergh to express his fear of the effect of sleet and ice on his machine immediately bestirred scores of inventors to attempt to remove this danger from trans-oceanic flights. Most of the proposals have to do with heating the wing tips and controls through the engine exhaust.

"The greatest effort at this time, however, apparently is being put into ideas to reduce the head resistence of planes and increased engine efficiency thus making it possible to carry greater loads on long flights," said Colwell. "The present type of monoplane was developed from this idea, and the fact that monoplanes were used in the successful trans-Atlantic flights has resulted in a tremendous effort to improve them.

"The large monoplane is in effect a biplane with the struts replaced by girder braces and enclosed within the wing surface. The idea is to reduce wind resistance and the pressure upon the struts by enclosing them.

Originally, he explained, airplane wings were flat. Now they are concave, the purpose being again to reduce resistance and secure greater lifting power. Inventors are seeking to improve upon present types.

Hop Off Problems

Difficulty in getting the big trans-oceanic planes off the ground and the breadth of a flying field necessary for them to land has caused many people to attack the problem. Recently the patent Office granted a patent for a reversible propeller, the new feature of this idea being that the propeller could be reversed until the tail of the plane had touched the ground. Experts realized that while a reversed propeller might stop a plane quickly, a crash would be certain if the aviator failed to change it at the right moment.

Simplification of controls is another principal being attacked. Pilots of heavy, trans-Atlantic planes must exert great pressure to adjust the rudder and ailerons, Colwell explained. ne proposal now made is for a rudder within a rudder, the small rudder to reduce the wind resistance to the larger one and make it comparatively easy to adjust.

Move 10,000 Fish From Drained Lake In Motor Trucks

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Ten thousand fish, little ones and big ones, are going to be moved from Beck's Lake, near South Bend, Ind., to Chain O' Lakes, a pond five miles away.

Beck's Lake is to be drained for a sewage disposal plant. And because the fish are not of the tree-climbing variety or land-walking species, some provision must be made for them.

Seth Gordon, extension director of the Isaac Walton League of America, has solved the difficulty—almost. He declared that the fish must be transported.

Citizens of neighboring cities are to be asked to furnish bath-tubs, crocks, wash-pans and other containers as limousines for the fishes' five-mile joy ride.

"We must place ice in the containers," Gordon explained. "Ordinary lake water would be too warm for the fish to live in by the time the transfer has taken place.

"It would be an easy matter in winter. We could freeze the fish, which wouldn't hurt them at all, and carry them on slabs of ice, but in the summer it's different. We'll have to hire many trucks to carry the pans and bath-tubs."

The lake will be drained by degrees and the fish scooped up by nets. Farmers and citizens of a village near Beck's Lake have agreed to help the project.

Special runways into the lake for motor trucks are to be constructed to facilitate the transfer. Ice dealers announced they would provide free ice for the fish on the journey.

The Way of the World

By GROVE PATTERSON

CONSCIENCE AND CONVENTIONALITY

The old phrase, "let your conscience be your guide," sets forth a fallacy. The conscience of one man or woman may be a sufficient and trustworthy guide. The conscience of another may be a complete failure as a guide. For a conscience can die, or become so nearly dead that only the most shocking experiences can call it back to action. The standards of conventionality, some of them silly and stupid, are nevertheless of the highest value to civilization. They represent the accumulated experience of the race. There are certain things that can be done and cannot be done. Conventionality draws the lines. A sensitive conscience is the great asset in keeping folks on the right track—but it is not a 100 per cent guide.

SENTIMENTAL POWER

Sentiment is about the most powerful thing in the world. Timber experts say it is poor policy to teach children to plant a tree on Arbor day and let them put a tree in the house on Christmas day. True enough—reforestation and Christmas don't work well together. But so long as there is still sweetness and love and light in the human heart Christmas will win. There are some things that rise above all practical considerations.

WORDS, WORDS, WORDS

Read these lines by Elihu Root and be silent: "I think the power of coal saved in our locomotives is a little less than 5 per cent, and the loss is 95 per cent. If there is that loss in the power of coal you may multiply it by 100 to obtain an idea of the loss of the vast multitude of words that are poured out upon the people of America day by day and night by night—words upon words in fogs, and there is not one-tenth of one-hundredth of 1 per cent of them which makes a lodgment and amounts to anything in the minds of which they are addressed."

AS TO REFORM

It is the business of reformers to worry about regulations for the purpose of getting to do things in a better way. Most of us, as we grow older, have less and less desire to make rules for the governing of the habits of others. Of course the great problem of reform is to get people to want to improve themselves. Probably no professional and businesslike organization will ever quite achieve that task.

APPEARANCE DOES COUNT

Experts now say personal appearance shouldn't count for much in deciding among applicants for jobs. Dress and cleanliness are minimized. The fact remains that they DO count and ALWAYS WILL COUNT, whether they should or not.

Corner Washington & Mill Sts. "The Druggists" New Castle, Penna.

PLAYGROUNDS CLOSE FRIDAY

Program To Be Presented In Afternoon At Gaston Park.

The city playgrounds of New Castle will stage a closing exhibition on Friday of this week, August 26.

An approprite program has been arranged by those in charge. This program will be carried out at Gaston Park and will consist of various sporting events, a picnic dinner and other things.

The children of the other five playgrounds will be transported to Gaston Park in P and O busses and Frew Furniture Company trucks. Each child is expected to bring his own lunch.

After dinner the program will be presented. Teams representing every playground in the city will compete for the city championship in most every sport. Pantomimes, athletic stunts and orchestra selections will feature the program also.

On Saturday, the playgrounds will close officially, although the children will be permitted to enjoy the swings, slides and the like that morning. Checking of playground supplies will be done at this time.

This day will bring to a close a successful playground year. The children have enjoyed themselves thoroughly ever since the playgrounds opened and will miss the pleasures afforded by these recreation centers.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

According to the weather bureau at Harrisburg, which has now entered this controversy anent what August has served up to the folks of Pennsylvania, there has been but one normal August day during the entire month, that being August 13. On that date the mercury reached the level scheduled for it.

New Castle folks seem to be taking some heed of the exhortation to put in their winter supply of coal during the present warm weather. Coal trucks are seen rushing to all parts of the city these days.

Have you auto toured yet? Most everybody in the city has, or is yet planning for a trip. If some one could locate along the road between Erie and Buffalo and stop all New Castle cars, there would be some traffic congestion, we would surmise, from the number of New Castle and Lawrence county folks who have hit this trail to Niagara Falls and Canada this summer.

While the city of New Castle provides municipal collection of garbage it is still found that there are some persons who will carry garbage and rubbish under the cover of nightfall and deposit them on some one else's property. It would be a wonderful object lesson if some of these persons could be caught and be made known.

Authentic news that negotiations are under way for the location of a large plant at the car works property in this city is a welcome announcement to New Castle residents.

Mill street curb lights were being given a thorough cleaning yesterday. It wouldn't hurt to keep up the good work on the other curb light systems. And by the way, we believe that higher power lamps should be used in the Washington street system.

Neshannock township must be planning to go back to the little old red brick school system. One of the schools in the township, known as the Mitchell school, a little one-room brick, is being repaired and put in condition, as though it would be used this fall. The school was abandoned several years ago when the centralized school system was adopted in the township.

We would like to see what some woman who is a good housekeeper would do if she were given the job of inspecting some of the places where soft drinks are sold in this city, especially with respect to the way the "dishes are washed" at these places. In some of the places the same water seems to do for cleaning dishes for half the day. In many of the soft drink places, cleanliness is well observed, but in some there is room for much improvement.

There's nothing like a fire to attract a crowd. Several thousand citizens must have been congregated during the time that the firemen were battling the blaze on Washington street early Tuesday evening. And at that no fire could be seen by the spectators. But there was plenty of smoke and chance of excitement. Youngsters in the crowd took occasion to inspect the fire apparatus during the stay at the fire.

That man is the most imitative of all animals can easily be seen by anyone who rides the local street cars. And sometimes his imitative qualities will lead him into situations many and varied.

Last evening a late car from Cascade park was crowded. Suddenly it was noticed that everyone began to yawn. Little mouths opened, big mouths opened, as muscles stretched. Some of the people had the grace to try to cover their oral apertures, others were content to let nature take its course, without any sham.

But the smiles of two small boys who were standing on the platform with the operator gave the whole thing away. A fiendish glint came into their eyes as each of them stretched, opened their mouths wide and closed their eyes. They had yawned. Then they watched for the effect. Soon their vigilance was rewarded. Everyone yawned.

Again they tried it, and again almost the entire car yawned.

Which only goes to prove what we have said before: that man is the most imitative of animals.

Fire Follows Mysterious Explosion In Latin Section Of Chicago.

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—One entire block of stores and apartment buildings, located in the heart of Chicago's Latin Quarter, was almost completely wiped out early today by a mysterious explosion and fire that followed in its wake.

The scene was Taylor street between Marshfield avenue and Paulina street, a section that has been in constant turmoil recently as a result of Sacco-Vanzetti demonstrations.

Two business houses were levelled by the blast and fire which broke out immediately spread to twelve apartment buildings. Firemen and police are searching the ruins for bodies, it is not known whether there was any loss of life.

Authorities, after a hasty investigation, are unable to determine whether the blast was due to a bomb, possibly set by anarchists as a protest to the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti, or was due to some other cause.

County Christian Endeavor Society To Give Musical

Event Will Take Place Friday Evening, September 29, In First Christian Church

Full details have been completed for the musical program to be given Friday evening, September 29, in the First Christian church of this city by the members of the Lawrence County Christian Endeavor Society.

The program will include instrumental and vocal duets and promises to be very entertaining. Each society throughout the country is expected to furnish one number.

The following numbers will be given: Saxaphone duet, Enon Valley Presbyterian; trumpet duet, Central Christian Society; mixed quartet, Hopewell Presbyterian; saxaphone solo, Central Presbyterian; vocal duet, Westfield Presbyterian; piano solo, Bessemer Presbyterian; violin duet, Wampum Presbyterian; vocal duet, Pulaski Presbyterian; vocal trio, Plaingrove Presbyterian; piano solo, Reformed Presbyterian; vocal solo, Mahoning Presbyterian; quintette, First Christian; violin solo, Princeton Presbyterian.

FINAL ACCOUNT IN BANK CASE WILL BE FILED

Final account in the case of the defunct First State Bank will be filed in the course of time and a third and final dividend of two or three per cent declared for the benefit of the depositors of that bank, it was stated today by Attorney Robert L. Wallace, counsel for Secretary of Banking Cameron, who has charge of the affairs of the bank.

When this final account and dividend will be made depends entirely on when present suits for the recovery of an assessment on certain bank stock of the institution, have been completed and decided. It cannot at this time be stated when this might occur.

The depositors of the bank have received a total of ninety per cent of the money coming to them and the final dividend will make this amount reach ninety-two or ninety-three per cent.

At the first glance of a cross-eyed man "applause" and "applesauce" look much alike.

Legionnaires At Battle Fields To Find War Ancient History

(International News Service)

PARIS—The soldiers of the American Legion who make a visit to old battlefields this year will find that already, the Great War is fading into ancient history.

The wide, smiling fields with their good crops and new, modern homes, have little to do with the places of horror they once knew. It is almost impossible to find the traces of the old front-line in any place for one can't trample down the wheat or oats. And where the German line once ran peaceful cows lie chewing their cud.

Year by year trenches are falling in, parapets washed away and dugouts collapse and disappear completely. Great shell-holes are slowly filling in and young bushes and trees beginning to hide the burnt stumps. The yards and yards of barbed wire have been rolled up and everywhere throughout the battle area the fences of farm and garden are made of it, rushed and twisted, sometimes only half-straightened out. Ragged sheets of corrugated iron are put to a thousand uses, and among the spick-and-span new buildings are used for chickens, children's playhouses, garages and stables. Some of them boast a new addition of corrugated iron and many of them have roses climbing over.

Of course there are a few areas which still remain in their original condition, as on the Vimy Ridge in the Railway Triangle behind Arras, and the dreadful stretch by Thiepval to Beaumont Hamel, and for several kilometres around Verdun. On the Ridge the ground has been purposely left untouched to the glory of the Canadians and Highlanders who fought there ten years ago. And in the Triangle where perhaps more Germans met their death in 1917 than at almost any other place, there really is no purpose to which the land can be put.

The fourteen thousand graves in the American Cemetery at Romagnes, near Verdun, and the recently-inaugurated memorial arch to the Pennsylvanian regiments at Varenne, not far distant are certain proof that there was heavy fighting in these parts. Then everywhere, the scavengers of the battlefields in gangs of two or three are still at work. They have a long iron rod sharpened at the end with a T-shaped handle like that of a garden roller, with which they probe into the loose earth. They know by experience when the instrument hits metal and then they attack the spot with the great hoe-like spades of the French worker. There are still many accidents from unexploded shells and hand grenades but the rewards are high enough to justify the risks.

American Citizen Introduces Jazz To French Town

Sleepy Little Town Of Barbizin Wakened By Strains Of Jazz Music

By ALICE LANGELIER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Aug 24.—An American has brought jazz to Barbizin, the sleepy little town on the edge of the forest of Fontainebleau, where Millet painted his celebrated "Angelus".

Alf Grand, the proprietor of "Tumble Inn", is the nephew of Sarah Grand, who wrote "The Heavenly Twins", and was born in England of very pious parents. Alf ran away from home when he was 17 and one day turned up at his uncle's home in Philadelphia. His days since that time have been full ones and he had a hand at everything untitl one day found him at Barbizon, where he decided to establish a home of good eating.

He leased an old stone barn such as can be found only in France, and transformed it into "Tumble Inn". He left the old walls just as he found them, but improved the interior. There is a delightful lounge-bar where one can drink the most delicious mint julep ever dreamed of, and a lovely garden of flowers and vegetables which are picked just before they are cooked.

Maryland chicken, corn fritters, clam chowder, lobster a l'American are only a few of the American delicacies Alf and his charming wife prepare for any people of any nationality who happen to come along. They can satisfy anybody's appetite and almost by magic, between one or two appetizers, Madame, who does the real "home-cooking", always comes in a moment to smile and shake hands—unless they are in dough because of some delicious apple pie someone has ordered.

"Too much salt is at the base of nearly all the maladies of old age," declares Dr. Jean Bouchon, one of the best French surgeons. "It pickles man's organism just as it does pork or cucumbers."

Salt, according to this doctor, causes arteritis, hypertension, uremia, heart trouble, asthma, catarrh and serious constipation. Salt also provokes bad headaches, wakefulness, that tired feeling so many have and wonder why they have it. Finally, salt is the real reason for three-fourths of the rheumatic troubles one finds among persons hovering around 50.

A certain amount of salt is necessary, but very little, Dr. Bouchon says, and this little should be diluted in milk. He advises everyone to get the habit of the "milk appetizer", a glass of good milk before every meal which will receive the salted food and make it harmless to the system.

"Drink a large bowl of milk before going to your next banquet," the French doctor advises, "and you will find yourself feeling better than ever before. Chew a little gum afterwards, too.

"Do away with the salt-cellar on your tables. The cook will put enough salt into beefsteak and potatoes and remember that nearly all green vegetables contain a certain amount of natural salt which is the best of all. Remember, too, that Moses from Mount Sinai ordered the Hebrews to eat unsalted bread during Jewish Easter."

Paris policemen are beginning to learn English in earnest in order to be able to direct the thousands of English and American tourists swarming through the city's streets. Monsieur Jean Confida, one-time English professor to Myron T. Herrick, American ambassador to France, and special interpreter to the American Expeditionary Forces, has been engaged to help the gendarmes through their grammar. He intends to give them 20 lessons, having them learn 60 words each day, and feels that after a short time they ought to be able to "speak English" with almost any bewildered traveler.

Ask your druggist for genuine RAHNOUS PRESCRIPTION (pronounced ron'nus)—it's the original capsule treatment that has saved thousands from misery and the expense of costly vacations. Absolutely harmless—free from narcotics—gets quick and positive control of pain and sneezing spasms and "makes life worth living." 50c, $1 and $2.50. Sold by Druggists everywhere.

EDENBURG

FAMILY REUNION

Descendants of David and Eliza Jane Toy met for their first reunion at the homes of L. L. Toy and William Toy at Edenburg Saturday, August 20th. David R. Toy was appointed chairman after which he led in prayer. Dinner was served at noon on the lawn by L. L. Toy assisted by his daughters Mrs. Pearl Clemments, and Mrs. Kate Murdock after which the chairman called a business meeting. At this time the chairman David R. Toy gave a very interesting address. Short addresses were made by L. L. Toy and others. A recitation was given by Mrs. Pearl Clements. A motion was then made and carried to organize and hold a reunion yearly. The following officers were appointed to serve the coming year. L. L. Toy, president, A. H. Vensel, vice president, Wm. Toy, secretary. Meeting closed by singing the Doxology, and repeating the Lord's Prayer, after which the day was spent in social chat and out door sports. Members and friends of the family were present from Pittsburgh, Verona, Ford City, Adrian, New Kensington, and New Castle. Forty seven were present.

WILL ABANDON LOGGING ROAD

Eighteen Miles Of Railroad In Elk And McKean Counties To Be Abandoned

By GEORGE H. MANNING
(Washington Correspondent of the News.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 24.—Complete abandonment of 18 miles of railroad in Elk and McKean counties, Pa., was authorized today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The line extends from 1.2 miles from Johnsonburg to the end of the line at Clermont. It is owned by the Johnsonburg Railroad Company and operated by the Pennsylvania as agent. It was originally built as a logging road but all the merchantable timber has been cut and the land is declared not suited for agriculture. The T. H. Quinn and Company at Straight and the Elk Tanning Company at Instanter have been furnishing about 95 per cent of the road's traffic but both plants are now being dismantled. A highway parallels the line and parallel lines of the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh and the Pittsburgh, Shawmut and Northern are not far distant. No objection to abandoning the line was made before the Commission.

The 1.2 miles of line near Johnsonburg are proposed to be operated by the Pennsylvania as an industrial branch.

"Are your children thoughtful of you?" asked a neighbor.

"Oh, very," beamed the mother. "When they get home in the morning they always bring in the milk and put it in the icebox for me."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Make Your Own Skin Whitener with Lemons

The juice of two lemons squeezed into a bottle with Orchard White, will soothe sunburn, and clear up freckles, tan, discolored skin quicker than anything you can buy already prepared, and it doesn't cost you near as much.

Any druggist can sell you Orchard White, and it only takes a minute to mix it with the juice of two lemons. Then you have enough to last you all season.

It makes a delightful lotion which you can put on your face, neck, arms or hands at any time, and it will keep them nice and white. Mix a bottle now, so you will have it handy to use should your skin begin to turn dark, or rough.

WILLOWS, Cal., Aug. 24.—Sam Reid, star boarder at the Glenn county jail, world's champion "alimony martyr," and a red-haired young man who has had quite a disturbing influence on politics hereabout, is at it again.

Not content with costing county officials several thousand votes and many sleepless nights, Reid has determined to reopen his crusade for "freedom without concession" by appealing to Governor Young.

Linking with his clemency plea a request that the state make a thorough investigation into the reasons for his martyrdom, the 32 year old apostle of "equal rights for men" will petition the governor for a full pardon.

"Someone is acting loony in this case, and I'm not the man," Reid told International News Service today. "A jury of alienists has adjudged me perfectly sane. I can and I won't pay. I can be free and I won't be free. What's the reason? Surely it is time the state makes an investigation before my board bill mounts to the size of the war debt."

Third Year In Jail

Reid, now entered on the third year of his self-imposed imprisonment is adamant in his resolution not to contribute to the support of his child while she is left in the custody of his former wife, who has re-married. He also stands pat on his original challenge of "Not one cent for alimony," but that feature of the celebrated case has been solved by his ex-wife's remarriage.

In his letter to Governor Young, the "alimony martyr" declared he will present a complete review of the famous case, which began in February, 1925, when Reid was ordered by Superior Judge Claude F. Purkitt to pay his former mate for the maintenance of their child, and refused. He will submit his record as a soldier overseas and his record at home as a prosperous farmer. He will present evidence which he claims proves his contention that his former wife should not be entrusted with the care of their daughter.

As further evidence of his good faith, Reid declared he will agree to pay more than four times the amount for the support of little Zada May Reid required by the court. But he will pay it only "on condition that my daughter is placed in a good Christian home." Mrs. Anna L. Saylor, newly appointed chief of the State Department of Social Welfare, will be asked to investigate the case.

Political Issue

Reid today is the biggest political issue in Glenn County, according to his friends here. One country official went down to defeat at the polls recently as a result of his imprisonment, they say, and Judge Purkitt is declared to be facing almost certain defeat at next year's election unless "the white elephant in the county jail" is released.

While county officials argue the matter and seek vainly for a solution, Reid is working for the overthrow of "unjust alimony laws." He has joined the Alimony Payers' Protective Association, a national organization composed of those who believe that "It is the man who pays and pays," and is working through that association to break down the present system.

RUSHING WORK ON BUILDINGS

Both Main Structure And Dormitory Going Up Fast At Westminster.

OTHER NEWS NOTES OF COLLEGE TOWN

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Aug. 24.—With both of the construction companies working at top speed the walls of the new college buildings here are going up very rapidly. Especially has there been a big advancement in the work on the "Old Main" Memorial structure, the stone for which is being hauled from Neshannock Falls quarry. This stone has a very beautiful shade and promises to make a majestic new "Old Main".

While the work on the "Old Main" Memorial structure is moving fast, the advancement toward completion of the new college dormitory is keeping pace. The brown limestone walls of the "Robert Audley Brown Hall" are already reaching above the first story of the building and the iron uprights serve now as a landmark of the structure to those coming into town over the hill.

NEW WILMINGTON NOTES

An embryonic reunion of the Herriott family took place here yesterday in the picnic enjoyed by the local members and relatives.

Mike Wherry, former Westminster football star and now a successful coach, visited here Monday and spoke at the local Rotary meeting.

Professor "Johnny" Lawther, professor of psychology and head coach of basketball at Westminster, arrived in town after spending the summer studying at Pitt summer school.

Leaving here yesterday Thomas Mansell, a local college student, will spend two weeks' vacation at Cape Cod, Mass.

Jim McQuiston, Westminster three-letter man in athletics, sends word from his fishing camp near Philadelphia that Cal Coolidge has nothing on him. He will be back in town for the beginning of the football training camp September 1.

Rome Fliers Chaf At Weather Delays

(International News Service)

CURTIS FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 24.—With a hurricane reported nearing New York, Pilots Lloyd Bertaud and J. D. Hill faced another delay today in their flight to Rome and return in the monoplane Old Glory. Chafing under the recurrence of adverse weather conditions, the pilots discussed the feasibility of using charcoal burners to dry out the runway on the field in order to hasten the take-off.

If you can't be wise you can at least laugh at those who are.

Trap Shooter In National Tourney Makes Perfect Score

(International News Service)

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 24.—The third day of the grand American tournament of the American Trapshooting Association opened here today with Guy V. Dering, president of the association, leading the field with two perfect scores of 200 each. Dering lives in Columbus, Wis.

Dering won the clay target championship late yesterday after winning the class B crown the day before. Just before the close of Tuesday's competition, a storm wrecked the tally boards and chased the scorers to cover, though not until Dering's competitors had missed one or more clay birds.

Mrs. Harry Harrison, Rochester, N. Y., won the women's championship of North America with a score of 192. W. P. Jenkins, 15, Orleans, Ind., won the junior championship with 98 out of 100, and Howard Kiefer, 14, Orville, O., won the sub-junior palm with 95 out of 100.

Sharpshooters who finished second to Dering with 199 Tuesday will shoot it out today for second and third money. They are G. E. Payne, Tulsa, Okla.; C. B. Wells, Memphis, Tenn.; G. T. Peters, Phoenix, Ariz., and W. S. Hoon, Jewel, Ia.

Msr. C. Pike, Kent, O., finished second in the women's event with 189, while Mrs. J. W. Phillips, Bartlesville, Okla., and Mrs. Walter Andrews, Atlanta, Ga., will shoot off a tie of 187 for third money today.

Moose To Name Officers Today

Broad Extension Of Order Looked For In Next Two Years By Secretary Davis.

SPONSOR EDUCATION IN MOOSEHEART HOME

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—Out of the sessions of the 39th annual convention of the Loyal Order of Moose meeting here this week is expected to evolve a number of proposals that will lead to a broad extension of the activities of the order, leaders of the organization intimated today.

Under the director-generalship of Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, the order has grown from a membership of 246 to upwards of 600,000 in the past 21 years and the membership roll is still increasing. Secretary Davis predicts a total membership of a million within the next two years.

Mooseheart, the home for orphans of the members, and Moosehaven the home for aged members are to be the seats for a broad education program which will enable members and their families to secure higher learning through various branches established throughout the country, according to tentative plans. The proposals also call for social work among the various lodges.

The officials of the order for the coming year are expected to be named at today's sessions.

Miss Cora Ritchie Speaker At Young People's Meeting

Interesting Program Arranged For Sunday Afternoon In Y. W. C. A. Parlors

Miss Cora Ritchie, secretary of the Y. W. C. A. of this city will be the principal speaker at the meeting of the Young People's Council, Sunday, August 28 at 2 p. m. in the Y. W. parlors.

Harriet Truby acting superintendent will preside. The theme will be "Let No Man Despise Thy Youth," and the motto "Leadership Training."

Henrietta Campbell will lead the devotionals and Frank Brenneman, song leader with Katherine McLaughlin at the piano. The registration committee will be composed of Lyle McGrath, Marie Wilson, Charles Shaffer and Margaret Henley.

Separate sessions will be a feature of the afternoon with four young people speaking for four minutes on the four fold life. These sessions will be in charge of the presidents Clarence Bratschie and Rebecca Gwin.

A talk on the summer training camp at Kiski will be given by John Weyrick, also a number of the delegates who attended the Epworth Institute at Meadville, will tell of their experiences while there.

A solo number by Margarite Palmer and orchestra selections under the direction of Al Bauman, Jr., will be given.

On Friday evening, August 26 all the committees in charge of the annual picnic which will be an event of Friday, September 2 at Kennedy's Mills, are asked to meet at the home of Claudia Boughter of 510 Moody avenue. The orchestra will also meet to practice at this time.

In the old days preparations for an extended tour commonly implied a bag of hay behind the seat and a bucket of oats tied to the axle.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

BY MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT

I am recommending that you get a fair-sized ham—the weight, of course, depending on the size of your family. That you broil or fry two or three slices, then boil or bake the rest, and serve hot, then cold sliced, and finish it in various ways, such as ham omelet, stuffed peppers, salads, etc. In this menu we bake the ham and serve it hot.

Baked Ham — Baked Potatoes
Browned Parsnips — Radishes
Lettuce and Cucumber Salad
Berries — Filled Cookies — Tea

Today's Recipes

Filled Cookies—One cup chopped raisins, one-half cup sugar, one-half cup water, one tablespoon flour. Boil till thick. This makes the filling for cookies. In a bowl mix one cup sugar, one-half cup shortening, one egg, one-half cup sweet milk, three and one-half cups flour, two teaspoons cream of tartar, one teaspoon soda, one teaspoon vanilla. Roll thin.

Suggestions
Important Trifles

Keep olive oil in the refrigerator.

Lingerie clasps may be made at home by attaching little rosettes of ribbon to tiny safety pins.

Perspiration stains may be removed from white clothes by dampening the article with lemon juice and salt before the clothes are put into soap and water.

The shine on shoes will last longer if a piece of ordinary wax is rubbed lightly over the shoes after polishing them and then rubbed smooth with a soft cloth.

Less sugar will be required in cooking sour fruits if a pinch of bicarbonate of soda is added to the juice.

In creaming butter and sugar for a cake a little hot milk added will aid the creaming process.

Do not have the pan more than three parts full when making jam or jelly, otherwise there will not be room enough for the mixture to boil as it should.

To prevent the formation of a hard crust on top of bread brush it over with butter or oleomargarine as soon as you remove it from the oven.

MENU HINT.

This time of the year when one wants to be out of doors a great deal and begrudges time spent in a hot kitchen preparing meals a good plan is to buy a fair sized ham, have a few slices cut off for frying or broiling and boil or bake the rest. It can be served in various ways besides sliced hot and cold. In the menu following a slice of ham is cooked on casserole with peas and potatoes

Potatoes, Peas and Ham en Casserole
Lettuce with Sour Cream Dressing
White and Rye Bread Butter
Fresh Berries or Fruit Crumb Cake
Milk.

Today's Recipes.

Casserole Dish—Peel potatoes, slice thin and put a layer in the bottom of greased baking dish. Salt and pepper and a thin sprinkling of flour. Next a layer of cooked peas, than on the top a layer of ham sliced in small pieces. Cover all with hot milk and bake in oven about one-half hour.

Crumb Cake—Take one and a half cups brown sugar, half cup butter and two cups flour. Mix all together with finger tips as you would pie crust. Save out three-fourths the rest, add one egg, well beaten; one cup of sour milk and one teaspoon of soda. Bake in flat pan with crumbs on top.

Sour Cream Dressing—One cup sour cream whipped; three-quarters teaspoon salt, dash of paprika. To the freshly-whipped cream add a little lemon juice if you wish putting it in drop by drop. Then add salt and paprika. A wheel egg beater is good for the process. Chill thoroughly. Do not let stand too long.

Bisque is a clear broth with a spoonful of whipped cream on top.

Corn Crop Smallest In Twenty Years

Such Is Report For State As Given Out By Department Of Agriculture

Unless the weather is very favorable early in September the corn crop will probably be the smallest since 1909 according to the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. Yet the hay crop with one exception is the largest since the Civil war.

Because of the unfavorable spring the acreage of corn planted is the smallest since 1899. The wheat crop will be about 3,700,000 bushels below the five year acreage, 1922-1926 while the oats crop will be more than 2,000,000 bushels above the five-year average.

The acreage of wheat planted is the smallest since the Civil war while the acreage in oats is about the same as last year and only 12,000 acres under the average for the past five years.

The total apple crop will probably be the smallest since 1921 and the commercial apple crop will likely be about 333,000 barrels less than the five-year average. The peach prospects indicate a crop of 932,000 bushels more than half of the average for the past five years.

VON ELM LEADS IN GOLF PLAY

(International News Service)

MINIKAHDA COUNTRY CLUB, MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 24.—Youth bowed to age, experience and ability in the first round of the national amateur golf championship this morning when George Von Elm, the playing-through champion, won by 3 up and 2 to play from John McKinlay Jr., Chicago.

The titleist never was "down" from the moment he got a birdie 3 at the first hole, and played the match comfortably and well within his capabilities.

He was two strokes over for the first nine holes and when McKinlay's par 3 was not good enough to win the 11th the end of the match was well in view. The Chicagoan's 6 on the long 13th merely hastened the end, although John staved off the inevitable temporarily by winning the 15th.

Man Well Loaded With Ammunition Is Under Arrest

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Seized by detectives of the bomb squad after a zig-zag chase along subway tracks and third rails and between passing trains an elderly man, charged with possession of a large bundle of criminal tools, weapons and a list of prominent persons, was sent to Bellevue today for observation.

He was questioned at police headquarters regarding the recent bombings in the Twenty-Eighth street stations of the Interborough and B. M. T. Lines, but answered incoherently, police said.

The prisoner said he was John N. Netzie, a night watchman, of Brooklyn.

Arrest 5 Officers Of Carnegie Lodge On Liquor Charge

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 24. — The steward and four members of the house committee of the Carnegie, Pa., lodge of Elks were ordered held for court in bond of $500 each today by United States Commissioner Roger Knox on a charge of possessing liquor. Two prohibition agents raided the lodge on August 2 and confiscated 97 quarts of alleged whiskey.

Those held were Andy Twork, steward J. E. Magee, John A. Reusher, A. R. Foster and W. A. Smith, members of the house committee.

Church Review Publication Is Near Completion

Historical Review, being published by St. Mary's parish, in commemoration of the dedication of the fine new church of the parish and also the 75th anniversary of the parish, is now nearing completion, it was announced today by Rev. Fr. Frank S. Clifford, who is editor-in-chief of the publication.

It will be out of the hands of the printer in a few days and all ready for distribution on Labor Day, Monday, September 5 on the occasion of the dedication.

It is without doubt one of the finest publications of the kind ever presented to the public here and contains scores of fine pictures as well as much data of historical interest here.

Publication of the book was made possible through the generosity of patrons and patronesses who have sponsored in a generous manner the issuing of the book by donations made for that purpose.

As the book is civic in character and not a parish effort alone the list of patrons and patronesses represents every race and creed. In a short time it will be impossible to become a patron or patronessess of the book and in order to get in on the project a move must be made without delay.

Leaders Of Both Parties In Senate Loom Largely In Coming U. S. Events

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Senators Charlie Curtis of Kansas and Jo Robinson of Arkansas, respectively Republican and Democratic leaders in the upper house of congress, have been in Washington a good deal lately, making rival brands of political medicine for the coming session.

Both are presidential possibilities—Curtis very slightly so—Robinson a little more noticeably, though not in a violent form.

Curtis actually was in the running for the vice-presidential nomination in 1924. There was a spell when things looked as if he really might get it. Perhaps he could if he'd made a hard fight, but probably it was no great temptation.. He's a bigger guy on the floor than he'd be in the chair.

They say Charles has some Kiowa blood and Indians proverbially aren't talkative. He isn't, anyway—at best. He shut up like a clam when told that President Coolidge doesn't "choose" to run again in 1928.

Having stood some chance of being picked for second place before, he automatically graduates into at least a theoretical chance for place No. 1 this time, with Cal out of the way. It isn't much of a chance, to be sure, but the senator doubtless feels that it will pay him to keep quiet for a space, while he examines it thoroughly, such as it is, under a microscope, to determine to the last kopeck just what it's worth.

A vice presidential chance and a full presidential chance are two entirely different things.

Senator Robinson was one of the first persons to remark, when he heard about the Coolidge announcement, that "choose" is a mighty elastic word.

Jo—why he omits the customary final "e" I don't know, but he does—Jo is more of a presidential possibility than Senator Curtis for the simple reason that Democratic presidential lightning is much more erratic stuff than the Republican kind.

Jo is almost as remote a possibility as Charles, but whereas remote Republican possibilities are very seldom struck, remote Democratic possibilities quite frequently are.

Senator Robinson is celebrated among other things, as a great scrapper, and this is no mere figure of speech. Physical jabs, swings and uppercuts are what Jo Robinson lands when he flies mad, and those who have seen him in action say he lands 'em hard.

Out at the Congressional Country club they still regard him with awe, on account of an exhibition of his prowess that he gave 'em on the club golf links a couple or three seasons ago.

There was lots of excitement about it at the time and the upshot was that the senator resigned in a huff, though it wasn't quite clear why he was the one to get sore, for it was the other chap—an eminent Washington physician—who was described as having taken the count.

As for their leaderships, it behooves Curtis and Jo to be on the job good and early, for it's going to be nip-and-tuck between 'em this coming session.

Neither side—the Republican regulars, under Charles, or the Democrats, will have an out-and-out majority.

The insurgent bunch, and Senator Shipstead, who belongs to nobody, and maybe Vice President Dawes, with his tie-breaking vote, will decide everything.

Here's a situation that will take some generalship, especially with a national election looming in the offing.

It isn't beyond the bounds of reason that one of our two leaders, by smooth work at a juncture when so much is at stake, may turn his rather remote possibility into a pretty bright prospect of copping off something politically awful good.

Grape Crop Heavy Exceeds Other Years

How to dispose profitably of the large production of grapes between now and December is the problem confronting grape growers and shippers, particularly those in California, where 90 per cent of the crop is produced. Recent seasonal shipments of fresh grapes have amounted to 75,000 or 80,000 cars. In addition, many thousands of tons must be disposed of locally by drying or other manufacturing process. This season's total grape crop of some 2,500,000 tons probably will be at least 8 per cent heavier than last year's large crop and about 20 per cent above the average production of the last five years. Eastern grapes may be a relatively short crop, compared with 1926, but the California production has been increasing each season. Growers are renewing their cooperative efforts in the handling of this important product. Peak shipments of grapes usually occur in September and October, the weekly movement for a short period sometimes exceeding 10,000 cars. Last year, about 60 per cent of the total output went to 10 large markets; New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Newark, Detroit, Milwaukee and Cleveland. New York alone takes nearly one-fourth the total shipments. A special mimeographed report, "The Grape Market Outlook," may be obtained on request to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Farmer Finds Hulk Of Lost Whisky Ship

Attempt Will Be Made To Salvage Cargo Sunk Over Sixty Years

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 24.—The famous "whisky" steamboat which went down in the Missouri River above Omaha more than 60 years ago, carrying down with it a cargo of first-class whisky, and for which old river men have been searching for half a century, is belived to have been located 14 miles above Omaha on the Iowa side of the stream.

Fifteen feet of the prow of the old steamer is protruding from the river bank where it was exposed by the wash of the heavy rains. The remainder of the old boat is burried under 10 feet of sand, gravel and dirt with some good-sized cottonwood and willow trees growing above the old hull.

Considerable excitement exists up and down the river as a result of the find, and many want to know about that whisky.

And there's the rub. That 10 feet of sand, gravel and dirt, knitted together by the network of roots of the cottonwoods and willows, is frozen into a solid mass which simply cannot be moved by anything less powerful than dynamite. But high explosives cannot be used for fear of starting the seams of the old barrels with the loss of the liquor.

The discovery of the old prow was made by Leo Eckrich, farmer, and the old hull is on Eckrich's farm. For that reason he claims the whole thing, wreck whisky and all.

But George West of Missouri Valley, Ia. 10 miles up the river, is a son of the owner of the "whisky boat" and says that if there is any whisky left in the boat, it belongs to him and to his brothers.

A. C. Anderson, prohibition agent for this district, says the whisky belongs to the finder "if he can get away with it."

Lincoln Framed Talks During Quiet Walks

Made Notes On Envelopes And Developed His Speeches Later

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Boxes of his papers, now safely stored, bear evidence that Abraham Lincoln sought solitude for his thoughts, as he walked.

To visualize Lincoln scribbling thoughts on envelopes on his daily walks in Washington was the privlege of one of the few men who viewed his leters and papers before the death of Robert T. Lincoln removed them from further perusal for twenty years. They show Lincoln's method, the development of his ideas, the fact that his most famous addresses were re-phrased and re-written sometimes four and five times, until they became finished gems of rhetoric.

A scene is reconstructed. It shows Lincoln stopping in his walk to reach in his coat pocket for note paper. He finds none, but finds a number of letters. He takes the envelope from one, tears it open at each end and turns it inside out. There he writes his idea. His walk continues. Perhaps a second envelope would be used a second idea noted.

Back at his desk, he would take a piece of foolscap paper, trim the envelope down to the size of his notation on it, and paste that clipping at the top of the foolscap. Beneath that clipping the idea is developed. The sheet is marked number one. Under it, a second sheet whereupon the original idea is developed and then a third sheet and perhaps a fourth and fifth, bearing revisions. Some sheets have two revisions interlined.

Vets Of Eightieth Meet In Pittsburgh

Thirty thousand veterans of the 80th division are preparing to advance in force on Pittsburgh, to celebrate the 10th anniversary of the organization of the famous Blue Ridge division, from August 31 to September 4.

The celebration has been arranged that those who intend to make the trip to France will have time to make connections with their boats after attending the reunion of the 80th. Those who can attend only the reunion will find an elaborate program for a week's entertainment mapped out for them, which will keep them busy from the moment that they arrive in the city, and at the same time cost them very little.

Desert Sheik Not Romantic In Spite Of Movie Thrillers

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 24.—The popular conception bred of the movies that the sheik is a romantic-minded person who dashes about the desert on a fiery steed kidnapping beautiful women and taking them to wonderful desert palaces is wrong, and very much wrong at that.

Ahmed Bey Hassenein, first Chamberlain to King Fuad of Egypt, who made the arrangements for the state visit of his master to England, has once and for all shattered the popular idea.

"The sheik is not a romantic hero of the desert," Ahmed Bey told interviewers during his London visit. "Contrary to the common belief, fostered by such films as 'The Sheik' and others in which Rudolph Valentino appeared, the Bedouin and Arab sheik is generally quite a poor man, employed in the raising of sheep and camels or in the still less romantic business of transporting merchandise and passengers across the desert.

Only Simple Men

"A sheik is a simple man," Ahmed Bey added, "with simple tastes, wholly uneducated, often very poor. His wife, or wives—a sheik has never more than two—weave their own and their menfolks clothes. They also sometimes help with the animals. Frequently camel meat figures on the daily menu.

"The sheik is the acknowledged head or leader of his tribe—a band of Bedouins who, by rearing camels and sheep for wool and sale, manage to eke out a meager existence. In the Libyan and Sahara deserts a sheik and his followers lead a nomadic existance. They are entirely dependent upon the weather for their living having to pitch their tents whenever there is a fall of rain.

Are Not Nomads

"In the Assyrian desert the tribes are not nomadic. They live in tents on a stretch of land which they own, but in habits and customs they are similar to the Libyan Bedouins. There are however, two distinct kinds of sheiks—the Egyptian sheik, and the Arabian or Bedouin sheik. In Egypt the title of "Sheik" is applied to a man who is conversant with and skilled in the application of Mohammedan law. He is a religious man.

"The desert sheik was originally the chief of an Arab tribe, holding his position by virtue of his superior intellect and mature years. The word sheik means an old man. The title is hereditary, the power it commands supreme."

Lovers of the late Rudolph Valentino and his doings will read this perhaps with mixed feelings, but nevertheless it is the very sad truth.

Zion Church News

The church school held its annual picnic Saturday, August 20. A very appetizing meal was served at noon. The afternoon was spent playing various games and stunts.

Rev. G. W. Gorrell and his wife and daughter Phyllis and Mrs. Gorrell's mother, Mrs. Arnold, have been visiting friends in the community for a few days.

The adult Bible classes will have their next social gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stickel Thursday evening, August 25.

Mrs. Phoebe Book, who has been on the sick list, is much improved.

Mrs. Josie Willihan of New Castle is visiting her brother and sister of this community.

A number of people of this community attended the funeral services for Mrs. David Humphrey on Saturday afternoon.

Rev. Walter T. Defries will close his pastorate with the Zion church Sunday evening, August 28.

Jesse Young and Miss Blanche Pounds motored to Sharpsville last Thursday and were united in marriage by Rev. G. W. Gorrell. Both have been teachers in the public schools and very active in church and grange work. They will make their home in Ellwood City after Sept. 1, where the groom has a position as principal of one of the schools. The best wishes of the entire community will follow them.

Victor Humphrey and Miss Ruth Kennedy of New Castle were united in marriage Wednesday, August 17. They will reside in New Castle. The groom will teach school in one of the adjoining townships.

The public school of this district have been completely overhauled and will be ready for occupancy by the opening date, Sept. 5.

Miss Mershimer of Euclid, Pa., will teach the Zion school.

The men of the community are very busy putting the finishing touches on the new grange hall which they expect to dedicate in the near future.

State Motor Law Queries

Each day a great many Pennsylvania motorists write to Pennsylvania Motor Federation at Harrisburg for information concerning the motor vehicle laws, regulations of the State Highway Department and roads in Pennsylvania. Many of these queries are of general nature. In the belief that the questions and their answers will solve problems of other motorists, the Motor Federation from day to day will publish questions and answers in Pennsylvania newspapers. The one will be found below.

YOUTHFUL DRIVERS

Q. My son is 15 years of age, but he is six feet tall and weighs 180 pounds. He is fully capable of operating a motor vehicle. Is there a way he can be given a driver's license?

A. The state law forbids the licensing of any person who is not 16 years of age. The size or weight of your son has nothing to do with his getting a license. He must be 16 years old. Should an accident occur in which a driver involved is discovered to be less than 16 years of age, the succeeding events will prove so distasteful that parents will regret very much their having allowed a minor to operate the machine. Only very indulgent and very foolish parents permit this practice. It is quite as much against the law as bootlegging or burglary.

PARIS STYLE HINTS

By ALICE LANGELIER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Aug. 24.—Dressing the children is not such an easy affair as it once was, for Fashion dictators in Paris, are teaching mothers that their little tots should be just as chic as they are themselves. And with mother's assistance, the little girl is learning to select jacket, coat or frock with discriminating care and observes that there is unity in color, fabric and beauty in line.

A charming little ensemble, called "Bob" which comes from the Fairyland shop in the rue St. Honore, has a little bolero and pleated skirt in practical navy-blue, while the trimmings and blouse worn with it are of canary-yellow. A pale pink georgette frock has blue fagotting and soft lace ruffles which rise at one side to the shoulder where there is a large georgette chrysanthemum.

Pink is nearly always the favorite shade of many little girls and the Maison de Blanc is catering to this taste. A delightful party frock comes in pink georgette with oval lattice effects which hold pink and blue roses made quite flat and arranged in the skirt as well. Pink organdie makes a ruffled frock piped in bright blue. Cream-colored lace and tucked insets of net trim a smart pink georgette ensemble. The coat collar is built on full sailor lines, while blocked tucks form an enourmous "V" shaped yoke in the front.

Rose taffeta makes a smart coat for the little girl when she dresses up. It has a quilted hemline and ruffled collar just like mother wears on her evening-cape. Electric-blue and rose are colors shown in thick woollen coats trimmed with narrow bands of fluffy fur.

HARLANSBURG

Rev. and Mrs. Mackey and children, Margaret, Garfield and Jean, are enjoying a two weeks' vacation with relatives in Quebec, Canada.

Mrs. Bertha Eakin and daughters, Irene and Lois, visited relatives in Pittsburgh last week.

Rev. and Mrs. Woodin of Hillsville had charge of the services at the Baptist church last Sabbath evening during Rev. Mackey's vacation.

Everett Eakin visited relatives in Princeton last week.

Officers to be installed at the next meeting of the W. C. T. U. are as follows: president, Mrs. Adella McClelland; vice president, Mrs. Gertrude Burton; secretary, Mrs. Adella McCracken, and treasurer, Mrs. Emma Cooper.

Miss Florence Shumaker of Gardner visited Miss Carrie Cunningham last Friday.

Elizabeth Eakin has returned home after spending two weeks with friends near Mercer.

A number attended the birthday party given for Mrs. Mary Double at the home of her son, George Double, and family, at McCaslin last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Burnside and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Burnside and sons, Kenneth and Presley, enjoyed a motor trip to Niagara Falls and lake points last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Turner and Mr. and Mrs. Boyd have returned from a fishing trip to Canada.

A number of local young ladies attended the dinner party given by Miss Alfaretta Hunt at her home near Portersville, last Thursday evening.

Lester Bohlman of Clarksburg, W. Va., has returned home following a short visit with Glenn Cunningham.

A survey crew, composed of five men, are working on the Perry highway and has established headquarters at the Harlansburg Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Cameron and daughter Jean are moving to Leeper, Clarion county, this week, where Mr. Cameron will have charge of high school work.

A motorist called in at a small shop. "I want something funny and grotesque for a car mascot," he said.

"Father!" shouted the girl in charge. "You're wanted!"—South Wales Express.

Millions Love May McAvoy

WHEREVER films are shown, May McAvoy, Metro Goldwyn-Mayer player is admired for her ability and her beauty. And no small part of the latter is due to her lovely hair. Yet the full, potential beauty of her hair does not show on the screen. For, the ultra-smart coiffure possesses a subtle charm which cannot be photographed.

Thousands of women in business and society have discovered that an alluring fragrance gives new charm to the most perfect hairdressing. Cham-Kana Shampoo lends this clinging fragrance in most desireable form. It is the new aid to lovely hair.

Then, Cham-Kana contains Quinine—the scalp tonic par-excellence. It invigorates the scalp, restores dull hair to lustrous beauty and thoroughly cleanses. But, above all, Cham-Kana lends an added charm, a new, alluring fragrance which is found in no other shampoo. Thoughtful, smart women recognize its value.

Free—

Enclosed with each, 15c package of Cham-Kana Shampoo is the picture of a famous screen actress. There are 12 pictures in the entire series. Any six of these screen stars' pictures may be redeemed for a regular $1 bottle of Bea-Van's Orange Blossom Perfume. Simply save six different pictures, mail them to us with your name and address and the perfume will be sent to you absolutely free.

Half Minute Interviews

Some Local Comment, Ideas And Suggestions As Given To News Man

By ALFRED SWIFT

ROY J. BALLARD
CLERK, FOUNTAIN INN

It seems queer to me that the Cleveland-Pittsburgh busses no longer go up Washington street, but turn off two blocks to the north, on Jefferson street, go up Falls street, and come out again at East street, from where they again go up Washington street.

This, I believe, is done so that the traffic light system can be avoided, for the bus drivers claim that they lost fifteen minutes because of the lights.

But a delay of fifteen minutes is nothing when compared to the inconvenience which this new route causes to the people of New Castle. Many persons no longer know where to get the bus, and as a result, besides my duty as clerk, I have to be an information bureau at the same time.

I wonder if something could not be done about this situation?

PROF C. E. BAER,
FORMERLY OF HIGH SCHOOL FACULTY.

Do you know, New Castle is a mighty fine little home town at that? One doesn't realize until you come to leave, or have been around a lot, just what a fine little city we have here. But, I do. Now that I am about to leave, I tell you, it has impressed upon me the fact that New Castle is just about the head of the list. I am certainly glad that it's my home town, even though I am required to leave for a while.

Pittsburgh has as good a chance as any club of winning the pennant this year. Even now they are in second place.

But you never can tell. I don't like to prognosticate about the outcome of contests of any time. It seems to me that usually the best man wins.

If Donnie Bush's Buccaneers keep up their winning streak, they are sure to come out somewhere near the top, if not on the top.

Kindergarten work, I believe, is a great help in the social life of a child. It helps him to become acquainted with other children, and it makes him of the "social mind."

Not only that, but in kindergarten a child can pick up a lot of information which will be very valuable to him when he enters the graded schools. Also he learns to use his hands, and his senses of perception and rhythm are developed.

Prince George Of Jugo-Slavia Hurt

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Prince George, brother of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia, has been severely wounded and there is little hope of his recovery, according to a Central News Dispatch from Vienna today quoting a telegram received in Vienna from Belgrade.

Prince George was born in Belgrade on Sept. 8, 1887, the son of King Peter. As the resultof his fondness for convivial life and boon companionship, he was compelled to renounce his right of succession to the throne on March 27, 1909.

WORK PROGRESSES ON NEW PLANT

Brick work for the addition to the Blair Strip Steel Company's plant has been started by Smith and Bauman, who have the contract.

So far, the foundation has been erected, and the ends of the building have been completed, the sides being about three feet high at present.

It will be remembered that the permit calls for the construction of a one story building, of brick, steel and concrete, 50x250 feet, to be erected at the approximate cost of $25,000.

This will be in addition to the plant already in operation.

PICNIC DRAWS GREAT THRONG

Four Thousand Children At Cascade Park On Tuesday.

PRIZE WINNERS ARE ANNOUNCED

Over 4,000 kiddies were at their best yesterday when they caused immense quantities of ice cream to melt away at the kiddies' picnic held at Cascade park and sponsored by Henry M. Goldberg, manager of the local plant of the Rieck-McJunkin Dairy company, and Carl Shaner, manager of the park.

Early in the morning before 7 o'clock several dozen kiddies were waiting for the gates to open for the big event and dusk still found many dragging one weary foot after the other while an older sister pulled a protesting and crying "kid brother" on their way homeward.

The Rieck-McJunkin Dairy company which sponsored this second kiddies' picnic of the summer brought out 15 gallons of ice cream, but that only whetted the appetites of the thousands of youngsters so the truck was sent back for 20 more gallons and that did not seem to last much longer as the crowds swarmed into the grove.

The precious ticket yesterday was a Rieck-McJunkin milk bottle cap or ice cream or butter wrapper which entitled any of the kiddies to any of the 10c amusements for 3c or any of the 15c amusements for 5c as well as a reduction on pop, hot dogs, etc. And most of all, free ice cream.

At 12:30 a program of games was carried off in the midway under the direction of Jack Hulme, swimming instructor at Westminster college. Many prizes were awarded, including cupie dolls, French dolls, baseballs and bats, floor balls, watches, knives and scout ax. A penny scramble was also enjoyed on the midway which looked like a poultryman feeding a flock of hungry chickens.

The winners in the races were as follows: 25-yard dash, boys under 12, Elmer Math; 25-yard walking race, boys under 12, Warren Dewyer; 25-yard backward race, boys under 12, Kenneth McKay; standing broad jump, boys under 12, Robert Lurns; 50-yard dash, boys over 12, Wilbur Patterson; standing broad jump, boys over 12, Wilbur Patterson; 25-yard dash, girls under 12, Virginia Cameron; 25-yard walking race, girls under 12, Sally Byers; 25-yard backward race, girls under 12, Anna McLearnes; standing broad jump, girls under 12, Ida Hites; 50-yard dash, girls over 12, Mildred Bunel; standing broad jump, girls over 12, Mary Patton; special 25-yard race for small tots, Rose Genberry. Each race had to be run off in six heats on account of the great number of entries.

Although the bigger kiddies were more evident in the races and larger amusements of the park, yet many a grownup paused to see the little tots of three to five years in the children's playground. Some of the very smallest were playing in the sand pile while others more venturesome were on the slides, swings and the bravest dared the Ferris wheel, roller coaster and airplanes.

Every year the park is given over to the kiddies, once just after the close of school and again just before school commences. This year the first event was held at the park on June 14. The picnic yesterday was a new venture in that Henry M. Goldberg, manager of the local plant of the Rieck-McJunkin Dairy company, asked that they might share in the expense and good time. Mr. Shaner, manager of the park, said that it was a very successful affair.

ONE OF 7,000,000

Fairest of all in the city is Miss Frieda Merse, said judges in picking her as "Miss New York."

IMPROVEMENTS ARE BEING MADE AT LOCAL HOTEL

Plasterers are now working in the Fountain Inn in keeping with the program of redecoration which was inaugurated two weeks ago by W. G. Maple, the manager.

Along with the plastering, new paper is being hung in many of the rooms, and a new heating system is being installed.

Gasoline Car In Wreck; One Killed

BUTLER, Aug. 24. — One man is dead and another is seriously injured when the car in which they were driving ran into a switch on the Bessemer and Lake Erie Railroad at the Calvin yards of the company, near Butler, yesterday afternoon.

Harry Sponsberg, 40, of Albion, was killed almost instantly, and Harry Lewis, 32, of Springboro, was seriously injured on the head and body.

It is said that the men misunderstood a signal of the interlocking switching system. The car in which they were riding was too light to throw the switch, and it leaped over the tracks, hurling the men from their seats upon the steel ties and rails. Sponsperg died within a few minutes of the accident. He is survived by his widow.

Reunion Ends Search

After separation of 35 years, Hanna Pettersen and her brother, John A. Glynn, have been happily united in Buuffalo, N. Y. When Hanna was 14 and John 16, they lived with their mother in Wheeling, W. Aeronautic Commission Is Short Of State Funds For Any Elaborate Plans

By WILLIAM B. BROWN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 24—Members of the Pennsylvania Aeronautic Commission which will meet here late today for organization, already admit that the size of the appropriation available for their work will limit, for the present at least, adoption and prosecution of any widesweeping program such as the act creating it intended.

The commission will have but $10,000 available for the next two years. From that sum it is intended to pay a full time secretary whose salary it is expected will not be less than $3,000 a year. On that basis the commission will have but $4,000 for other work.

Although members of the commission are allowed traveling and incidental expenses, the amount of money available would be exhausted in one meeting if the entire personnel takes advantage of the amounts allowed them.

The Department of Internal Affairs, to which the commission is attached, did not receive an oppropriation sufficiently large to permit any unscheduled expenditures, unless the commission is able to get authorization for the old time "deficiency" system by which succeeding legislatures made up past deficits, the amount of work possible in the immediate future will be limited.

Nevertheless, immediately after formal organization, members hope to take up several of the problems pressing for immediate attention. It is hoped to formulate at today's session tentative rules governing the licensing and the establishing of airports. In case it is decided to charge fees for this work, an additional source of revenue will permit the commission a larger field.

There has been but little discussion concerning the naming of the active chairman of the commission. Unless James F. Woodward, secretary of Internal Affairs, declines, it is expected that he will be chosen.

Each member of the commission has had applications from a number of men who wish to serve as secretary to the new body. The applicants include several men formerly or at present prominent in state affairs who apparently foresee for the commission a wide field in the not distant future.

PROSECUTE EIGHTY IN 26 COUNTIES

Number Of Offenders In Lawrence County Are In State List

Eighty prosecutions were ordered during July in 26 different counties by the State Bureau of Foods and Chemistry for the violation of food and other laws governing the sale of farm supplies.

These prosecutions resulted from the vigorous summer "drive" being made on all food law violators by the 27 field agents of the Bureau.

One or more violations were discovered in the sale of each of the following products: cake, jelly roll, sandwiches, noodles, canned cherries, codfish, butter, soft drinks, lemonade, orangeade, meat, eggs, milk, cream, weiners, sausage, vinegar, fertilizer, feeding stuffs and turpentine.

The counties in which prosecutions were made include: Allegheny, Beaver, Berks, Blair, Butler, Center, Chester, Clarion, Crawford, Cumberland, Delaware, Lawrence, Luzerne, Lycoming, McKean, Mifflin, Philadelphia, Tioga, Venango, Washington, Wayne and Westmoreland.

Team From Grove City Will Visit New Castle P. H. C.

Another treat is promised the members of New Castle Circle No. 5, P. H. C. on Thursday night when the circle will have as guests the junior team from Grove City with a delgation from the local circle and others throughout the district.

The junior team a new addition to the Grove City circle is composed of young ladies ranging from 14 to 17 years old and while they do not conduct initiatory ceremonial of the order their exhibition drill has won for them unlimited praise.

No member of No. 5 should fail to meet this bevy of beautiful girls from Grove City and witness their wonderful drill. At the close of the drill prominent members from visiting circles will add brief addresses. Dancing will follow, and later refreshments will be served. Members please notice the session will be called to order promptly at 7:30 p. m. Come and come early. Lillie B. Jones, Secretary.

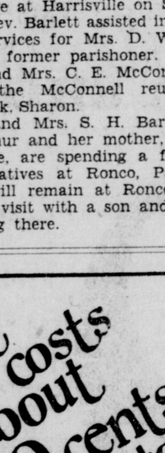

EDENBURG

About 40 members of the Rimersburg M. E. church attended the services of the Edenburg Methodist church Sunday morning, August 21, and after the services retired to the parsonage where they enjoyed a basket dinner and spent the afternoon with Rev. S. H. Barlett, who is a former pastor of the Rimersburg church. A very profitable and enjoyable day was reported by these friends of a kindred spirit.

Rev. and Mrs. Barlett and son Arthur were at Harrisville on Saturday where Rev. Barlett assisted in the funeral services for Mrs. D. W. Humphrey, a former parishoner.

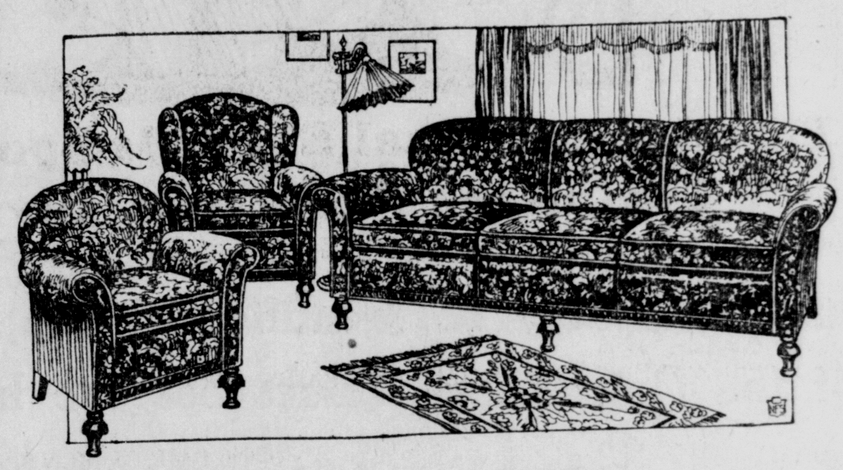

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McConnell attended the McConnell reunion at Buhl park, Sharon.

Rev. and Mrs. S. H. Barlett and son Arthur and her mother, Mrs. B. R. Slagle, are spending a few days with relatives at Ronco, Pa. Mrs. Slagle will remain at Ronco, where she will visit with a son and daughter living there.

Season Opens At Local Cathedral

Al G. Field's Minstrel Show Is Opening Attraction Of Fall Season

Singers sang and hoofers hoofed last night at the Scottish Rite Cathedral when the Al G. Field Minstrels, now on their 41st annual tour showed here last night in the opening of the season at the big auditorium.

Chief among the hoofers was one Paul Taylor, who was encored many times before the audience would leave him retire. And chief among the singers was Tenor Harley Newland who, in addition to displaying a sweet tenor voice while singing "Silver Threads Among the Gold" wound up with a burst of falsetto which brought down the house.

But chief among the entertainers was Emmet Miller, the boy from Tennessee and said to be one of the best black-face comedians now on the boards. His comedy offerings were roundly applauded as was his "jazz tenor."

Comedy sketch "The Abode of the Spirits" which had for its problem the dealings of two black bootleggers again displayed the merits of Miller who again convulsed the crowd by doubting that a thousand frogs could get on one log.

Diet Becomes Important In Health And Disease

By DR. C. J. BABORKA
Noted specialist and member of the staff of the Mayo clinic.
(Written especially for International News Service.)

ROCHESTER, Minn., Aug. 24.—Rapid reduction of weight not only weakens the constitution, but causes illness and sometimes death. Necessary vitamines must be given to the body if perfect health is to be maintained.

There are differences in the susceptabilities of various persons to the lack of vitamines and, apparently, some fed on a deficient diet do not develop marked diseased conditions. This is probably due to their getting vitamine-containing food at various times of the year, but these may show some of the minor nervous manifestations which may likely be due to this fact.

Food allergy, or sensitization to food proteins, so-called idiosyncracy is likewise receiving added investigation. The reactions vary greatly from urticarias (hives), produced by strawberries, to asthma, due to egg-white and many more or less familiar examples.

Skin Affections.

Certain skin affections are caused directly or indirectly by dietary errors but the belief that many skin diseases are caused by improper food is very much over-estimated. The deletarious action on the skin from too much or unsuitable food may occur through direct irritation of the mucous membrane or the gastro-intestinal tract and cause flushing, especially of the face, by reflex action; it may be absorbed into the blood and produce forms of toxic erythema and urticaria; it may be eliminated by the sweat glands and irritate the skin in the process, or it may interfere with the nutrition of the skin, weaken the resisting power to micro-organisms and render it prone to various forms of dermatitis.

In the treatment of disorders, such as diabetes, gout and obesity, in many febrile diseases and in diseases affecting the digestive organs and kidneys, diet is given the major place in cure. Diabetes mellitus in its mild form can frequently by controlled by eliminating the gross sugars, spices, pastries and starchy foods, but in the cases that cannot eliminate sugar from the urine by this simple restriction, a weighted diet is necessary with the prescription of definite amounts of carbo-hydrate, protein and fat. If this still is inadequate to control the sugar in the urine and keep up caloric requirement, insulin is added.

Trouble in Gout.

In gout the body's ability to metabolize purins is impaired and with this there is frequently a difficulty in uric acid excretion. The aim, therefore, in dietitic treatment is to restrict the foods that are rich in purins, such as rich gravies, pastries and meats, except a small portion of twice boiled meat, fish and four vegetables, asparagus, spinach, peas and beans.

The dietetic treatment of the diseases that are characterized by fever has undergone revolutionary changes within the last few years. For more than 2,000 years patients were starved and often deprived of water. The old saying was "feed a cold and starve a fever." Gradually, since 1907, it has become recognized that patients with a fever have increased metabolism, the fires of the body burn under forced draught, and to meet this condition the patient needs more, rather than less food. The food of choice to furnish increased energy is carbohydrate and a fever diet should contain this predominately in easily palatable forms, as milk, eggs, cereals, rice and fruit juices.

In diseases of the kidneys and high blood pressure, the principal aim should be to select a diet which has the least stimulating effect and which minimizes the work of the kidneys by restricting the products they have difficulty in eliminating. This means a low protein, salt-free diet, without the condiments and highly spiced foods.

Liver Functions.

The liver functions in the metabolism of all foodstuffs and excessive amounts of any of them may disturb the normal working of the organ. One of the chief factors probably responsible for more liver disorders than any other one article is the use of alcohol. Second to this comes the condiments and highly spiced, rich foods such as fats and excessive starches. All these should be entirely eliminated when the liver ceases to function properly. It is worth noting that statistics show a tremendous decrease in cirrhosis of the liver since prohibition.

In anemias the diet should contain iron-rich foods such as spinach, chard, beans and potatoes, egg yolk, lean meat and fruits, such as oranges and apples. Recently, in pernicious anemia, large amounts of liver, pancreas and kidneys combined with diets high in vitamine content have produced remarkably beneficial effects.

The past five years the treatment of epilepsy has been benefitted by the use of the keptogenic diet, so-called because it is extremely high in fat with very small portions of carbohydrate and protein. This produces a change in the body reactions from an alkaline to an acid tide, which in certain cases seems to inhabit the epileptic form seizures.

The relation of diet in health and disease is gradually assuming the position of importance it should have. I predict that in the next ten years a great deal will be revealed.

Using Stop Watch On Bears And Fish Shows Some New Records In Speeding

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—Pacific coast sportsmen have lately been using their stopwatches on fish, fowl and beast.

A grizzly bear, urged through a narrow canyon highway by an automobile lumbered at a speed of 45 miles an hour, the car's speedometer showed. Racing whippets have been timed in remarkably fast sprints both at San Francisco and at Tijuana, across the Mexican border from San Diego.

A number of animals have been clocked by Cealo Mohawk of Santa Barbara, who has compiled and printed his findings. The savage barracuda, Mohawk discovered can swim as fast as 70 miles an hour. Mohawk used his stopwatch principally on timing fish and animals in the water. Although a seal is thought to dart like lightning through his native element, Mohawk found it took four minutes and forty-four seconds to swim a mile. The walrus is almost two minutes slower for the same distance.

Sharks clever through the water at a forty-mile-an-hour clip; and the leaping tuna, giant tarpoon and salmon average better than fifty miles an hour, the painstaking observer recorded. Water spaniels, as might be expected, are the fastest swimmers, Mohawk found. These dogs paddle a mile in thirty-four minutes.

The fastest reptile afloat is the black snake which made 50 feet in 42 seconds. Mohawk also timed fleas, honeybees, cockroaches, grasshoppers and lightning bugs in the water, but none of the swimming records of the insects were at all sensational.

Some Of Activities At Public Library

The question has often been asked of members of the public library staff, "What do you do?"

To answer the question Miss Alice M. Sterling, librarian, has prepared a series of articles. The first one follows:

The doors open at 9 o'clock. In comes a man who wishes to find a picture of Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson. Several pictures are found for him, he chooses what he wants, has them charged and goes.

At the same time the circulation of the previuos day is being sorted and counted. The dating stamps are changed and the morning's toll of magazines and newspapers are checked, stamped and filed. Account is kept of the number of persons using the reading rooms.

A box of new books arrives by freight. The bill has previously come by mail. The box is opened the books arranged in alphabetical order by authors and each book checked by the bill. The new books are then entered in the accession book, a record of the author, title, publisher, date source, and price of each book. The books are then stamped, classified and catalogued and a book plate is pasted into every book and a date slip and pocket into every book that circulates. With a large shipment of books these processes take several days to complete Printed catalogue cards are ordered from the Library of Congress for books other han fiction, and typewritten catalog cards are made for the fiction. A book card is made for each book and placed in the pocket. The book is then ready to be taken out.

Copy must be prepared for the reporter who calls every morning. Posters are made to advertise new or timely books.

Mending, like the poor, is always with us. Some mending is done almost every day. Books which come out of their covers or have their sewing broken are sent to the bindery. A record is made of each book and checked when it returns. The books must again be given book plates, date slips and pockets.

The work of the reference department will be described tomorrow.

Rubber Experts See No Shortage For This Season

(International News Service)

AKRON, O., Aug. 24.—The world supply of crude rubber for the present season is excellent, and there is little prospect of a shortage during the immediate future, according to A. M. Vaughan, vice-president of a local bank, and one of the recognized American rubber experts. Vaughan was for several years in charge of plantation development in Sumatra for the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., and started extensive rubber growing projects.

There are 4,250,000 acres of land planted to rubber in the East Indies, and large supplies of crude are in storage in both Europe and the United States, Vaughan declared.

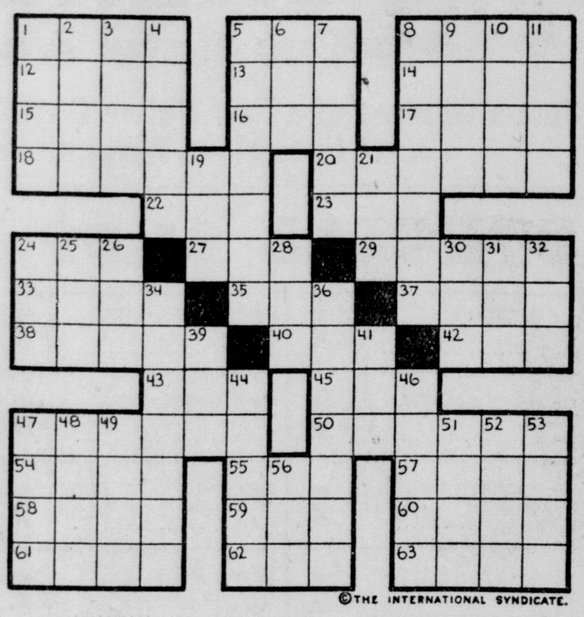

The average yield on a rubber plantation is 400 pounds per acre annually, with a single tree producing from three to four pounds, he said.

The cultivated product is rapidly supplanting "wild" or natural rubber production, Vaughan said, citing a drop from 62,000 tons in 1910 to 40,000 tons of crude in 1925 from wild trees. Illustrating the tremendous increase in consumption of rubber, due largely to the automobile industry, Vaughan said there were 27,000 tons of crude rubber consumed in 1910, and 540,000 tons in 1926.

"The British now control 76 per cent of the world production," he said. "America consumes 70 per cent of the entire world output.

PETERS ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

By Florence Smith Vincent

SAVED IN SPITE OF THEMSELVES

Very well, then. If the Bees insisted upon mistaking him for an enemy they would sting him, of course. But Peter wasn't going to be a coward and let anything like that prevent him from trying to save the life of the busy little honey makers. As for Hoppy—let the fellow jeer at him if he liked. He was only angry because he was losing his prey.

So not a bit of attention did the boy pay to either the Bees' cross buzzing or Top Toad's mocking, but kept right on yelling and waving his arms above his head. Suddenly the flyers realized that Peter was trying to signal to them, and all their anger turned to fear.

Their buzzing rose louder and louder as each bee, in turn, tried to warn the others of their danger.

Listen, sisters, to what the Two-Legs says. He is no enemy but a friend, and he is trying to warn us of that wicked creature of whom our wise Queen bade us beware. He cries, 'The bold brigand is abroad in the highway! Fluff has been taken! Others of our sisters have fallen victims!'

"Quick! There is not a moment to be lost. Let us rise high into the air. Better to brave the breeze and storm than to fly into Hop Toad's mouth. Woe to us! What dreadful news have those of us who are left to tell the Queen! Will she ever forgive our carelessness? Thanks, Two-Legs, dear Two-Legs! We owe our lives to you!"

Humming their gratitude, the Bees soared into the air and slowly and sadly winged their way back to the hive to tell the bad news to their Queen.

When he was quite sure that the last one of them was safe Peter turned to Hop Toad.

"Sorry, old chap, to have to scare away your meal like that, but—"

Peter stopped talking, suddenly; stared, rubbed his eyes and looked again. He had been speaking to thin air. There was the hollow in which Hoppy had been sitting—empty. But not a sign anywhere of the bold brigand.

Next—"A Highwayman Humbled."

Nazarenes Will Hold Kansas City Meeting

(International News Service)

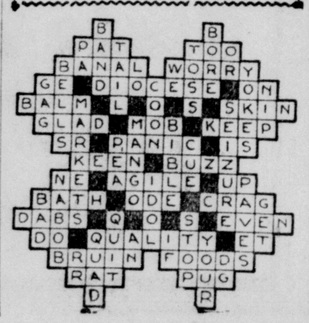

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Kansas City has been selected as the meeting place of the eighth quadrennial international convention of the Nazarene church, according to officers of the denomination here.

The convention is scheduled for June, 1928. Over 400 delegates from all part of the world will attend. Several thousand visitors, will also attend the conferences of the church. Among countries that will be represented are Japan, China, France, England, Germany, Brazil and several others. Kansas City was selected at a recent meeting of bishops of the church in Pasadena, Cal.

Europe Must Not Combat America In Industry, Says Sir Alfred Mond

By SIR ALFRED MOND, M. P.
(Famous capitalist and Chemist formerly Minister of Health in the British Cabinet.)

LONDON, August 24.—"Chemicals form the foundation of the world's industries.

"Changes and developments undreamed of a short while ago will take place within the next five years.

"We formed 'Imperial Chemical Industries' in order to consolidate the chemical and allied industries of the British Empire and to place Imperial industries in an advantageous place for negotiation. That has been achieved. Negotiations are at the present time going on and we are in a very strong position. So far as negotiations with German and other Continental manufacturers are concerned the main object is to attain an interchange of scientific knowledge and information.

"The mistake must not be made that such a European alliance will be designed to combat America. Britain must act as an intermediary between the European countries and America. No country has the monopoly of processes and patents. All are persuing considerable scientific researches into their various industries. The good of the world can best be served by an interchange of processes and scientific information."

England's Position.

"It is necessary for proper development in the future that Great Britain should make herself independent as far as possible of imported raw materials.

"Through the high pressure nitrogen industry we can now see the lines along which that can be done.

"The chemical industry can do very much to revive British agriculture by the use and application of artificial fertilizers, which were first exploited by Germany. In the next five years the fertilizer will solve the problem of the growing exhaustion of land in Great Britain.

"We are, at present, carrying out experiments to test a new system of rotational grazing of grass treated with combined nitrogen at 80 farms in all parts of the British Isles. Under this system we believe that animals can be kept in a healthy productive condition for six months on grass alone. Moreover, a greater number of animals can be kept on a specified acreage.

"The importance of such research work to agriculture can easily be seen. We are now manufacturing a new cattle food, consisting of a cake of dried and compressed grass. Feeding experiments with this will be made during the coming autumn and winter.

Sees New Era

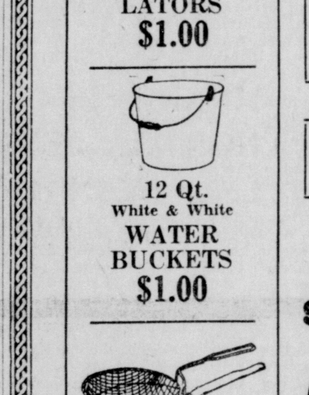

"I believe that during the next five years, as a result of chemical research, a new era will have dawned in British agriculture. Before the end of the next five years we shall be manufacturing large quantitties of oil from coal in this country. We are also developing in the production of heavy alkalies and there is an ever-increasing demand.

"In the dye industries the British industry can now supply the whole of our requirements. Within the next five years we shall have produced synthetic alcohol and synthetic vitamines.

"The consumptive power of America is so great that I do not think she will invade the European home of foreign markets. Great Britain stands apart. She still has a richer economic unit. The British Empire is potentially the greatest productive and consumptive unit in the world."

WOMEN APPROACHING MIDDLE AGE

Pass Through This Trying Period in Good Condition by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

MRS. HARVEY TUCKER
R. R. 9, SHELBYVILLE, IND.

"Grow old along with me, The best is yet to be"

With her children grown up, the middle-aged woman finds time to do the things she never had time to do before—read the new books, see the new plays, enjoy her grandchildren, take an active part in church and civic affairs. Far from being pushed aside by the younger set, she finds a full, rich life of her own. That is, if her health is good.

Thousands of women of middle age, say they owe their vigor and health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Those who have learned through their own experience the merit of this dependable medicine are enthusiastic in recommending it to their friends and neighbors.

"I had been in bad condition for three months. I could not do my work. One day I read what your medicine had done and just had a feeling that it would help me, so I sent and got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had only taken half a bottle when I got up and started to do my work. It gave me an appetite, and helped me wonderfully. I can not praise this medicine highly enough. I surely will advise all women and girls to take it, and they don't have to use rouge to look healthy. My two daughters are taking it now and one is also using the Sanative Wash. I am willing to have you use this testimonial and I will answer letters from women asking about the medicine."—Mrs. Harvey Tucker, R. R. No. 9, Shelbyville, Indiana.

"I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the little books you give away and began to take the medicine. After the first few bottles I began to feel better and could eat better and had fewer headaches. I feel like a different person. At anytime that I don't feel good I take the Vegetable Compound again, as I always keep a bottle on hand. You may use this letter for every word is true. I will answer any letters sent to me."—Mrs. Jennie Bollerman, 611-11th St., Union City, N. J.

Railroad Men And Local Band Will Compete

E. & A. Division Of Pennsy To Be Well Represented At Pitcairn.

CENTRAL REGION MEET SATURDAY

Place of the Pennsylvania Railroad Central Region Track and Field Meet has been changed from Dennison, O., to Pitcairn, Penna., because of the epidemic of infantile paralysis, which is raging there.

Many persons from New Castle and elsewhere along the E. & A. division are expected to journey to Pitcairn Saturday, August 27, where the Central Region Track and Field meet will be held.

The E. & A. division brass band, under the direction of H. M. Culbertson, will accompany the crowd going from New Castle. For the accommodation of the crowd, special train service will be provided, the definite plans to be announced later.

In addition to the other contestants, the E. & A. division gun club, composed of E. M. Fisher, assistant road foreman, L. M. Wilkison, engineman, W. B. Gillespie, engineman, J. A. Harmer, engineman, F. M. Denniston, engineman, C. L. Schmidt, operator, George Schmidt, operator, M. T. Stone, conductor, and A. L. Davies, yardmaster, will participate in the meet.

Program for the day follows:

Tennis, 10 a. m. Eastern Standard Time.

Trap shoot, 10 a. m.

Rifle shoot, 10 a. m.

Horseshoe pitching, 10 a. m.

Swimming, 10 a. m.

Golf, 10 a. m.

Track and field trials, 10 a. m.

Track and field finals, 1 p. m.

In the afternoon there will be a baseball game at 3:30, the contestants to be announced later.

Five bands will play at the picnic. In the past, the Central Region Track and Field Meet has been attended by ten thousand and more persons, and it is the hope of the New Castle contingent that this will be exceeded this year.

Paris Is To Glimpse "Typical" U. S. Meet

Some Of The National Officers Of the American Legion Auxiliary Who Will Make The Pilgrimage To Paris In September: Mrs. Adalin W. MacCauley, Menomonie, Wisc., Pres.; Mrs. Lucy P. Boyd, Indianapolis, Secy.; Miss Emma Ruth Hadorn, Indianapolis, Treas.; Mrs. Mabel D. Stark, Chaplain, West Pittston, Pa.; Mrs. Walter B. Beals, Vice Pres., Seattle, Wash.

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 24.—When the American Legion Auxiliary arrives in Paris in September with husbands, brothers and sweethearts of the American Legion, Paris will have a chance to see a typical American women's convention in session.

And the first American woman to preside over such a convention on foreign soil will be Mrs. Adalin Wright MacCauley of Menomonie, Wis., national president. She will also lead the uniformed members of the auxiliary in their march in the great parade which is a feature of all legion conventions.

Mrs. MacCauley is chief executive of the largest women's patriotic organization in the United States, having a membership of 260,000 although only eight years old. She is also active in the General Federation of Women's Clubs and the Daughters of the American Revolution. She is a "Mayflower" descendant.

From All States

The convention in Paris will have among its delegates women from every state in the union. This includes a large group of national officers, the vice presidents and national committeewomen from each state. In addition there will be a number of delegates from each state as well as several hundred guests. Many in the ranks of this pilgrimage to France have lost a son, husband, father or brother.

Among the national officers attending besides Mrs. MacCauley will be the secretary, Mrs. Lucy P. Boyd of Indianapolis Miss Emma Ruth Hadorn, Indianapolis, treasurer Mrs. Mabel D. Stark, chaplain, West Pittston, Pa.; and vice presidents, Mrs. Walter B. Beals, Seattle, Wash.; J. Y. Cheney, of the Southern division, Orlando, Fla.; Mrs. C. E. McGlasson, Lincoln, Neb.; from the northwestern division; Mrs. J. E. Barcus, Indianapolis, central division, and Mrs. Walter Doval, East Providence, R. I.

Two Counterfeiters Are Under Arrest

(International News Service)

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 24.—Leonard Riccardo, alias "Wise Mike" 28, and Peter S. Paskert, 26, both of Dunmore, near here, were scheduled to be arraigned here today on charges of issuing counterfeit $5 bills.

Riccardo and Paskert were arrested here late yesterday by federal and city detectives as members of a gang that has flooded northeastern Pennsylvania and parts of New York with bogus money.

Police said the automobile in which the men were riding bore the same license plate numbers as were furnished authorities by the victims of the bad money.

MARQUIS IS IN FINANCIAL STRAITS

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 24.—The Marquis of Hertford, who, as the Earl of Yarmouth, was married to Miss Alice Cornelia Thaw, of Pittsburgh, Penna., in 1903, is in financial difficulties.

Announcement was made today that a receivership order has been entered against the Marquis upon petition of certain creditors.

The marriage of the Earl to the Pittsburgh heiress was annulled in 1908. Four years later the Earl succeeded to his father's title as Marquis of Hertford.

1928 Special Six Sedan by Chandler

FOR exceptional beauty, style and richness, for exceptional power, pep and hardihood, for exceptional comfort—this 1928 Special Six Sedan by Chandler is judged as the most spectacular six-cylinder value ever built for less than a thousand dollars.

$995 f. o. b. factory

Everywhere, from one end of the country to the other, it is regarded as a miracle for the money—a car that inspires both admiration and wonderment.

Everybody who sees it admires its fashionable low-slung design, its interior roominess and luxury—and wonders how in the world it can be priced so low.

And everybody admires its bristling power, its sparkling pick-up, its agility on hills—and wonders how a motor with so much power can also be so serenely quiet and smooth.

And its chassis can't, simply can't, develop squeaks—thanks to Chandler's "One Shot" lubrication system!

This new Special Six Sedan is fashioned after Chandler's magnificent 1928 Royal Eight—and closely resembles it. Sales records already show that it will be the fastest selling Chandler of all Chandler history. Just see it—and you'll see that we have built this car to sell itself.

Looking For Result Of Spring Campaign Against Corn Borer

"We cannot say yet whether the corn borer campaign recently staged was a success or not," said J. S. Martin, one of the inspectors in the recent drive to extinguish this pest, yesterday.

"Some time yet will be required to determine this," he added. "At the present time scouts are inspecting the fields where the borer was in abundance before the campaign, to see if the campaign had been of any effect. Their decision will probably come shortly, however," he stated.

"The farmers in my section gave me their heartiest co-operation in this clean-up work. Out of 370 places that I inspected, only three farmers failed to co-operate with me and it was necessary to send scavengers in to do the work. The pay vouchers for the work, are being sent to the farmers now, although not all of them are being distributed at the present time."

"In a few weeks now, it will be known whether the drive was a successful one or not."

MOST OF BUYING DONE BY WOMEN

Figures have the habit of never lying. And figures show that men are very poor buyers.

In fact, in the local department stores, probably 90 per cent of all the buying is done by women. Women buy most everything for the home, and many things that father should buy, but does not.

And, in the men's wear shops, women do much of the buying.

The reason for this, some salesmen say, is because since time immemorial, women have always been closely connected with cloth and clothes. They are better judges of fabrics, they have a keener sense of style, and their sense of color is more pronounced.

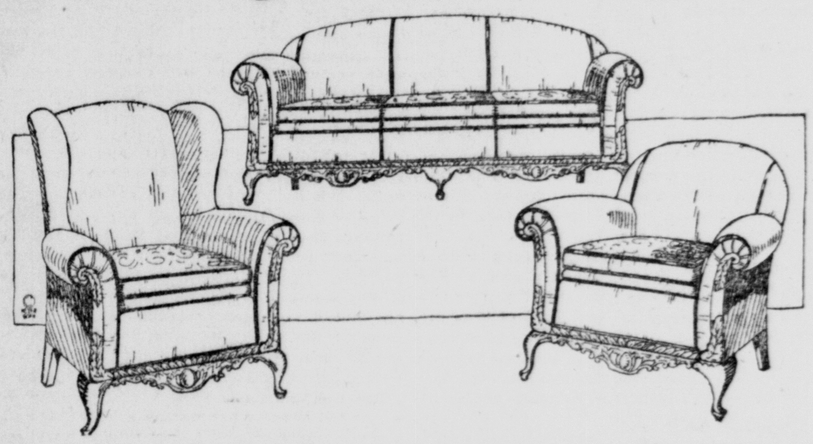

Another reason, some say, is the present store hours. Where the stores used to be open from dawn to dusk, now they open when the average man is going to work, and close when he is coming home. In that way, the man in the case has no time to shop but at lunch hour, and on Saturday nights. But in most towns and cities the stores are closed Saturday nights, and so that puts an end to father's shopping.

FREIGHT CAR JUMPS TRACK

Clips Off Pole Carrying Electric Current At Beaver Streets.

Electric service for two-thirds of New Castle was endangered at an early hour this morning when a freight street car of the P. & O. Company jumped the track at the corner of Beaver and West Washington streets, clipping off a pole which carries primary circuit service to the east, south and center sections of the city.

The pole was clipped off clean with the ground, as also was a light post.

Workmen today are repairing the damage done and are setting a new pole to carry the wires and also a new lamp post.

Service was not interrupted at any time and no one was injured.

SHORT ROMANCES OF EVERYDAY LIFE

A Day In June

By Margaret Taylor

IT was the first day of June, the month that Emily Preston loved above all others. The trees were in full leafage, shrubs abloom, and in the garden young plants reached their tender green stalks up toward the sun.

Emily came out upon the piazza with a bit of needlework in her hand and sat down in her favorite rocker by the honeysuckle vine. Her eyes smiled at the loveliness about her, but deep down in her heart a vague disquiet stirred. Finally her smile died away and a tear splashed upon her hand:

"I'm lonesome," she said shakily. "It's no use pretending I'm not; and I'm going to be lonesome."

She shivered a little with dread, for her life had been busy and full of service. She had always been necessary to someone's comfort, and hereafter she would be necessary to no one. Life would be very empty. Emily had been a pretty girl once, with a heart full of romantic dreams, but always some one had depended on her care, and when Prince Charming came she had sent him sorrowfully away.

First there had been an aged grandmother to care for, then her own mother's long years of illness, and when that frail life flickered out, a younger sister had left her baby daughter to Emily's loving care. Emily had worshipped little Anna and thrilled with pride at her beauty and cleverness, and the girl returned her aunt's devotion; but the ambition of a new generation stirred in her blood and she laughed at the idea of settling down in the drowsy country village.

She had taken a business course at school and secured a good position in the city. In spite of Emily's misgivings that had not proved so bad, after all, for Anna came home every week end and, in the days between, Emily could sew and mend for Anna and plan little surprises for her delight.

Of course, she wanted Anna to marry sometime, but it was a shock, nevertheless, when the girl was engaged. But Bob was a dear, and Aunt Emily thoroughly approved of him. So, after she got used to the idea, she was really very happy planning for Anna's wedding and Anna's home, and it was all arranged that either she should go to Anna's home, or Anna and Bob should come to her. Then, smash! That whole delightful structure of plans had gone to pieces.

She pulled Anna's letter out of her work-basket and read it over again. Bob had a wonderful chance to go to South America on an important piece of engineering work. It would take two years, and he positively refused to go without her. It was a wonderful opportunity for him, and it would be wonderful for Anna to see a foreign country, though she felt dreadfully about leaving dear Aunt Emily for so long.

Bob had to start in three weeks, so she had given up her position and was going to be married and go with him. They would be home as usual, and she was going to bring Bob's uncle, the one who brought him up. It was fortunate he happened to be coming to the city just now, so he could be at the wedding. She knew Aunt Emily would want to meet him, and it would be nice and homey to be all together and get acquainted, and they would be there Friday night instead of Saturday.

"Good gracious!" Emily sprang from her chair in consternation. She hadn't noticed the postscript about coming Friday when she first read the letter, and here it was 10 o'clock Friday morning and nothing done.

She bustled into the house and in a twinkling the windows of the best guest chamber were open and the best sheets, fragrant with dried rose leaves, were being spread on the big, comfortable bed. Of course, Anna's room was ready, and Bob's too, since he had become a weekly visitor. So presently Emily flew down to the kitchen and the delicious odor of pies and cookies floated through the window and mingled with the fragrance of the syringa bush outside.

Everything was ready when the 6 o'clock train whistled, and as soon as voices were heard on the gravelled path, Emily patted her hair and stepped out on the porch to greet her guests. She kissed Anna, who had flung herself into her aunt's arms, held out a welcoming hand to Bob, then turned to the stranger-guest as Bob started to introduce him. For a moment she gasped, then both hands went out impulsively.

"Timothy Stone!"

"Emily Preston!"

With hands clasped they gazed into each other's faces, and their minds flew back to the time when Emily was as young and pretty as Anna was today. Timothy's train had been late and he had reached the city just in time to be met by Bob and hustled into another train. He didn't know he was coming to Fairville, he didn't know Anna's aunt was Emily Preston, but altogether it was the best surprise he had ever had in his life.

Everybody was laughing and talking at once, and later on it was decided that Uncle Tim should remain right there till after the wedding. He was a wonderful help to Emily in making the preparations for the wedding while the two young people, with their heads in the clouds, were flying hither and thither, making steamer reservations and collecting the paraphernalia they would need for the voyage.

As the days passed a quiet happiness took possession of Timothy, and even Aunt Emily was not as miserable as she had expected to be. One afternoon she sat alone with Timothy on the piazza. Emily had been reading aloud till finally he leaned over and took the book from her hand. A little flush crept over her cheek, for his eyes were fixed upon her with the same look they had worn so many years before.

"I can give you now all that I wanted so desperately to give you then, Emily," he said at last, quietly:

"It isn't money I want, Tim," she said, her voice trembling a little. Suddenly she found herself crying on his shoulder. "I'm just horribly afraid of the loneliness. I've always had some one to take care of, and no one will need me any more."

"I need you," he said. "Oh, Emmy, we've missed so many precious years. We had to try to forget each other once, but there has never been any other girl for me. You cared for me once dear. Can't you learn to care again?"

Her hand touched his hair softly. "I've never forgotten how to love you," she said.

"This will give those youngsters a surprise, I guess," beamed Timothy. But Emily shook her head.

"No dear we won't say a word about ourselves now. Every thought must be for Bob and Anna. But afterward—Oh, no, no! You mustn't! Tim!" She sprang away from him. "They're coming now. Let's see! Where's the book? What was I reading? They mustn't notice anything." She snatched up a volume of Browning, opened it at random hastily, and began to read:

"Grow old along with me!
The best is not to be . . ."

Her voice shook a little and she stopped. She looked at him radiantly. Suddenly he seized her hand and drew her into the cool, dim house.

"Why—what is it, Tim?" she asked in confusion. "What do you want?"

"This!" he said, and she felt his strong arms closing about her, while his lips pressed hers.

Weather Balloons

By Monte Darrell

NORMA decided not to go picnicking with the crowd. Brian Standish would be there, and she was sure she didn't want to spend so many hours in his company. The young scientist seemed to have lost his wits vacationing here in the country. He chased all sorts of creatures, and expected her to share his enthusiasms regardless of time or space. Something at the picnic would be sure to set him off at a tangent, and she had no mind to be deserted among the crowd. Oh, the mischief which had paired them off together! It was maddening!

After lunch, with the frankly commiserating, gossipy, boarding house dowagers, Norma flung down her book and started afield. A few thunder heads gathering on the horizon seemed to mock her with Brian's warning that the weather report had predicted showers for this afternoon. How she detested his argument on behalf of the value of weather reports!

Lying on the grass Norma watched the clouds form and reform their thickening threats. She didn't care how far she was from the sickening dowagers or the picnic party or the man for whom she had made herself a sorry joke! She realized now that her first, impulsive companionship had seemed like throwing herself at his head.

Then it was that a smallish object, floating along over the tree tops at the edge of the woods, caught her attention. Norma sat up and rubbed her eyes to watch it bob and dance in the sunshine.

With seemingly animated reluctance, and despite the breath of Summer wind, it was falling. The girl scrambled to her feet and ran toward the woods. If only it would float far enough out to fall in the field! If this mysterious object caught in the pine tree tops she would have to climb to secure it. Norma danced here and there to keep the thing in sight, and so intent was she upon its capture that the first distant warning of thunder passed unnoticed.

When the wizening object finally began to drop clear of the tree tops, its descent was hardly less tantalizing than before, for it would bound and buoy most unexpectedly in the gusty wind that preceded the center of the storm. Norma scrambled through a blackberry thicket, and stumbled along the edge of a gravel pit. And when, at last, it was almost within her reach, a man rushed from somewhere and stretched up long arms to grasp it firmly.

"That belongs to me. Brian Standish!" cried Norma angrily.

The man hugged it tenderly with one arm. Norma saw it was a sort of box which had been buoyed by the now deflated bag of the balloon that hung limp about it.

"I saw it when I was way over on Moose Hill," panted Brian. "It's a Weather Bureau balloon, you know, one of those the meteorologists send up to get atmospheric data on the self-recording instruments in this box."

A terrific clap of thunder filled the murky air. Tired and hot after her chase, and frightened by the nearness of the on-rushing storm, Norma wanted to scream.

"You didn't have any right to take the box away from me," she faltered.

Brian Standish put his free arm around her.

"You left me at the mercy of that flip crowd!" he muttered. "I was hiking back to tell you I wouldn't be put off any longer."

Norma clung to him as the thunder crashed around them. What mattered it if he had turned aside from his path to chase the weather balloon, since he came by that way to her? What mattered all the world outside since he wanted her within the shelter of his loving arms?

A brilliant actress and a brilliant author met at a supper-party. The author talked and talked and talked. At last the actress felt she had done her share of listening.

"Humph!" she said suddenly, adding confidingly to the whole table. "That's a word in edgeways!"

The table roared.

The other day Theodore, aged 5, had to visit the dentist, and when he came back his father said: "Well, old chap, how's the toothache now?"

"Dunno," was the reply.

"But you must know whether the ache's gone!"

"Dunno," was the answer. "The dentist man kept the tooth."

A Breath of Springtime

By Claire Wesson

ROSA DONG, almond-eyed, husky-voiced little Chinese girl, was on trial. The whole English dpartment faculty of Miss Wilder's select seminary for young ladies and the president himself were having a fateful meeting about her in Dalton Hall. Everybody was trying to talk at once, and everybody but fair-haired Lura Ells of dramatics was talking against the China girl. Rosa Dong had about as much chance as a little red rose petal in a boiling whirlpool. Rosa herself was not present. She was up in her room across campus, sitting cross-legged on the floor in front of a battered small trunk, intoning Chinese poetry. The trial went on.

"She cannot be trusted," said Professor Lane. "She fritters away her time," said Professor Peters. "It's her third and last attempt at English. Her compositions are never in on time." Professor Lane again.

Miss Ells interrupted eagerly. "It's Springtime. The fruit trees are in bloom. The air blows out of the windows of heaven. Who wants to be tied down to rules now? We don't ourselves. Would we do better with the Chinese language over there? Wouldn't we be lonely? Wouldn't we want our instructors to be human?"

The president was speaking. "It is not a question of sentiment, but of justice. It is not merely failure to perform required tasks, but a disregard of campus rules. Dr. Wilder, kindly make your report. It will, without doubt, be conclusive."

Professor Wilder cupped her spectacles in her long fingers and spoke incisively. "We are familiar with the rule that students shall not go off campus in the direction of Fruitvale Woods over White Hill after 4 in the afternoon. Yesterday, at 5, Rosa Dong was in the top of the largest cherry tree, in the Fruitvale orchards, intoning. I saw her. She has previously climbed every campus apple tree, you recall, has been on probation for that reason. Moreover, any new occasion of disobedience was to be the end. You recall our vote?"

Miss Ells leaned forward eagerly. "Rosa was getting ready to write, I know she was. She told me yesterday in class she is going to try the long thesis that may take the place of the daily theme in English 7. A creditable long paper would mean a passing grade in the course for her. The themes are due one week from today, on the 25th, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Can't we give her one more chance? If she needs the inspiration of the cherry orchard—can't we—make an exception—and—"

Silence in the stuffy room; silence heavy with standards to be maintained; with the burden of precedent, but, besides, the flickering torch Lura Ells had lighted. Sentiment merely? Or mercy seasoning justice?

She is so pitiful in her straight old frocks, but that is not the reason I am suggesting another trial for Rosa Dong," Miss Ells said simply. "I believe the girl has it in her to write. She is struggling with the medium of expression. You try speaking Chinese after being over there two years. Give her this chance. I believe she will do herself proud, and us, Dr. Wilder's Seminary."

There was a stealthy shuffling of chairs. The room was vibrant with something like prophecy, and the case of Rosa Dong was finally laid on the table. "And on Miss Ells' head be it," spoke Dr. Wilder to Professor Lane, "then back to China with Rosa who has to climb trees to write themes, that, after all, don't get written."

"She's got to make good on the 25th," Lura Ells told herself firmly, and on the library steps she met Rosa herself, her arms full of huge books, the narrow shoulders in the blue dragon jacket bent from the weight of them.

"These Chinese books, Mees Eels," Rosa smiled. "'Bout our mounteens, trees. I write 'bout spreeng, begeenings."

"I want you to write the best essay anyone ever wrote in the world, Rosa Dong," said Lura Ells impressively.

"That the kind I write," smiled Rosa. "Some time I tell you secret, Mees Eels. You depend on me? I write best in world."

The little figure strode with its books across the campus, and Lura Ells' faith went with it. All that the president and the rest of the faculty said in the days that followed, against that belief, did not move her. "You will see when the 25th comes," she told them stolidly.

But the 25th came. All day the manuscripts accumulated in the box of English 7 in Room 65. Four o'clock. The campus clock struck slowly, vibrant. Lura Ells checked off each manuscript, trembling with excitement. No paper bore the name of Rosa Dong. Lura Ells could not wait till 5. An impulsion she could not explain was driving her inexorably. Leaving the box for further essays, she rushed across campus, down the silent road, over White Hill to Fruitvale Woods and the cherry orchard. She climbed the wall. Instinctively she found the gnarled old cherry tree over against White Hill, where Dr. Wilder had seen Rosa on the fateful day.

Lura Ells stopped. Crumpled in the grass at the foot of the tree Rosa lay, her small brown hands clutched about her fountain pen and a heap of white theme paper closely written in cramped, careful script. One leaf had fluttered out from the others and on the leaf were the words. "The End." Rosa had finished her theme up among the blossoms. Then she must have fallen.

Swiftly Lura Ells gathered the little figure into her arms and carried it to the brook. She bathed the brown face, crooned soft nothings, chafed the little old hands.

"I knew you needed me before 5 o'clock," said Lura Ells.

Rost stirred uneasily and opened her eyes half way. "It's here, Mees Eels, my theesees you depended on. It's after 4. I heard the clock on campus go. I started to come. I fell down asleep. Every night I write to make best essay of the worl'. I get veree sleepy. You depend on me. I write thees. Like our cheery trees in China. Mounteen like our mounteen over there." She pointed to White Hill. "This place my thoughts come like—what you call lightneeng. I am not homeseek here. I come here, I say over my thoughts, like museek, then I write, I tell you I tell you secret. Theese my secret. You read, please. You call it pass in before 5. I have to take a veree leetle nap. You let me lie in your nice warm arms, sleep up my sleep. I not had much sleep veree long time, I turn out light so they not know, I write in dark, follow along weeth my finger—you depend on me—"

In the scent of the cherry trees Lura Ells let Rosa sleep up her sleep while she read her "Cherry Blooms," the piece that critics have since said is the finest, most sustained imaginative prose work any foreign-born student has ever done.

Curiously twisted words and phrases? Some of them, to be sure. But the theme rings true, for a heart throbs in every line.

There is the breath of Springtime, in it, an awakened earth, the promise of beginnings that lead to great things, dreams come true, flowers hidden in the night bursting forth into the day mountains lifting thier faces upward. Always the gleam of Spring during the Winter of the dreamer. Always the scent of cherry blooms in the air.

In its pride, Miss Wilder's Select Seminary calls Rosa Dong its own, and Cherry Blooms its masterpiece.

"Poetry doesn't pay nowadays," remarked the long-haired lodger.

"Neither do poets," replied the landlady coldly.

The Cause of It All

By Clyde Weldon

I'LL get even with you, if I live; and if I die, I'll haunt you for the rest of your life, you blithering, idiotic owner of a murderous brute!" and old Mrs. Brockett shook a capable-looking fist under her embarrassed neighbor's nose.

Jason Branfield edged away, opened his mouth to speak, decided he'd better not, and went into the house. It was too cold to stay outside, anyway, but Mrs. Brockett ablaze with anger, didn't seem to notice it. Hero, his tomcat, and the cause of all the trouble, followed him. Hero had gained admission to Mrs. Brockett's house and all but annihilated the parrot, the pride of the old lady's life, before he was discovered and driven forth.

"You'll see if I don't haunt you," the irate old lady called after him, her fist still in action.

It was a decidedly unpleasant affair. Mrs. Brockett was the terror of all children and a good many adults. So far, Jason had managed to keep on amicable terms with her, but he knew she would never forgive Hero's attack on her parrot. She had once thrown boiling water at a tramp who stopped at her door, and there was no reason to believe she wouldn't give him a dose of the same medicine.

He spent a good part of the night trying to hit upon a scheme for conciliating the old lady, but in vain. In the morning, as he was preparing breakfast, he saw Doctor Locke stepping out of his neighbor's doorway.

"Mrs. Brockett sick?" called Jason.

"No—not now. She died in her sleep last night."

"No!" Jason was shocked, sorry, and a little conscious-stricken. Was it possible that the affair of the parrot had hastened her death? And she had said she would haunt him. He had always been more or less superstitious, and the doctor's words were no sooner uttered than Jason began to fidget. There was no knowing when Mrs. Brockett's ghost might appear before him. But he saw nothing. He was nervous, he told himself, from living too much alone. Time he and Jeanne were married, anyhow. It was a year since his mother's death, and it was hard for him to attend to his work at the mill and the housework, too. He would see her, and talk matters over.

Jeanne Hawkins lived with her parents about two and a half miles outside the village, and it was snowing hard when, the evening following Mrs. Brockett's demise, Jason set out. He was rewarded for the discomfort of the long walk by the hearty welcome he received. Mrs. Hawkins treated him to doughnuts and some of her husband's cider. Jeanne agreed to marry him in two weeks, and it was with a very light heart that, after a last glass of cider Jason opened the door for his departure. He was greeted by a flurry of snow, and a blast of wind.

"It's blowing up considerably," said Mr. Hawkins. "You'd better take the cross-cut through the cemetery. It will save you a mile."

"That's right," added Jeanne. "Why walk through more snow and wind than you have to?"

"I'll take the cross-cut," agreed Jason.

It was only when he scaled the cemetery wall that he remembered Mrs. Brockett, and a chill crept up his spine that was not caused by the cold. He began to whistle to keep up his spirits, but it was no use. In an effort to reach the safety of the highroad he redoubled his speed, but in the narrow space between the graves walking was difficult. He lost his footing and fell, and as he picked himself up something large, and white, and ghostlike came shooting through the air towards him, with outstretched arms.

His heart almost ceased to beat. This he was certain, was the late Mrs. Brockett. He broke into a run, but he was no match for the thing that followed him. His eyes were fixed yearningly on the opposite wall of the cemetery, and he reached it, by a herculean effort. Then, secure in the belief that no spook would dare show its face on the public highroad, he turned back. It was a fatal move. In an instant the thing was upon him, its icy arms around him in a strangling hold, and he lost consciousness.

He was roused by a vigorous thumping on his chest and arms, and a voice calling. "Hey, Jason, get up!"

It was Bill Jackson, a mill hand, returning late from extra work.

"I never thought you'd be the one to drink so hard that you'd fall on the street," he added, accusingly. "If I hadn't come along you'd have been frozen to death."

Jason sat up and looked around, fearfully. "Did you see that—that ghost?" he asked.

"Ghost? No, and I don't expect to. You wouldn't either if—"

"I tell you, I'm not drunk. All I had was cider—"

"At Hawkins', I'll be bound. No wonder you're seeing things. His cider is enough to kill a horse."

Jason was about to make a retort, when he stopped, suddenly. At his side lay something long and white and stiff. He eyed it with horror.

"Is that your ghost?" demanded Jackson, following his gaze. "It's a woman's nightgown, frozen hard, that the wind blew off somebody's line."

"See if it has a name on it," suggested Jason, with white lips.

Jackson examined the piece of heavy muslin and said, "Yes, it's Brockett's."

That settles it," said Jason.

"Settles what?"

Jason said no more. Of what use was it to explain that the nightgown had not been carried about by the wind, but that the ghost of Mrs. Brockett had guided it? He never crossed the cemetery again. But, then, he didn't have to. He married Jeanne shortly after.

The Feminine.

"I dreamed of you last night, Dorothy."

"What dress was I wearing?"

The Soul of a Musician

By Phil Moore

ANGELO examined his tiny shop with satisfied eyes. Even Carlotta, whose pictured likeness smiled down from the wall above, could discover no hidden dirt at which to shake her curly head. Every shoe, freshly soled, lay beside its mate with a precision that could command only an approving smile.

At the thought of his Carlotta's smile Angelo's own deepened. Surely he had reason to be happy, for had she not consented to share the cosy home which adjoined his little workshop? Everything was in shining readiness now, from the nails in the tin box on the shelf of the patches of uncut leather heaped carefully beside them.

Picking up a forgotten shoe, he reluctantly went on with his work. Ah! It was so hard to work when one was in love! Rather would he have played Carlotta's songs on the cherished violin which lay in its worn case under the counter. Cobbler by trade, with the soul of a musician, was Angelo.

A slight noise outiside caused him to look up. Yes, there they were again, those two young people, boy and girl, who met daily beneath the swinging sign which proclaimed him the finest shoemaker in that part of the city. Made generous by his own happiness. Angelo's heart warmed to them as he saw the girl slip both her hands into the outstretched ones of the boy. He was singing to her, as they strolled off together, and the cobbler, the shoe again lying forgotten on the floor, leaned forward to catch the words:

"Oh, promise me that some day you
and I
Will take our love together to some
sky."

After they had disappeared, he sat motionless a moment, then, reaching down, he released the violin from its case, and tucked the instrument lovingly under his chin. A few minutes later the first haunting bars of Alan-a-Dale's love song floated out into the silent street, and passing women, nodding wisely at each other, whispered, "There! Angelo is dreaming of his Carlotta again!"

For weeks Angelo watched the girl and the boy as they met daily outside his little shop. One morning the boy slipped a ring over the girl's finger, and he never forgot her face, as she bent to kiss the gem which gleamed on her left hand like an imprisoned dewdrop.

Then, one dull day, the girl walked by alone. She was crying, and her face was pale and careworn As she turned the corner the boy met her. He, too, seemed strangely old, and there was a new hardness in his eyes. They passed each other silently, with averted glances, and Angelo saw the girl's lips quiver as she hurried resolutely on. It was then he noticed that the ring was no longer on her finger.

Day after day Angelo watched anxiously, but vainly, for some sign of reconciliation. Surely they could not endure this torture forever. Suppose this were he and Carlotta who passed each other with defiant looks and aching hearts! The very thought seemed unbearable!

Gazing at the picture one morning, when the sun's rays were gilding the shabby frame. Angelo read a message in the smiling eyes. "We must hope for success, Carlotta," he whispered, "I shall wait for them to pass."

It was late afternoon before Angelo saw the girl. She approached slowly, and the shoemaker knew by the tired droop of her young shoulders that there had been no patching up of the quarrel. From the other direction the boy was coming, and Angelo, carefully gauging the distance concluded that they would meet in front of his shop. Quickly he pulled his violin from its shabby case, and slid the resined bow softly over the strings. Then, as his two friends advanced, he began to play the strains which they both loved.

"Oh, promise me that some day you
and I
Will take our love together to some
sky."

The melody drifted out into the quiet street, but this time no old women nodded wisely and whispered together. Only the boy stopped uncertainly as he reached the doorway, a puzzled look on his face. The girl hesitated, too, and involuntarily stretched out a hand in mute appeal.

Angelo, playing as if inspired, swung into the second verse:

"Oh, promise me that you will take my hand,
The most unworthy in this lonely
land."

As if answering the plaintive cry of the violin, the boy stepped up to the girl and took her hand in one of his. There was no need for words. With a tremulous smile she gave him her other, and together they strolled by the open door.

When he had finished playing, Angelo looked cautiously out. A few yards up the street he glimpsed his two friends. The old light was back in the girl's eyes, and the hardness gone from boy's. Hand in hand they strolled on, absorbed, content in a world of their own creating.

Angelo watched them out of sight, then turned back to his shop with a relieved sigh.

"They will never know what made them stop," he said softly. "To them it will always be a mystery."

Reluctantly he picked up an old piece of leather, then dropped it again, smiling guiltily up at his reproachful Carlotta. Ah, yes! It was hard to mend shoes when one was in love!

"You say you are perfectly normal."

"Yes."

"Do you light your cigarette with your right hand?"

"Yes."

"That's not normal, most people use a match"

Athletic Policies At Penn State To Undergo Revision

Penn State Will Abandon Athletic Scholarships After October 1

(International News Service)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Aug. 24.—Drastic revisions of the athletic policies of Pennsylvania State College, particularly with reference to football, were announced today by the new board of control of athletics.

Abolition of all athletic scholarships after October 1, and the immediate and total abandonment of football "scouting", was contained in the board's decision. The board's membership comprises one trustee, five alumni, five faculty members and three students.

MAKE REPORT OF ACCIDENTS

Two Auto Mishaps Are Reported To Police Headquarters

Ben Owens of 238 West Moody avenue, reported to the police authorities on Tuesday that he was driving south on North Jefferson street at Wallace avenue, when a city truck driven by W. D. Barber, made a turn to go west on Wallace avenue, without making the proper signal and his machine crashed into the truck, doing some damage. His sister, Mrs. Whitesides, who was riding with him, was injured.

William Kinney of 1104 Croton avenue, reported Tuesday that he was going west on Washington street at Mill, when a car bearing Pennsylvania license T-3183 going east on Washington street ran into the rear of his machine, doing some damage.

Lita Grey Chaplin To Fight Against Paying Receivers

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 24.—Facing the prospect of paying $35,000 to the receivers of Charles Chaplin's property, tied up during her recent suit for divorce, Lita Grey Chaplin and her attorneys prepared today to appeal the $45,000 award to W. I. Gilbert and Herman Spitzel, the receivers.

Under terms of the $825,000 property settlement reached by the comedian and Mrs. Chaplin before the granting of an interlocutory decree of divorce, Chaplin agreed to pay only $10,00 receivers' fee. The remaining $35,000, therefore, will fall upon Mrs. Chaplin, it was said.

C. E. Union Will Have Weiner Roast

Event Will Take Place On Friday Evening At The Sherer Farm Near Mt. Jackson

Final plans for the Christian Endeavor Union weiner roast to be held at the Sherer farm between Bessemer and Mt. Jackson on Friday evening, August 26, at 7:30, have been completed.

The entertainment committee has arranged a very fine program that will be interesting to all who attend.

The committee has been fortunate in securing the services of Miss Lena B. Kelley, head of the state efficiency department, who will speak at this time.

Directions for those leaving town will be posted along the road.

Postpone Hearing Of Former Head Of Mercer Co. Concern

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 24.—The case of R. P. McCann, former president of the Mercer Iron and Coal Company, for which a receiver has been appointed, scheduled for Thursday, August 25, has been postponed until September 8, on the federal court calendar, it was learned today.

The receivers issued a rule to have McCann appear to state reasons why he should not be adjudged in contempt of court for alleged failure to turn over the books and records of the company.

A partial hearing was held some time ago.

LAWYER GOLFERS GO TO SHARON FRIDAY

The Lawrence county lawyer golf team goes to Sharon Friday to meet the Mercer county lawyers in match play, instead of today, as previously announced. This is one of the scheduled contests between the lawyers of Lawrence, Mercer, Beaver and Butlar counties.

County Dairymen Make Tour Today

Three Important Dairy Farms In Lawrence County Are Visited

The Lawrence county dairy tour was conducted today. Dairymen from this part of the county left the Farm Bureau office on South Croton avenue at 10:15, eastern standard time, for the farm of N. E. Sampson, on the New Castle-Mercer ash road, where the tour started at 10:30.

After inspecting the dairy farm there, they left for the J. B. Elder farm, near there. An inspection was made at this place also.

The dairymen left the Elder farm for the Dr. Fred Taylor farm near Pulaski, arriving at the latter place about noon. Here a basket lunch was served the tourists.

After dinner, an inspection of the farm and a discussion took place. S. J. Brownell and J. B. R. Dickey, of the Pennsylvania State college, gave talks at this time.

Rev. H. J. Boyd At Oak Grove Church

Rev. H. J. Boyd of New Wilmington, returned missionary from Egypt, will occupy the pulpit Sunday morning, August 28, at 10:30 in the Oak Grove United Presbyterian church.

Rev. Boyd will be a candidate for the pulpit which has been vacant since the resignation of Rev. C. G. Kenneweg, who sailed from New York City on August 5, for Abbyssinia, where he will engage in foreign missionary work.

Sagging Socks Bid Farewell

College Boys And Prototype Have Had Enough Of Fad

And now it is the time to write the Saga of the Sagging Sock, since socks are doomed to sag no more, even among the most collegiate of our young townsmen.

For now, in spite of the "Joe College" styles, men and young men are rushing frantically to haberdashers, and as frantically they are waving dollar bills, to be exchanged in part for the means by which the coverings for their pedal extremities may be held in place. And thereby hangs the tale.

Business in garters, masculine garters, report many of the local men's wear dealers, is picking up; in fact, it never was better than it is now. Joe College, or his prototype, no longer craves the messy feeling about the ankles.

Fancy colorings are desired. Flashy purples, stripes and even dots may be purchased, for a price. Only a few want- the- old- fashioned solid colors now.

"Yes," answered one merchant, "it is almost impossible for a man to be well dressed without garters—and suspenders."

Which brings us around to the fact that suspenders are now more popular with young men than they ever were before.

And again, in suspenders, the colorings are many and varied. Brilliant blues and reds clash; silvers and greens mix, and the collegiate trousers are held up better than ever before.

TRUMPET STOLEN FROM AN AUTO

Thomas Hartman of East New Castle, according to the report made to the police, had a fine Trumpet stolen from the rear of his automobile while it was parked in the rear of the Highland Market, where he is employed. Boys were seen in the vicinity of the car and the police are following a good clue as to the identity of the boys and hope to make an arrest.

If perpetual motion were to be discovered in these days of startling progress it would be accepted as a matter of course.

BROWN WINS HIGH HONOR

New Castle Boy Gets Highest Award At Culver Military Academy.

The highest award of the Culver summer woodcraft school, the gold C, was awarded to Jonathan Brown of Winter avenue, at the final council of that camp.

The gold C is annually awarded to those woodcrafters who pass about 40 designated tests. Only once before has this medal been awarded to a new man in the camp and that was several years ago.

At the council Brown also received an award for excellence in radio and a discipline award.

The Culver school of woodcraft is the third department of the Culver summer schools and is devoted to Scout work. Its members, boys from 12 to 15, are all members of the Boy Scouts of America.

This is the second time in as many years that a New Castle boy has received recognition in the Culver summer schools, last year's best new member of the Culver summer black horse troop being a New Castle boy.

Former New Castle Boy Is Promoted

George A. Fitzgerald Given Important Post On Grand Trunk System

George A. Fitzgerald, who started with the Pennsylvania railroad in New Castle in 1905 as office boy and later telegraph operator, has been promoted to the position of special representative of the Grand Trunk railway system, reporting direct to the assistant general manager.

He will have his headquarters in the capitol city of Michigan, Lansing, and will travel from that point.

Mr. Fitzgerald started work for the Grand Trunk system in 1925 as chief clerk in the freight department at Lansing. Sir Henry Worth Thornton, K. B. E., is president of the Grand Trunk railway system and Mr. Fitzgerald started his railroad career under Sir Henry when he was division superintendent of the Pennsylvania at New Castle.

Roaming Round With Richards.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

If you've never been out through the limestone quarries around Hillsville, you've missed a lot on your driving. You'll get covered with dust perhaps, your throat will feel dry and a little dust will land on your car, but it's a great sight withal. Huge holes in the earth where the giant shovels have sunk their hungry maw. There isn't much foliage out there, but those huge limestone deposits spell money and work and prosperity.

Here's a laugh. The Printers baseball team took on the Wilder-Conover team the other night in what is alleged to have been a ball game. The third baseman for the Wilder-Conover outfit must have had a murderer's complex or something for one of the first balls pitched to him he crashed flush through the windshield of an automobile. The boys took up a collection for the damage and the game went on. The next time up the third baseman socked another one and it too went through a windshield. No collections. The printers claimed they were broke.

Monday afternoon somebody had the report out around the city that Jess Willard was visiting his wife's aunt out near Mount Jackson. In order to verify it I get sent out there and Miss Margaret Evans, Mrs. Willard's aunt, said there was nothing to the rumor. Now will the lad who started that rumor lay off any more?

There certainly was no pun intended but it still is a fact that the first article on the art requisition lists for the public schools for next year is Banana Oil. As Milt Gross would say it, "dunt esk".

Another lawyer is back from Canada. Attorney Robert L. Wallace got home from a fishing trip spent up near Winnipeg, Canada, nearly 1,000 miles west of Toronto. Has a face full of tan and a lot of stories.

Out at the Field club these days there's a bitter war raging. The annual fall tournament for the club championship is on and the boys are out for blood. Golf, you know, is a game where you start from the first tee with a smile on your face and murder in your heart.

It has its fascination. Most any Saturday afternoon you can see a quarter of a million dollars worth of automobiles parked there, while 60 or 80 Tired Business Men are walking around a course with $10,000 or $15,000 worth of clubs in their hands, knocking little white balls around.

I guess I'm still a yokel. A minstrel band was on Washington street yesterday at noon. Red uniforms, flashing brass instruments and along with a lot of other yokels I stood on the corner and listened. Some day I may be too old to get a kick out of a minstrel band but that's 78 years away yet, I hope.

If there is any individual in the city any busier than Jimmy Daly these days he must be twins. Jimmy is assembling the souvenir booklet for the dedication of St. Mary's church and he has done a splendid piece of work. When it's finished it will be worth saving.

Friday is the day when the kids of the playgrounds have their last day of the playground season. The women back of the playground movement always throw a picnic in Gaston Park for the youngsters and Friday is the day. But the ladies are a little short on funds for the eats, which is altogether too tough. What a fine opportunity this would be for a lot of the boys around town to kick in with any part of $100, the amount needed for the ice cream. If you're interested send it to Miss Phyllis Beal on Leasure avenue.

MRS. ARMSTRONG TO SING SUNDAY

Welsh Folks Plan To Honor Her —Other News Notes Of Interest

By W. A. JOHNS

The large audience at the service of the Emmanuel Baptist church was very sorry that illness came to Mrs. Sue Harvard Armstrong, who was to give her service free last Sunday evening. A few didn't notice in the paper of Mrs. Armstrong's illness, which was the reason for her postponing the date. A good crowd was present, fully prepared to enjoy the sweet songs that Mrs. Armstrong sings. She is always welcomed by the people of New Castle, although there is an old saying that "the prophet never receives honor in his own town."

A good many of us remember her when she started out on her career. She sang many times at the different eisteddfods and also in our own city. Some of the prophets at that time forecasted a bright and happy future for her. She has fulfilled our expectations. Mrs. Armstrong has become one of the greatest singers in the world.

We are very glad to hear that she will sing next Sunday evening.

John Hughes of Woodlawn, and a heavy property owner in this country, was in New Castle on business last week.

William Harvard of Warren, O., was in this city last week. While here he visited his sister, Mrs. Sue Harvard Armstrong, and her husband, of New York; also his father, who has been ill for some time.

Tom Bowen, who has been staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Johns of Park avenue for some time, will sail from New York for Wales on August 26. He will return shortly after Christmas after making an extensive visit with his sisters. While in this country Mr. Bowen's father passed away. Mr. Bowen will also visit France, London and other large cities. His friends, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Johns, will accompany him to New York City.

Mrs. William M. Francis of Edgewood avenue has been permitted to leave the New Castle hospital.

Mrs. Thomas Morgan of Hanna street and Mrs. William Merriman of Long avenue are still at the New Castle hospital under the care of some of the best physicians in this city. The friends of the two women are looking for a speedy recovery.

One of the most noted young radio fans in this city is Lincoln Thomas, the youngest son of Llewellyn Thomas, and a student at the local high school. Lincoln has just finished building a fine radio set.

The Welsh people of this community are to be honored soon. Another great and powerful preacher from Wales is coming here. He is Rev. J. J. Morgan, who is on a preaching tour of the United States. He will deliver a Welsh sermon at the First Congregational church tomorrow evening. This service will begin at 7:30 p. m. and will probably be attended by a great many Welsh people of this city.

American tourists spent $761,000,000 in Europe and other foreign lands last year. They'll have enough over there pretty soon to start up another war.

New Castle Business College
Office open daily. A great many ambitious young people will enter our school on September 6th. We are expecting many more enrollments this week.
Day and night sessions. Commercial, Secretarial and Stenographic subjects. School begins Tuesday, September 6.

Opinions Differ Upon Outcome Of Flights Over Pacific Ocean

"Now, this flying question: what do you think?" was asked to several of the prominent business men this morning. "Do you think that the men who risked their lives in trying to reach Hawaii or to fly from Europe to the United States are heroes, or do you think that they were foolish?"

"Well", answered one man, "it seems to me they were very foolish. Everyone knows that the airplane is not yet perfected to the place where men can go on long jumps as did Nungesser and Coli, without risking their lives. And what do they get out of it? Nothing is what I say. They may bask in the eye of the public acclaim for a short time, but that is all. They have not contributed to the sum of human knowledge. No, they have just risked their necks, and all for nothing."

And many were of that opinion. Flying, they say, while the coming thing, is not to be taken so seriously yet. There is still too much danger, and lives of trained pilots are far too precious to waste them in making any grandstand plays. Air derbies, they declare, such as that which was recently held on the Pacific coast, in which the fliers tried to reach Hawaii, are nothing but foolishness. They amount to nothing, and when they do reach their goals, if at all, what have they accomplished? Well, nothing.

Others, men with vision, hold different views. They say that the men who so risk their lives are heroes of the highest sort.

"The men who made the first trans-Atlantic hop," said one man, "are pioneers, much as our forefathers who journeyed across the continent in covered wagons, are pioneers. I am referring to Alcott and Brown, the two Englishmen, who in 1919 crossed the Atlantic in 16 hours and 12 minutes. Then there is Charles Lindbergh. He is another hero and I believe that he should be classed above Alcott and Brown because he did his stunt absolutely alone, although it must be admitted that he had a better plane than did the Englishmen.

"And the fliers who lost their lives in attempting the trans-oceanic flights; well, they are like so many of the early explorers who attempted to cross the same bodies of water several centuries earlier, and were lost. They are real heroes."

NEW GALILEE

Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Schueler, Paul Schueler, Elinor Reid, Edna Clayton and Mr. and Mrs. George Aten, motored to Fredericktown and had dinner along the creek.

Opposition To Legion Delegates Grows In France

PARIS, Aug. 24.—Gathering opposition to participation by Frenchmen in the program of the American Legion convention to be held here next month was indicated in events today growing out of demonstrations and rioting over the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti.

The Mayor of Lille has informed the ministry of the interior that that city will not participate in any friendly manifestations for the Legion on September 19, when the Legion stages its parade.

Next President?

Mrs. John F. Sippel

Who will be the next president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs? To date two women have announced their candidacy. Mrs. John F. Sippel of Baltimore, and Mrs. Edward F. White of Indianapolis. Mrs. Sippel has the endorsement of the Maryland Federation, of which she was once president and now represents as director in the general federation. The question will be decided at the biennial election in San Antonio, Tex., next spring with Mrs. John D. Sherman, present incumbent, presiding.

Moosemann Speaks To Delegates At Catholic Session

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—Divorce, flanked by the disrespect of children for parents, the loss of faith among men, and a disregard of religion, is the chief threat against the security of church, home and state, declared Rev. Charles F. Moosemann, Pittsburgh, speaking at the annual banquet of the Catholic Verein delegates to the national convention meeting here.

Today's session of the convention includes a mass of thanksgiving in St. Peter's church.

The organization plans to raise an endowment fund of $250,000 for the operation of a social service bureau among Americans of German descent and naturalized Germans.

Scientific Trade Boosting Service Organized By Commerce Department

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Expansion of the domestic trade promotion division of the commerce department, to bring it up to the standard established by the foreign service, is planned by Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

With foreign trade promotion well developed, department experts are turning their attention to creation of a scientific service in production, distributing and marketing, that business panics will be a thing of the past.

Hoover and Dr. Frank Surface, head of the new service, probably will appear before hearings of the Budget Bureau and congressional appropriations committee to seek additional funds to meet the rapidly increasing demands of business.

Make Market Survey

Surface announced that the department is about to launch a regional market survey in the Upper Mississippi valley, including northern Indiana, Northern Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, western Michigan and possibly parts of neighboring states.

Experts will be sent to this territory to make a study of production, distribution, and other marketing conditions. The report will be made available to business interests.

Business men in Detroit, Pittsburgh and Ohio have requested a survey of that territory. It probably will be undertaken after the Mississippi survey is completed.

Expanding Production

An investigation of marketing in southern California, Utah, Arizona and New Mexico will be finished in the fall. Results of a New England and South Eastern survey will be announced soon.

Rapidly expanding production which for agricultural and industry probably will pass $65,000,000,000 this year, has necessitated a comprehensive investigation of the entire American distribution system.

With the large production the commerce department found a heavy increase in distribution costs, a portion of which may be eliminated by application of scientific methods. Among the greatest factors in high prices is the distribution cost, in the opinion of experts.

The department's service to commerce will take the form of cooperation in the investigation of many technical and economic problems, submitted by business, and in the general study of production, distribution, marketing and sales methods.

Massachusetts Makes Big Plans For 300th Bay Colony Anniversary

By FRANCIS R. MURPHY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BOSTON, Aug. 24.—The 300th anniversary of the founding of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, in 1930, will be the greatest civic celebration ever held in Massachusetts preparatory plans now crystallizing indicate. It is the intention of the tercentenary committee that the colony celebration will be statewide in scope.

The committee which has conducted the activities leading to the celebration will eventually be succeeded by an incorporated association with permanent officers and a settled plan of action. The permanent organization will have a general council of twenty-one members from various sections of the commonwealth, and at least a dozen departments to be formed on the basis of the work of the many committees.

A board of trustees acting in a supervisory capacity will have among its members persons whose names are significant of early Colonial days. Frederic Winthrop, a descendant of Governor John Winthrop, to whom history gives much credit for leading the Bay Colony through many years of its existence, and thereby influencing both New England and national development, will be chairman of the board.

The vice chairman will be William C. Endicott, whose ancestor of the Bay Colony period was Governor John Endicott who led the settlers upon their arrival in 1630 and after wards.

Governor Alvan T. Fuller and other state officials, mayors of cities and scores of representatives of civic, religious and industrial associations are working with the committees.

Representatives of Cardinal William O'Connell, archbishop of Boston and Rt. Rev. Charles L. Slattery, Bishop of Massachusetts are on the committee. Others include Rabbi Harry Levi representing the Jewish faith.

Magnesia Best for Your Indigestion

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diets, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestants,and instead, following the advice so often given in these columns, take a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bisurated Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation, and make digestion easy. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get Bisurated Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.

BUICK for 1928

Buick for 1928 gets away in traffic like an arrow from a bow!

Watch the Buicks next time you drive downtown. See how easily they step out in front when the signal changes. And note how they give other cars the slip in the friendly rivalry of traffic.

Truly amazing performance! But amazing only in comparison with other cars. For in every phase of performance Buick for 1928 is equally adept—in the ease with which it attains, and maintains, the highest speeds—in the way it breasts the steepest hills—and in the way it ignores sand, deep mud and rough going.

Every day, in every city in the land, Buick for 1928 is demonstrating the superiority of the famous Buick Valve-in-Head engine—the engine that is vibrationless beyond belief.

You cannot say you know the full meaning of "performance" until you've driven a Buick for 1928. The nearest Buick dealer will gladly arrange a trial.

COMMANDER OF STATE POLICE DIRECTS HUNT

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 24.—Under the direction of Major Lynn Adams, commander of the state police, the search for the slayer of state trooper J. J. Downey, or Norristown, was renewed today.

Twenty-seven arrests have been made since Downey was shot down near Acmetonia last Monday while dispersing a group of Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers, but none answers the description of the slayer.

A local mortuary sent Downey's body to Norristown last night for burial. Members of Troop A, state police, stationed at Greensburg, will be relieved from duty today to form a guard of honor at Downey's bier. He was a member of Troop A.

"Do you know him personally?"

"Know him? Say, I taught him everything he knows."

Eight Mines Are Reopened Today

Former Union Mines In Three Counties Reopen On Non-union Scale

(International News Service)

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Aug. 24.—Quiet prevailed today throughout the coal region of Cambria, Clearfield and Indiana counties where eight former union mines were reopened on the non-union basis. No disorders have been reported at any of the operations.

While, there was no announcement from the operators, it was the general belief that other mines in the region soon are to be reopened on the same basis. The wage scale corresponds to the 1917 union agreement.

The mines reopened yesterday Clymer No. 1 and the Barr mine at Dixonville, owned by the Clearfield Bituminous Coal & Coke corporation; the Aracadia mine and the Side mine of the Pennsylvania Coal & Coke corporation and the Clymer mine of the Rembrandt Peale company, all in Indiana county; the Pennsylvania Coal & Coke company mine at Nanty-Glo and the Rembrandt Peale mine at Nanty-Glo, in Cambria county, and the Madera Hill Coal Mining company mine at Houtzdale in Clearfield county.

LAWRENCE INDIES DEFEAT RYANTOWN

Third Game Is Hard Fought

Russu Outpitches Winters As Indies Annex Important Series Victory.

KAUFMAN FEATURES WITH HOME RUN

The Lawrence Indies were a step nearer the Twilight League Championship today, following their 6 to 4 victory last night at Centennial field over the Ryantown club. The game was halted in the eighth inning on account of darkness.

The third game was a hard fought affair, with the pitchers showing to advantage. Russu on the rubber for the Indies opposed Winters, and earned the verdict by a steady exhibition of hurling. Russu was touched for ten hits and Winters yielded but nine safe blows.

The series now stands two victories for the Lawrence Indies and one for Ryantown. The Ryantown team smote their way to victory in the first battle of the series and the Indies came back and took the third game by a big margin .The teams will play t.. best out of five for the flag. The Indies must win again on Thursday night to win the championship.

Russu Effective.

So effective was Russu with men on bases that the Ryantown team was unable to tally until the first half of the eighth inning, when they got to the Indies twirler for enough hits to produce four tallies. The Indies rode Winters for two runs in the first chapter, one in the second and third, and two more in the eighth.

Kaufman was the feature hitter of the battle with a home run drive. Russu the Indies pitcher helped his mates considerable with two doubles. White and Price also hit timely for the winners. For the Ryantown team the batting of Ryan, Costello and Winters was a bright feature.

The Indies had two errors and the Ryantown boys kicked in with a lone misplay.

Russu fanned seven batters and Winters had eight strikeouts to his credit. Winters was just a little wild passing five men, while Russu issued but one free ticket to the initial sack.

The fourth game of the series will be played on Thursday night at Centennial field.

For Rent: Grid Star

Morton "Devil May" Kaer, All-American and former University of Southern California football star, has decided to try the pro gridiron sport. He hasn't picked his team yet. Any eleven wanting a swell touchdown maker can start bidding right now.

Capt. V. A. Smith Equals Course Par

Makes Wonderful Showing In Spite Of Lengthened Hole In Course.

HAD SIMILAR SCORE DURING LAST SEASON

Captain V. Arthur Smith, professional at the golf course of the New Castle Field club, who has for some time enjoyed the reputation of being one of the best professional golfers in this district, has added to his already known ability by completing the course, one of the most difficult of this district, in 72 strokes, the present par of the course.

He made the course in 72 last season, but at that time the par of the course was but 71. This season a change has been made in hole No. 15, which added one stroke to its former par of 4, making the par of the hole 5. This of course increased the par of the course and made it just one stroke more difficult.

The hole up until this season was 400 yards in length. The green has been enlarged this season and 110 yards added to the length of the drive to the hole, making it 510 yards in all. While the drive for the hole is longer, it makes the hole more pleasing to play for and the change is meeting with the approval of the golfers of the club.

It is planned that next season a similar change be made in hole No. 16, which has a par of 4 at the present time. The tee for this change is prepared but everything will not be in readiness until next season.

In equalling the present par of the course, Captain Smith showed rare form. In going out in the first nine holes he took 38 strokes, two more than the par of these nine holes. On the return, however, he developed better form and bettered the par of these nine holes by two strokes, making it in 34. This enabled him to equal the par of the course.

The new par of the course is as follows:

Out .....4-3-4-4-5-4-3-5-4—36
In .....4-4-4-3-4-5-4-4-4—36—72

The score made by Captain Smith follows:

Out .....5-3-5-4-5-4-3-5-4—38
In .....4-3-4-3-3-5-4-4-4—34—72

Buckeyes Trim Mail Carriers

The Buckeye baseball team defeated the Mail Carriers by a score of 10 to 5 in their game last night at the Buckeye field.

H. Plant on the mound for the Buckeye boys allowed the Mail Carriers but three hits and fanned seven batters. The Buckeye boys pounded Wilson and McCann for a total of 17 hits.

Riecks-Radiators Battle Tonight

The Rieck-McJunkin baseball team and the National Radiator Stars will battle tonight at the Radiator field. The game is scheduled for 6 o'clock daylight savings time.

Manager Tommy Blake was confident today that his ice cream makers could take the measure of the Colored Stars, while Manager Bradley was equally confident that his team could stop the wild rush of the Riecks.

Turco will likely pitch for the Rieck team with Wayman as the moundsman for the Radiators.

Stars To Play Clifton Flats

The Italian All-Stars will play the Clifton Flats club at Centennial field on Friday night at six o'clock.

This is the second game of the three-game series between the two teams. The Flats team gained a victory in the first game of the series by a score of 4 to 2. The All-Stars hope to come back on Friday night and avenge the setback.

Big Ten Will Watch Indiana

Hoosier State School Now Takes Football Seriously

Indiana University expects great help from these fellows in her attempt to get out of the Big Ten back woods this season. The men are: (1) Bennett, (2) Garrison, (3) Byers, (5) Salmi, (6) Stephenson, (7) Harrell, (8) Randolph. No 4 is Coach Pat Page.

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Aug. 24.—At last Indiana University is going to make her big try for Western Conference football honors.

Tired of being the doormat of the Big Ten, year in and year out, the Hoosiers this fall will step out and make a serious bid for mid-west gridiron glory.

Too long has the Crimson suffered the stigma of being just a "social" school, a place where proms outranked punts. The Hoosiers mean business and this year they've got the best chance they've had in many seasons to show their stuff.

First of these is Coach Pat Page. The dynamic Page has been at the Hoosier school but one year. However, he already has the institution football mad. Student body and alumni remember Page's remarkable work at Butler, when he gave that small school such a fine team that it humbled proud Illinois one year.

Plenty of Material

At Page's call this fall 18 seasoned veterans will step on the field, accompanied by a host of other material. He has 11 veteran linesmen from which to build his forward wall. However, the backfield is where the class really is. Six seasoned backs return.

The return of Vic Salmi, clever left-handed quarter, who piloted I. U. in 1925, has caused Hoosier hopes to soar. Salmi is regarded as one of the best signal callers in the Big Ten and he should prove a tower of strength this fall.

Other backs are the capable "Chuck" Bennett, last season's outstanding ball carrier; Paul Harrell, another halfback; Deak Garrison and W. R. Stephenson, who have shone at quarter, and that fleet-footed ground gainer, Herman Byers.

Among other talent the line possesses Clare Randolph and Bob Matthews, who will fight it out for center; Art Hellman, Bill Moss and Jewett Hull, tackle candidates; a likely end in Ralph Weaver, and burly Lou Briner, who looks good for a guard.

Hard Schedule

If Indiana makes good this year it won't be at the expense of weak teams. Page has lined up the most formidable schedule in many years for the Crimson. Indiana must wade through Minnesota, Purdue, Chicago and Northwestern for a claim at the Big Ten title.

Then there is Harvard, Notre Dame, Michigan State and Kentucky State to keep the squad busy on other Saturdays.

In their march this fall the Hoosiers will smack up against three all-Americans in Joesting of Minnesota, Flanagan of Notre Dame and Wilcox of Purdue.

Yessir, this Indiana University is going to bear watching.

Toronto Pitcher Holds Reading To No-Runs, No-Hits

(International News Service)

TORONTO, Aug. 24.—John Prudhomme, right hand pitcher of the Toronto club of the International league, occupies a niche in the hall of fame today. He twirled a no-hit, no-run game against Reading here. Four Reading batters reached first-base on passes. Toronto won easily, 14 to 0.

EPWORTH FORFEITS

The Epworth M. E. team forfeited their game to the First M. E. team in the scheduled battle at Colonial field on Tuesday night. This victory gives the First Methodist team the league leadership.

SORDS POINTS

Sees Series Divvy Go By And Smiles

The New York Giants, thanks to a better brand of pitching and general all-around play, seem set to share in the first division money of the oncoming world series.

The members of the team can therefore begin to wax somewhat jubilant. The members of four other clubs have varying chances of enjoying the same added emoluments.

The members of the Boston Braves have no such chance spurring them on. The next ball game is just another afternoon's labor for them.

Wherefore Eddie Farrell, young infielding star of the team, deserves a lot of praise.

While we're raving about the stars of the leading teams—the men who have the stage all set for them to star, let's consider Eddie's case.

Three summers ago, while playing with the University of Pennsylvania team, Farrell drew the attention of the big league scouts. John McGraw was tipped off to him. The venerable leader was interested enough in Eddie to take him on a western road trip as his personal guest.

Two years ago last June, Farrell stepped to the place for his college diploma. Ten days later he joined the Giants. The future looked as bright for him as it had for Frankie Frisch and Travis Jackson.

Last year he broke into 67 ball games, holding down the shortstop post in 53 of them. He batted .286. His all around work was of high caliber, considering his experience.

The Giants, with the potential strength added in the acquisition of Hornsby, Roush, Grimes and others over the winter, seemed headed for the pennant—in the early dope. Farrell was as happy as the others.

Then, some weeks ago, McGraw decided to take steps to strengthen his team before the trading season ended. One of his first moves was to send Farrell to the Braves. A means toward an immediate end.

A tough blow for a young lad.

Farrell accepted the change gracefully. Sent into the regular lineup of the Braves he proceeded to play the brilliant ball McGraw knew he was capable of playing.

And he has kept it up.

And the added joys of world's series money and even being up there in the fight are denied him until the Braves are bolstered considerably or he is traded again—back to the Giants or some place.

New Castle Signs Four New Players For Game Tonight

New Castle Adds Strength To Lineup For Game With Massillon Tonight.

Frank Weimer Former Local Player Among Those To Cavort Here.

When the New Castle team takes the field against the Massillon Agathons tonight, they will be reinforced by the addition of four new players. The game tonight will start at 6:15 o'clock Daylight Savings time. The place is Centennial field.

The directors of the team announced today that the following members of the Coschocton team of the Eastern Ohio circuit would cavort here tonight in local uniforms: Frank Weimer, Frank Mills, Fitch and Nixon.

The return of Weimer the former hard hitting left-fielder of the locals will be welcomed by the fans. Weimer started the season here but left to play with the Eastern Ohio team.

"Bunny" Bernhler the Butler first sacker was forced to leave the New Castle team to report for football training and with the passing of the hard-hitting first baseman, it was necessary to scout around for another guardian of the initial station. Nixon former Castle Cord player and now with the Coschocton team was secured to fill the bill. Nixon is regarded as one of the best first-basemen in these parts.

"Goat' Fitch will cover the hot corner for the locals tonight. It is likely that Frank Mills the veteran major league catcher will go behind the bat with Bryan also ready to do his share of the catching if needed. Mills is the manager of the Coschocton team and consented to bring his star performer here tonight.

Hope For Victory.

The Castles are anxious to annex a victory over the Agathons tonight. The league race is not yet over and the locals have an outside chance now for the flag in the second half of the race. A victory tonight will send the local stock soaring.

The league leaders will come to New Castle imbued with the idea that they must down the Castles if they are to retain their leadership. It is likely that either Hart or Wetzel will be sent to the mound here tonight for the visitors. Manager Steen will use Jamieson or Feigert on the rubber was the indication.

The same two teams will battle here again on Saturday afternoon at Centennial field.

The Castles lineup for tonight will contain the following: Mills or Bryan, catch; Jamieson or Feigert pitch; Nixon first; Lawrence, second; Hunt, short; Fitch, third; Dunn left; Weimer center and DeMont in right.

Bloomer Girls Battle Tonight

The Buckeye Bloomer Girls team and the Shenango Pottery Bloomer maidens, will clash tonight at six o'clock at the Buckeye field.

Manager Slovonsky has Ponion, his star pitcher ready to work the game. The Buckeyes hope to chase the jinx that has been following them.

On Friday night the Buckeye boys play the Tin Mill team. On next Monday the Buckeye boys tackle the Shenango Pottery team. With the signing of Leanard Friedman, Geneva college star, the Buckeyes have an almost intact collegiate outfit, with—Friedman, Geneva; Brown, Allegheny; H. Plant, Temple; A. Plant, Westminster; Hartman, Carnegie Tech; and Zieve and Solomon, of Geneva.

Pitching for the Phillies in 1916 Grover Cleveland Alexander distinguished himself by shutting out every National League club at least once.

Sport Ritticisms

By BILL RITT

Maybe the reason it took so long to get Cyrus Wiley DeWitt Lebourveau's name on a big league contract was that they couldn't find a sheet of paper long enough.

What we'd all like to know is whether they have seeded entries in these watermelon eating tournaments.

Fidel L. Barba has deserted the prize ring for college in an effort to improve his mind. From resin to reason, eh?

Dempsey's friends are sore because the champ will pull down only 700,000 fish for the Chicago disturbance. Those birds would kick Santa Claus in the pants any old day.

Champ Gene will cut himself a $1,250,000 slice of the September pugilistic pie. Shucks, that's nothing. All we have to do to beat that is work 625 years at our present job.

These horseshoe pitchers must be a crooked lot. They use ringers in every game.

A new way for One-Eyed Connolly to crash the gate would be to fall on it in an airplane.

Leaders Face Crucial Games

Cubs Battle Phillies, Pirates In Boston; Detroit And Yanks Clash Today.

YANKEES SIGN HEAVYWEIGHT

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The Chicago Cubs, held even by Brooklyn and badly battered by Boston, are due for a welcome chance to diet today when they face the last-place Phillies. The Pirates, however, face tough opposition in Boston, as there is bitter feeling between the two teams because of the Smith-Bancroft feud.

In the only game played yesterday the St. Louis Cardinals advanced to within half a game of the Bucs by swamping the Phillies 13 to 3. The game was a home run orgy. Four St. Louis players, Blades, Hafey, Schuble and Sherdel, hit for the circuit. The Cards have won six out of seven on their eastern trip.

The Detroit Tigers, with just a Chinaman's chance of nosing out the Yankees, begin a series with the league leaders today. Detroit has won 13 straight and the Yanks have dropped four in a row, their longest losing streak of the season. Detroit's string of victories is the longest of the current season in the American league.

By winning 18 of their remaining 37 games, the Hugmen can reach 100 victories this season.

The Yankees are going in for pitchers in a big way. They have signed Ralph Birkover, 18-year-old Cincinnati amateur who weighs 220 pounds.

A novel plan in tournament play will be employed in the Western open golf championship which takes place at Olympia fields next month. All four of the courses will be used, giving the contestants the novel experience of playing 72 holes in a championship without hitting the same fairway twice.

Refuse Britton Right To Fight

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Jack Britton, former welterweight champion of the world, has lost his boxing license in New York state and will not be permitted to return to the ring against Georgie Levine here next Monday because he is "too old to fight." The New York boxing commission canceled Britton's license because he is forty-one years old, three years beyond the age limit.

Britton, who is still a good boxer, had planned a return to the ring to return losses suffered in Florida real estate speculations.

Pirates Out To Defeat Braves

Lee Meadows To Bear Brunt Of First Big Attack.

DOUBLE HEADER AGAINST OLD JINX

BOSTON, Aug. 24.—Revenge is the watchword in the camp of Donnie Bush and his Buccaneers, for today they will play two games with the Boston Braves. This is their last stand of the year on the Braves' field.

In the first pitching duel, Lee Meadows will be the twirler, and in the second Ray Kremer will work. For the Braves, Dave Greenfield and Bobby Smith will occupy the mound. Although Meadows beat the Braves twice this year, he lost the last time that he faced them, and so he is anxious to atone for this misfortune. Kremer has met the Boston outfit in two occassions, and both times he has been beaten.

Boston has been regarded as the worst jinx that the Pirates have contended all summer, but Donnie Bush points out that they were called upon to play the Braves when they were in their worst condition. Not once have the Pirates played the Braves except at a disadvantage, but today Donnie Bush will line up his men with the knowledge that they are better equipped for the gruelling affair than they ever have been in their previous clashes with the foe.

Warning his players that the Braves should not be looked upon as a despised second division outfit, Bush told his Pirates that they should look upon them as a worthy foe, and should bear down against them, just as they did with New York and Brooklyn.

Since invading the East, the Corsairs have won four games out of six played, and the Braves have captured four out of seven from the two Western intruders.

The exhibition game scheduled with New Haven yesterday was called off because of rain, and Donnie Bush and his Pirates set sail early for Boston, where they will play today.

A Coorful Athlete — By Feg Murray

So Duke Kahanamoku has turned pro at last! One of the most romantic and colorful of all athletes took the fatal step last month in Los Angeles, and, advertised as "the greatest swimming champion of all time", is giving a series of vaudeville performances. Right now, in connection with the United States men's national swimming championships at Honolulu he is giving a series of exhibitions in the city that claims him as its own and where he first became famous.

Ten years ago nearly all the free-style swimming records were held by Duke P. Kahanamoku, of the Hui Nai Club of Honolulu. One of the heroes of the 1912 Olympic games in Stockholm, his name was synonymous with speed swimming, and his marks were looked upon as the utmost in natatorial records. One hundred yards in 53 seconds, and 100 meters in one minute and one-fifth seconds were two of Duke's best performances before the young upstart from Chicago, Johnnie Weissmuller, erased them one by one from the books. As late as 1923, however, "the Duke", who is no nobleman at all, as it is often thought, was able to swim 50 yards in 22 3-5 seconds, which stands as the best on record for a short course.

In Hawaii they idolize Duke. Years ago they gave him a home of his own and the huge, bronzed native with his surf-board was one of the institutions at Waikiki that the visitors always saw and marveled at. I think that Duke's surf-board is his most cherished possession. Last year at Balboa Beach, California, he saved the lives of several shipwrecked sailors with it.

Next to swimming and its allied pleasures the Duke likes golf. I have been around with him as he played 18 holes and can testify that he uses his powerful arms and shoulders well in his efforts off the tee. "The Duke and his Uke" was a colorful figure as he played and sang his native melodies on the moonlit deck of the "Princess Matoika" that carried the 1920 Olympic team to Antwerp, but Kahanamoku, anywhere out of the water, seems out of his element. He is of the water, that man, and you'd swear he had gills and scales after once seeing him in action.

Amateur Golf Tourney Opens

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor Internat'l News Service

MINIKHADA CLUB, MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 24.—Off they go on the great adventure.

The first round of the national amateur golf championship was to be held on Minikhada course this morning and great was to be the excitement thereof. After a play-off in which seven out of eleven contestants were to qualify.

The Waikiki memorial tank at Honolulu, where the National A. A. U. swimming championships for men are to be held during the three days beginning August 24, is constructed in the ocean with a beautiful setting of palm trees. The pool measures 100 by 40 yards and is 10 feet deep at the ends and 18 feet deep around the diving towers in the center of the pool. The pool was constructed at a cost of $230,000. Surrounding it are seating accommodations for 7,000 spectators.

Energy-Bessemer Game Called Off

The Energy-Bessemer game scheduled for tonight in the Lawrence County league, has been postponed, according to word reaching this office today.

It is asked that Parks and Evans the umpires assigned to this game take notice of the postponement. The game was to have been played at Bessemer.

Branch Rickey, for many years a star baseball player and now vice president of the St. Louis Cardinals, has never played ball on Sunday, owing to a promise he made his mother when he started his career on the diamond.

NEW CHRYSLER 72

A Statement from Walter P. Chrysler:

In announcing the Illustrious New Chrysler "72" we are confident that our latest product is as great an advance over today's fine cars as was the famous "70" over the best of four years ago.

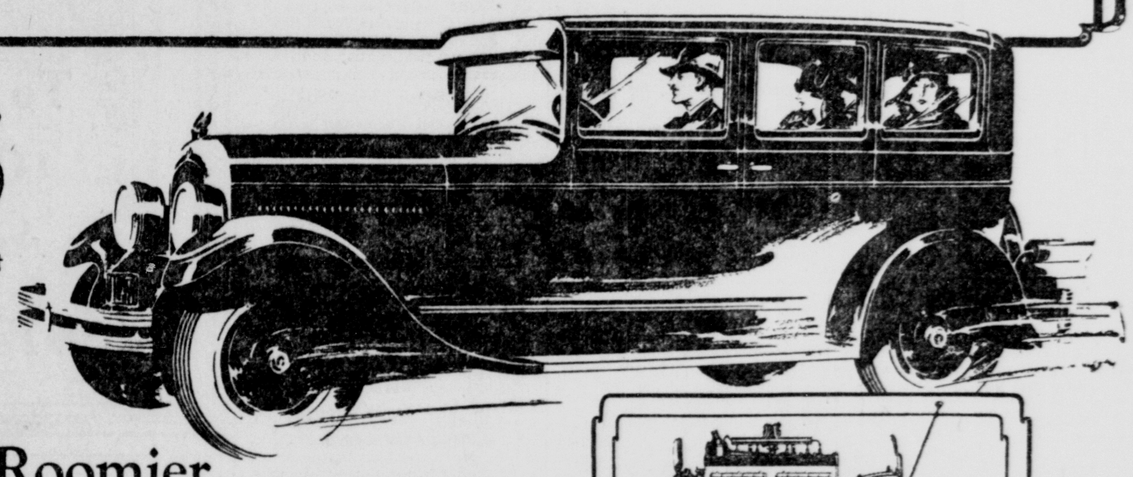

The New "72" is ultra modern—again setting new standards, establishing new results for the industry to follow.

The New Chrysler "72"—with the Great, New "62," the New "52," and the magnificent Imperial "80"—are Chrysler's covenant of faith with the public which has so generously demonstrated its faith in us.

Longer, Roomier, Faster, Handsomer

The Illustrious New Chrysler "72"—longer, roomier, faster and handsomer—but that tells only a touch of the "72" story.

For the first time, in a car costing less than $2000, the New "72" gives an engine of 75 horsepower, with counterweighted 7-bearing crankshaft and rubber engine mountings, to wipe out every last vestige of vibration.

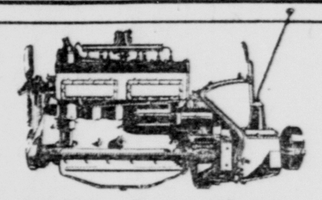

It gives you speed of 72 and more miles an hour, pick-up of 5 to 25 miles in 7 seconds, hill-climbing ability that sweeps you up even mountain grades at constant acceleration.

It gives you rubber shock insulators, pioneered with such great success in the Chrysler Imperial "80." The spring ends are anchored in blocks of live rubber, eliminating wear, noise and the need for lubrication. These insulators, with the special Chrysler spring suspension, result in riding smoothness hitherto unknown.

It gives you longer, more beautiful bodies, tastefully appointed, luxuriously roomy, and fully equipped with saddle-spring seat-cushions and adjustable steering wheel to give you the utmost in comfort.

It gives you a new low-swung grace, flowing lines, entrancing colors, which are an irresistible invitation to sit behind the wheel and feel for yourself the power its very appearance suggests.

Test it to your satisfaction in every conceivable manner. Only then can you appreciate just how much wider is the gap which the Chrysler "72" has placed between itself and all others in this class.

"Red-Head" Sets Chrysler Performance Farther Ahead

With the "Red-Head" engine, previous Chrysler ratios of fuel compression—which have always been higher than those for ordinary engines—are again increased.

The compressed gas volume in the cylinder now expands six times (as against four times in ordinary engines) before it is exhausted, adding immense vitality and brilliance in speed, acceleration and hill-climbing ability.

The "Red-Head" is standard on the roadsters of the Illustrious New "72," the Great, New "62," the New Chrysler "52" and the Sport Roadster of the Imperial "80." It is available at small extra cost for all other body models of these lines as well as for earlier Chrysler models now in the hands of owners.

Molla Mallory Has Strenuous Task In Tennis Tournament

By MALCOLM ROY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Mrs. Molla Bjursted Mallory, National Women's Lawn Tennis Champion, who is primed for a thrilling battle with Miss Helen Wills, of California, to retain her singles crown, seems destined to emerge from the week of championship play with at least one title to her credit for she with her partner, Miss Kea Bouman of Holland, is the outstanding favorite for the doubles title. The Dutch girl has demonstrated in her matches on this side of the Atlantic that she is a thoroughly capable player with a fine assortment of strokes and the physical ability to carry them through.

Play in the doubles tournament will begin this afternoon. Jupiter Pluvius permitting, and will be carried on simultaneously with the second round of the singles which was interrupted yesterday by rain.

In essaying the double role of playing in both series of matches Mrs. Mallory is undertaking an arduous campaign and physically is not in the best of condition. However, she is determined to go through with it even though it may handicap her in her prospective battle with Miss Wills for the major title. Miss Wills is not playing in the doubles.

Mrs. Mallory and Miss Bouman will play Mrs. H. B. Hawkes and Miss Edith Moore in the opening round of the doubles.

Miss Joan Fry and Miss Betty Nuthall, two of the best of the English players, will clash with Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, of Boston, former national champion and Miss Sarah Palfrey.

In the singles Mrs. Mallory will meet Mrs. William Endicott, Miss Gwendolyn Sterry, of England, will play Mrs. Anna F. Hubbard, of Belair, Md., and Miss Nuthall will meet Miss Gladys Hutchins, the Bermuda champion.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

FAILING TO DRIVE LEE'S ARMY FROM "THE WILDERNESS" BY A DIRECT ATTACK, GRANT ON MAY 8, 1864, MADE A FLANKING MOVEMENT AROUND THE CONFEDERATE RIGHT TOWARD SPOTSYLVANIA COURT HOUSE. LEE OBSERVED THIS MANEUVER, AND BEING CLOSER TO SPOTSYLVANIA, FELL BACK TO THAT PLACE AND THREW UP STRONG EARTHWORKS.

GRANT BELIEVED HE COULD BREAK THROUGH THE CONFEDERATE LINES BY WEIGHT OF SUPERIOR NUMBERS, AND ASSAULTED THE ENEMY'S WORKS. BUT LEE'S MEN STOOD THEIR GROUND, AND REPELLED ALL THE FEDERAL ATTACKS.

DESPERATE FIGHTING AT "BLOODY ANGLE."

ON MAY 12TH THE UNION ARMY MADE A GRAND ASSAULT ALL ALONG THE LINE. IT WAS A FAILURE AND COST GRANT 8,000 MEN, ALTHOUGH HANCOCK'S CORPS, AFTER AN EPIC STRUGGLE, SUCCEEDED IN GAINING PART OF THE ENTRENCHMENTS OF THE SALIENT IN THE CONFEDERATE CENTER KNOWN AS "BLOODY ANGLE."

BY MAY 21ST, GRANT'S LOSSES IN THE CAMPAIGN AMOUNTED TO 36,065, BUT HE WAS DETERMINED TO CONTINUE HIS "HAMMERING" TACTICS. IN A DISPATCH TO GEN. HALLECK, HE WROTE: "I PROPOSE TO FIGHT IT OUT ON THIS LINE, IF IT TAKES ALL SUMMER."

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Industrial stocks and high-priced specialties encountered considerable profit-taking in early trading today and were unable to continue the brilliant forward movement which was in progress at Tuesday's close. The oil stocks were also under the influence of the new price cuts in crude oil and the possibility of a cut in Pan-American's dividend, and prices in that section of the market were uniformly lower.

Baldwin Locomotive appeared to be in a position to develop the market "fireworks" forecasted for today in connection with a preliminary meeting of important stock-holding interests. Both Arthur Cutten of Chicago and the Fisher interests in Detroit will receive representation on the board at a formal meeting tomorrow, according to market rumors, and there is a keen inside demand for stock. On the first sale of 2,000 shares at 261, Baldwin showed a gain of 2 1-4 points from the previous day.
